That beautiful Wesley Unsel of the Baltimore Bullets (who every living mother would have her son be like if she could — to say nothing of what the other feminine contingent would wish) trapped at a fashion show, Tuesday, was the cutest . . . if one can say such of such a magnificent hunk of male.Buthe's terrifically fashion conscious. Wore a black knit suit that day with black and white striped shirt and black tie . . . and had opinions about feminine fashions, too. Says he thinks hot pants are great . . . so long as his wife doesn't wear them. She's the beauteous former Connie Morton of Louisville, Ky., and now a kindergarten teacher at School No. 251, this city. He had no criticism of the "grannie" dresses . . . just a sort of bewildered interest in his eyes. Generally thought the fashions attractive.

Adelle Foreman was the gal who headed the rush for autographs. Margaret Wheatley, Pauline Brooks, and Marion Russell were also among those watching the show. 'Twas Hutzler's showing of summer fashions in the Colonial Room of the downtown store, and which featured Irv Benson of Benson and Partners showing, particularly, his many layered look . . . which is great for the young and the young of heart . . . as well as for their pocket books.

Mr. Benson even talked of the "split buck" and the "do-it-yourself fashions". And he showed suck items as a farm-print skirt over plaid shirt and hot pants; tie-dyed crushed velvet hot pants and T-shirt, red knit pants and layered T-shirt and layers of sweaters over jean-style pants. Hutzler also showed close to a hundred lush numbers that had no conscious of cruelty to funds.

MRS. MOSS HONORED

WO-BE-CO salute raises $500 for DHS scholarship

By PAUL EVANS

Over $500 was raised by WO-BE-CO, Inc. (Women Behind the Community) at a testimonial Sunday night to establish a journalism scholarship at Douglass High.

Honoree for the fund-raiser was Mrs. Elizabeth (Bettye) Murphy Moss, a 1934 Douglass grad and vice president-treasurer of the AFRO-AMERICAN Newspapers.

More than 400 guests were present for the black tie dinner at Cockeysville's Hunt Valley Inn.

The purpose of the affair said Mrs. Mary Robinson, who presided, was to raise money to found the scholarship and honor Mrs. Moss "while she is at the height of her success."

The format of the testimonial varied from the usual accolades by a series of lengthy speakers to that of movies shown highlighting the poignant moments in the honoree's life.

With the aid of Gordon Stills of Stills, Davis and Associates and the children, husband and friends of Mrs. Moss, a pictoral summary was given of the honoree's role in the community, at her AFRO office, and at her church, St. James Episcopal.

Mrs. Cardrienie P. Griffin, founder and president of WO-BE-CO's, said to Mrs. Edna O. Campbell, principal of Douglass High, "On behalf of WO-BE-CO and our many friends here tonight we are honored to present to the Douglass High School, the Elizabeth Murphy Moss Scholarship. The $500 scholarship is to be presented to a graduating senior interested in journalism.

"It is hoped that this siholarship will now be an inspiration and motivation for black youth to achieve some of the qualities which Mrs. Moss has exemplified in her career."

In presenting Mrs. Moss to the assemblage — which gave her a standing ovation — Mrs. Griffin noted,

"We wish to make known to the community, the contributions of one of its truly great black women. One who has served beyond the call of duty as wife, mother, war correspondent, member of the School Board and vice president-treasurer of the AFRO-AMERICAN Newspapers.

"You are a real inspiration to young women of what can be achieved with hard work, perseverance and commitment. Your many friends here tonight join WO-BE-CO in expressing our thanks to you for giving of yourself by reaching out and touching the lives of all of us."

In her response, the honoree turned the tables on her hostesses, hailed them for their contributions to the community and gave credit to her parents, AFRO co-workers, fellow school board members and other civic leaders.

She said, "I do not deserve all the accolades you have given, and I'd like to share them with my workers at the AFRO, with the children and their husbands and wives — the grandchildren — my sisters and brothers-in-law and with my late mom and dad who inspired me and with Mother Lil, who still provides a guiding hand."

She continued, "And last, but not least with my husband, Paul, a fine Christian gentleman, who came into our home nine years ago when the children were just 7-8-13 and has proved to be a grand father and friend. He has made this poor widow woman and her children very happy."

In particular, she said she was happiest for having been able to work for 35 years for a newspaper, now inspiration and motivation years far a newspaper, now in its 78th year, which has had the courage, concern aid commitment to speak its mind.

She described the campaigns the AFRO has conducted through the years which she called 'exciting,' and vowed, "in the days promised me to do what little I can to help you help others."

Only the immediate family and the WO-BE-CO participants, were at the head table. They are: Alonzo Pahl Moss, husband, who is associate general secretary of the YWCA of Greater Baltimore; their children, Mrs. Marie Phillips Cooke and her husband Daniel Cooke; Mrs. Faye Houston Lowry and her husband, Father William Lowry, Michael Moss of N.Y., Benjamin Murpry Phillips 4th, 18; Miss Rachael Murphy Phillips, 15; and the honoree's stepmother, Mrs. Carl Murphy.

Father Donald O. Wilson, rector of St. James Episcopal Church, gave the invocation and Father Lowry, rector of St. Katherine's Episcopal Church and son-in-law of the Mosses, gave the benediction.

• • •

Gifts to the honoree included a handsome engraved book, complete with raved book, complete with as well as the guest book signed by banquet guests. The club also gifted Mr. Moss who had a birthday on the same evening.

The printed program, entitled, WO-BE-CO Special, was in the form of a newspaper and detailed highlights in the honoree's life.
