Christ Church offers new togetherness

By PAM WIDGEON

An inter-racial and inter-denominational experiment in organizing a neighborhood church in the Homestead-Montebello area of Baltimore was voted support by the Board for Homeland Ministries of the United Church of Christ here today.

Huber Memorial United Church of Christ plans to unite with the Montebello Presbyterian Church, only a few blocks away, which has already closed its doors. The united church will be open to any other congregations wishing to join in a ministry to the community.

Huber Memorial, a traditionally white, older, middle class church in a 95 per cent black area, has been developing ministries to the neighborhood for some years.

With the addition of black leadership on an equal basis it will have "greater authenticity and effectiveness," according to the Rev. Robert C. Meissner, pastor of Huber Memorial.

The Rev. Dr. Howard E. Spragg, New York, executive vice president of the United Church Board for Homeland Ministries, said he expected the united congregation to become a self-supporting and significant mission unit of the church in Baltimore within three years.

The directors voted a grant of $3,500 annually for three years, matching an equal grant from the Central Atlantic Conference of the denomination.

The United Church of Christ is a union of the Congregational Christian and Evangelical and Reformed churches.

United Church has meeting in P.R.

The United Church Board for Homeland Ministries closed the annual spring meeting of its board of directors in San Juan, P. R., by voting funds for "community-building." "agropolitan" communities and an interracial interdenominational church. Mrs. Anne Emery of Grantley Rd. was present at the meeting.

Plymouth Community, a unique adult education program proposed by Plymouth Settlement House, Louisville, Ky., will receive $15,000 for a three-year period. Target of the plan is the Russell Area, the city's number one poverty area, where the average school grade level is 4.3 and the high school drop-out rate is extremely high.

The board of directors also voted $6,750 over a three-year period for an experimental project to develop new forms of ministry for the "agropolitan" communities, those areas which used to be called rural but now include nonmetropolitan, farming, town and country and rural sections.

Agriopolitan Ministries Inc. at the Merom Institute, Merom, Ind. will be the agency coordinating the interdenominational program.

The board voted $3,500 annually for three years for the Huber Memorial United Church of Christ and the Montebellow Presbyterian Church to unite in Baltimore.

Huber Memorial, a traditionally white, older, middle class church in an area that is only 5 per cent white, has been developing ministries to the neighborhood for some years and will open its doors to other congregations wishing to join in a ministry to the community.

In spite of decreasing income the United Church Board will match its 1970 contributions of over $70,000 to the support of projects in Puerto Rico in 1971.

Melvin T. Randolph was retired school engineer

Funeral services were held Monday at Union Baptist Church for Melvin Thomas Randolph, 2347 Druid Hill Ave., longtime public school engineer.

Mr. Randolph died unexpectedly April 29 at the wheel of his car. He was 68.

Relatives told the AFRO he was on his way to shop for graduation clothes for a niece.

When stricken with a heart ailment, they said he was waiting for the red light to change at Reisterstown Rd. near Mondawmin Shopping Center. He was pronounced dead on arrival at Sinai Hospital at 5:30 p.m.

Mr. Randolph was retired as a school heating inspector in January, 1970 after serving at various public schools for 26 years.

He had been a member of the Union church over 40 years and is buried in Arbutus Cemetery.

Mr. Randolph was born Aug. 30, 1902 in Montgomery County, the son of the late Mrs. Elizabeth Hackney Randolph and John Robert Randolph. He attended school in Clarksburg and moved to Baltimore over 47 years

In early years he was employed as a floor finisher but a desire to have employment of a more challenging nature led him to study to become a heating engineer.

On Aug. 9, 1959, he was married to the former Miss Viola Elnora Sullivan who survives him.

Known for devotion to family and home, Mr. Randolph assumed the role of father at the death of his mother in 1935 and reared his younger brothers and sisters.

A lover of people, he had numerous friends in Baltimore, Washington, Glen Burnie, throughout Maryland and along the East Coast.

After retirement and despite orders of physicians, he never refused a call from a family who was without adequate heat.

In addition to his wife, surviving are a stepson, Milton B. Sullivan; four brothers, William Randolph, New York; Howard and Leroy Randolph, both of Baltimore and Arthur Randolph, Damascus, Md.

Also, three sisters, Mesdames Anna R. Beckwith, Germantown, Md.; Elizabeth Gray, Clarksburg, Md.; Estella Plummer, Gaithersburgh, Md. and many nieces and nephews.

Good ol' Baptist hymns lift St. Francis Xavier

Heard any good ol' Baptist hymns lately? If not, take a look at St. Francis Xavier Church, 1501 East Oliver St. There is a sixty voice Gospel Chorus there now and it has rocked the attendance at the 12:15 Sunday mass from under fifty to 1500.

St. Francis might be the oldest black Catholic church in the country, but, it is the first Catholic church to organize a Gospel Choir.

It all started last November when Alexander Rankin of St. Francis DeSales Church, New Orleans, came to St. Francis to organize the choir.

Mrs. Justine Turner, a choir member, remembered the long hours of practice, but, feels that it was worth every bit of the effort. She said, "It is heart warming to see the church gather strength at times like these."

Miraculous strength is what the church gathered, for, during the past five months the choir has performed at St. Veronica's Church, Knox Presbyterian Church, Simmons Memorial Church, Antioch Baptist Church, Christ Methodist Church, St. Mary's Seminary, St. James, St. Johns Church, and they appeared on a one half hour television program for WBAL.

The choir has received invitations from Wayland Baptist Church, Gillis Memorial Community Church, and from a church in New York City.

Choir director Eric Brooks is only 21 years old, but, has a long history of gospel music experience to his credit. He is not a member of St. Francis, but, is ever present swaying back and forth in his black robe as he directs.

His movements are precise and each choir member's eye is upon him as he leads them into a rocking spiritual.

Organist, Mrs. Alice DeShazo, is a loyal church member whose toe-tapping pace keeps the congregation involved in the spirit of the music.

The choir is composed of both church and non-church members. Most interesting, is that there are, in some instances, entire families, sisters and brothers, husbands and wives on the choir.

There is one lady on the choir who deserves special attention.

She is Mrs. Louise Reeves who, at the age of seventy-two, found the interest and the energy to give her voice to making the St. Francis Gospel Chorus a success.

The other members of the choir are Blanche Anderson, Aloma Butler, Poliy Hargrove, Pauline Hargrove, Venice Harris, Marion Johnson, Gertrude Lewis, Doris A. Pinnick, Gilda Stokes, Sylvia Taylor, Dannell Turner, Dannette Turner, Buena Whyte, Geraldine Ash, Marry B. Ash, Vera A. Coleman, Jean Cooper, Betty Jaffries, Delores Jones, Sarita Jones, Yvonne F. Jones, Anita Kizzie, Dorothy M. Mello, Dannece Turner, Justine Turner, Terressa Rosado, Evelyn Allen, Jean Baily, Mary Braxton, Martha Burns.

Also Avis Butler, Celeste Butler, Frances Chapman, Nadine E. Kane, Mary Tate, Jannifer Tate, Mary Powell, Deborah Wise, Karen Allen, Herbert Berry, David E. Bennett, Ronald Braxton, John A. Chapman, Joan P. Green, Gerald L. Horne, Barbara Wright, Tony Jordan, Jonathan Tate, Raymond E. Thompson, Donald Bennett, Virginia Horsley, James R. Nicholas, Don G. Turner, and James E. Wright.

The gospel choir has developed a new sense of involvement at St. Francis. Mrs. Justine Tyrner said that before November, the congregation was lax in attendance and not as interested in the mass. Yet, the first Sunday the choir sang, the church overflowed out onto the sidewalk with people interested in hearing this new sound coming from St. Francis.

It was not only a new sound, but, a new spirit that had erupted that day.

Since then, the congregation has shown a constant interest in the Sunday 12:15 mass. When asked about the affect the music has, The Reverend Phillip Linden, associate pastor, commented, "People are saying, now we're really worshipping; now we're really going to church."

So, if you would like to hear some good ol' Baptist hymns or any gospel music, take a look at St. Francis Church — it really swings on Sundays — V.B.
