Preakness Week actions continue

Lacrosse teams, marching bands, dancing girls, rock groups, Dixieland and a matched team of show horses will be on view in the infield at Pimlico Saturday in a day-long program of entertainment designed to compliment the 96th running of the famed Preakness.

The infield gates will open at 9 a.m. and the entertainment will begin at 10 a.m. with a game between the Maryland Lacrosse Club "Nationals" and the Carling Lacrosse Club. The game will end at approximately 12:30 p.m.

Just prior to the first race at 1 p.m., a European-bred team of matched show horses, the National Brewing Compasy "Shires," will parade pulling a replica of an 1800's beer wagon with Miss Preakness, Debbie Lang, aboard. Also scheduled to parade is the Baltimore City Mounted Police Division.

In between each race, infield visitors will be treated to a variety of attractions. The Colts Marching Band, majorettes and cheer leaders will perform, as will Zim Zemarel's Band and "The Preakness Six," Dixieland group.

Pen Lacy, a rock group, will also play during the afternoon and Kerby Scott will be master of ceremonies for a dance contest to be held on a special stage.

The Preakness Festival Week program has been described by the Discover America Travel Organization, as one of the nation's top Springtime visitor attractions.

Advertisements promoting travel to the Baltimore area during the week have been placed in national publications by the Baltimore Area Convention and Visitors Council. The BACVC coordinates the more than 200 events which make up Preakness Festival Week.

Other major attractions being held during the week include the Flower Mart, held Wednesday; the Greater Baltimore Arts Festival; "Jazz at the Point", a concert in historic Fells Point at the Foot of Broadway today (Friday).

Springtime, a day-long program at the Community College of Baltimore featuring a jousting tournament, and the Federal Hill Celebration and Ice Cream Stick Sailing Regatta, was Sunday.

Nixon wants OEO legal aid replaced

WASHINGTON — President Nixon has asked Congress to create an independent legal services corporation to replace the controversial legal service department of the Office of Economic Opportunity.

Nixon said such a move would make the organization "immune to political pressures" in its efforts to aid the poor and would help to "secure justice within the system and not on the streets."

In a message to the House and Senate, the President proposed to establish an 11-member board of directors, most of them lawyers, to run the corporation.

News in Brief

Bicentennial balks at dropping plans

PHILADELPHIA — The Bicentennial Corp.'s executive committee rejected a recommendation that all plans for an international exposition as part of the 1976 activities be scrapped.

The recommendation came from another corporation committee, the steering committee, headed by attorney John P. Bracken.

Samuel L. Evans, a member of the executive committee and chairman of Philadelphia Antipoverty Action Committee, immediately took issue with the Bracken report.

He was joined by Mrs. Novella Williams, also a member of the executive committee, who said the Bracken report was "an attempt by the leadership to sell out the people of Philadelphia."

Electrician claims discrimination

HOUSTON, Tex. — Genaro S. Guerrero, a Houston electrician, has filed suit in Federal court accusing the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, Local 716, of practicing racial discrimination in admission of new members.

Guerrero, who said he has 10 years experience as an electrician, alleges the union uses tests and other procedures "to unlawfully limit the number of Spanish-American and colored electricians in the local."

Hathcer attending seminar

GARY — Mayor Richard G. Hatcher has accepted an invitation from the U.S. Army War College to participate in the 17th annual National Strategy Seminar, June 1-11.

The mayor is one of 115 persons selected nationally to participate in the session.

The seminar, to be held at the War College, Carlisle, Pa., is designed to assist in the formation of a national strategy and a supporting military program to meet the country's changing needs.

Players book own game in pre cage rebellion

NEW YORK —A major, but quiet, rebellion against pro basketball owners was announced this week by their hirelings, and what is likely to come of it is anybody's guess.

Players of the National Basketball Association completed agreement with their counterparts of the American Basketball Association to play an all-star game May 28, at the Houston Astrodome.

• • •

The proceeds of the game wil go primarily to charity, with the participating players receiving a small portion of the TV receipts. The newly-established Whitney Young Foundation will receive all the net gate receipts, with the funds directed to programs which prepare ghetto youths for college.

Most of the TV receipts will go to supplement the retirement plans of all the players in both leagues.

• • •

The game, which was initiated without the knowledge of either league commissioner, will mark the first meeting ever of teams from the two rival leagues and will be televised nationally by TVs Television Network, beginning at 8:30 p.m. (EDT).

However, Oscar Robertson of the Milwaukee Bucks, president of the NBA Players' Association, made it clear that this game in on way was to be interpreted as an effort by the two leagues as a stepping-stone toward a peaceful merger.

"We intend to show the public that the ultimate basketball event can be presented within the competitive structure of our free enterprise system," said Robertson. "The super game, promoted entirely by the players, will show that the two professional leagues can play against each other at the highest competitive level without an illegal merger."

• • •

Only last Friday the owners of the two leagues agreed in principle to end their costly four-year feud and to begin seeking congressional legislation enabling the formation of a single league.

Robertson said it was the intention of the players to show that games between teams of the two leagues were possible without the necessity of a merger. He said the idea for the All-Star Game was conceived a long time ago and that it was only coincidental that the announcement of the game occurred so soon after the two leagues agreed to seek peace.

• • •

"The owners refused to present any game between the two leagues without such a merger," said Robertson. "By such refusal, the owners' sole motivation becomes clear — money. What should be of interest is the fan and the quality of product he sees. The players have that interest and because of it they will meet the public's desire for a super game."

"The primary reason for this game is the interest and the desire of the American public to see how the two leagues compare to each other," added Larry Fleischer, lawyer for the Players' Association. "We also want to show that it can be played."

Plymouth offers Indy 500 to Trouble Shooters here

The boys who will keep America rolling in the years ahead will be out to demonstrate their automobile know-how in the Plymouth Trouble Shooting contest May 8 at Baltimore.

This is an annual event sponsored by Plymouth dealers of this area in which auto mechanics students find and fix several malfunctions deliberately hidden in new cars by experts.

Ability to quickly restore the car to normal running order counts as 70 per cent of a team's final score.

There is also a written examination which counts as 30 per cent of a team's score.

• • •

Scholarships, an inside track on a job, and a chance to perform on the famed Indianapolis "500" Speedway are the students' inducements.

The winning team in this and some 100 other local contests receives an all-expense trip to Indianapolis where the National Trouble Shooting Finals will be held June 14, 15 and 16.

More than $125,000 worth of scholarships, prizes, trophies, tools, practice engines and transmissions and other automobile components for competing schools are offered, according to John H. Moore Jr., National Trouble Shooting Manager.

• • •

Scholarships provided this year total $37,000. The first place teams at the National Finals in two classes — high school and post-high school — each will be offered $5,000 in scholarships.

Another feature in the 1971 program is the active recruitment of Trouble Shooters who participate in local contests to become apprentice mechanics in Plymouth dealerships.

Plymouth makes available to all dealers in a local contest area the names and addresses of all boys who make their school Trouble Shooting teams and urges dealers to interview them as potential apprentice mechanics.

The boys receive Trouble Shooter certificates to present to dealers.

• • •

Recognizing that a substantial investment in tools is a prerequisite for most automobile mechanics, the program includes a plan for letting apprentice mechanics get tools at substantially reduced cost when hired and paying for them through payroll deductions while they work.

A qualified young mechanic can go to work immediately with his own set of tools which retails at $550.

His total cost of the tools is less than half, $224, and he can pay for them with no down payment and a small weekly deduction from his wages.

Trophies for their schools and individual prizes are provided for local contest winners.

From Baltimore entrants will come from Catonsville Senior High, Edmondson High, Kenwood Senior High, Mergenthaler Voc. Tech. High, Overlea Sr. High, Parkville Senior High, Perry Hall Senior High, Patapsco Senior High, Western Vocational Technical Center, Woodlawn Senior High.

Others include Bel Air Senior High, Bel Air, Bladensburg Senior High, Bladensburg, North Caroline High, Denton, Howard High, Ellicott City, Governor Thomas Johnson High, Frederick, Vocational Technical Center, Hagerstown, Southern Senior High, Harwood, Havre de Grace Senior High, Harve de Grace, Anne Arundel County Voc Tech. Center, Glen Burnie Calvert Senior High Voc. Tech Center, Prince Frederick, Wicomico Voc. Tech. Center, Salisbury, South Carrell High, Sykesville, Catoctin High, Thurmont, Dulaney Senior High, Timonium and Phelps Vocational High, Washington, D.C.

Now a civilian having been honorably discharged, Mr. Hall is shown as a former Spec/4 while serving with the army in Vietnam. He was commended for heroism in 1969, and cited for meritorious service in July of last year.
