Maryland girls will compete in pageant

Young girls from every county in the state of Maryland will have the opportunity to compete in the Miss Black Teenage Maryland finals, a preliminary to the Miss Black Teenage American Beauty Pageant.

The pageant is open to teenagers 13 to 16 years of age, who will not be 17 before August 1st. In order to qualify, they must be of good appearance, with a performing talent.

Miss Black Teenage Maryland pageant will take place on Saturday, July 3, at the Baltimore Civic Center. All interested organizations and businesses, contact Miss Black Teenage Committee, 1111 Park Ave., Suite 216, Baltimore, Md. 21201.

The national finals will be held in Atlanta, Ga., during the latter part of July.

The pageant will be under the direction of Alice Hille Jackson, formerly the associate producer of National Educational Television's popular series "Soul!"

Churchwomen to spend month in Africa

NEW YORK (UMI) — A team of United Methodist women leaders is scheduled to go to Africa in May for a month's study-visitation with churchwomen in several countries, particularly the Congo.

Sponsored by the Women's Division and World Division of the United Methodist Board of Missions, the team anticipates what are called "women-to-women" experiences, with focus on common concerns of African and American women.

The study-visitation by the six-member team has been arranged through the World Division's Office of Ministry to Women, of which Mrs. L. Maynard Catchings, New York and Montclair, N. J., is executive secretary. Mrs. Catchings, four elected members of the Women's Division, and a staff executive of the Women's Division comprise the team. They are scheduled to fly from New York May 6, and expect to return early in June.

• • •

Other team members are:

Mrs. Henry L. Haines, Portland, Oreg.; Mrs. A. W. Reddick, Oklahoma City, Okla.; Mrs. Edwin A. Ross, Dunkirk, Md.; Mrs. Harvey W. Winn, Trenton, N. J., all elected members of the Women's Division; Mrs. J. Boyd Tyrrell, New York and Fort Lee, N. J., assistant general secretary of the Women's Division.

The purpose of the study-visitation is twofold, according to Mrs. Catchings: For the team to attend the annual meeting of Women's Societies of Christian Service in the Congo and to involve women of the U. S. church in experiences and work of Congolese Christian women as reflected in church and society. The invitation to the Women's Division and World Division to send a team to the Congo came through the Women's Society of Christian Service in the Congo, and particularly from Mrs. Louise Onema, president of the Central Congo Conference Women's Society. She was one of seven leading churchwomen who comprised a special "Team of Women" representing churches in Asia, Africa and Latin America, and who attended several international United Methodist meetings in the U. S. last year.

According to travel plans, the team is to spend 14 days in the Congo, which will be the principal part of their study-visitation. On their schedule are attendance and participation in annual meetings of Women's Societies, visits to five training centers for women and girls, conferences with government and church leaders in the capital of Kinshasa.

They will also observe women's handcraft projects, and visit a Women's Division-supported leadership training program for women and girls in Lubumbashi and to the Free University of the Congo (Protestant-initiated) in Kisangani.

The whole team is also scheduled to visit Liberia and Zambia. In Liberia they will be guests of Liberia United Methodist Conference Women's Society leaders, and are to visit not only Monrovia (Liberia's capital), but also Ganta and other rural mission centers. In Zambia the team is to be briefed at the Mindolo Ecumenical Foundation, Kitwe, on concerns of women in southern Africa.
