Boxing twin-bill for Steelworkers

Eddie (Flash) Tomlin, crack Philadelphia junior welterweight, will meet Baltimore's popular Vernon Mason in half of a boxing double-header at Steelworker's Hall, on Thursday night, June 24.

The local promoters are also searching for a worthwhile opponent to meet "Irish" Josh Hall, who scored his 16th professional victory in knocking out Johnny Vivanz, of New York City, in pro boxing's revival show before a sellout crowd on June 3.

Both main event fights will be decided over the eight round distance, or less, and will be supported by four preliminary mat-

Martin Luther King All-Star lineup grows

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UPI) — Five more professional basketball players have agreed to play in the third annual Martin Luther King benefit game here June 20 as part of Black Expo '71.

The five players are Zelmo Beaty and Willie Wise of the American Basketball Association champion Utah Stars, Walt Hazzard of the NBA Atlanta Hawks, Jimmy Jones of the ABA Memphis Pros and Cincy Powell of the ABA Kentucky Colonels.

The additional players bring to 14 the number who have agreed to participate in the game, scheduled for the Indiana State Fairgrounds Coliseum.

• • •

Other participants previously announced include ABA players Mel Daniels, Freddie Lewis and Roger Brown of the Indiana Pacers, Steve Jones and Don Freeman of the Texas Chaparals;

Rick Barry of the New York Nets and Joe Caldwell of the Carolina Cougars plus NBA players Walt Frazier of the New York Knicks, Earl Monroe of the Baltimore Bullets and Connie Hawkins of the Phoenix Suns.

New summer cage loop for inner-city youth

Lenwood M. Ivey, executive director of the Community Action Agency says the summer months will see a dedicated effort to involve inner city youth in participatory sports programs.

He says that Brown's Supermarkets, in cooperation with CAA, is sponsoring an inner city basketball league of twelve teams.

• • •

Four teams each of youngsters, 9 to 13 years, and two teams each of 16 to 18 year olds will be organized in East and West Baltimore. A total of 96 youngsters will participate.

John Murdock of CAA's Neighborhood Development Program has been appointed coordinator of the project. Brown's Supermarkets is furnishing all equipment and uniforms, and will help defray the costs of officials' and custodians' services.

Baltimore junior high and high schools have indicated their support for the program by making available their gymnasiums for weekend play dates through August.

At the end of the season, appropriate awards will be presented to winning teams and outstanding players.

Ivey declares that plans for other sports and recreation programs are now in the final stages and will be announced as completed.

Bundini Brown, Muhammed Ali's assistant trainer, who is making his motion picture debut in "Shaft," will be in Baltimore Monday and Tuesday for personal appearances relating to the film.

Bundini, better known to the sports world, prizefight fans and sports writers for his psychic actions and remarks with Ali, plays the role of "Willie," the knuckleheaded bodyguard of a Harlem racketeer in the film.

• • •

Included on Bundini's tour of the city will be a visit to Echo House, the inner city home that helps residents help themselves.

Echo House will be the beneficiary of the East Coast Premiere of "Shaft" on June 24 at the Hippodrome Theatre and is sponsored by the Baltimore Council of the AFL-CIO.

Morgan lacrosse star in N-S tilt

MEDFORD, Mass. — Miles Harrison, brilliant midfielder of the Morgan State College lacrosse team, will compete in the North-South All-Star game here tomorrow (Saturday) at Tufts University.

Harrison is on the South squad, coached by Bruce Corrie of Duke University.

Jeff Hahn, Mike Thomas and Doug Fry are among other Baltimore youngsters named to the team.

Harrison is the second athlete in the 30-year history of the event to desegregate it. Jim Brown of Syracuse, starred in the 1957 contest.

'Athlete-of-year' weighs 2 colleges

Barry Scroggins, 17-year-old graduate of Mt. St. Joe, who Tuesday afternoon was honored as Prep Athlete of the Year, is in a minidquandary with regard to his college education.

"I haven't been able to make up my mind," declared the young Gael star after being chosen among 31 prep "athletes of the week" at the Downtown Holiday Inn.

"I'm inclined to either Jacksonville University or Mt. St. Mary's," he said. "When I have reached a decision, it will be based on the educational advantages being offered.

"While basketball is important, it must remain secondary to education."

Scroggins earned eight letters during his career at Mt. St. Joe, and capped his accomplishments by leading the Gaels to the Maryland Scholastic Association caze title.

In addition to his exploits on the basketball floor, Scroggins received numerous honors as a football star. He was among the MSA's top pass receivers over the past three seasons.

His aspirations in college athletics will be confined to the basketball floor. "I'm not big enough for football," explains the slender Scroggins.

Rec supervisor confident of Baltimore mibs title

Bureau of Recreation children's supervisor Virginia S. Baker says she fully expects the national marbles championship to be lodged in this city by next weekend.

Baltimore will be represented in the national tournament at Wildwood, N.J., by George McKesson, and Mrs. Baker thinks the Cherry Hill youngster has improved to the point where he can move from third place in the 1970 tourney to first next week.

Young McKesson and his counselor, Charlie Moore, will arrive in Wildwood Sunday morning to enter the competition with youthful mobsters from all over the country.

• • •

"This will be his last year of eligibility," declared Mrs. Baker, "so I'm sure he has an added incentive. Furthermore, he has been working on his game and has strengthened that part of which was his only weakness."

George celebrated his 14th birthday on Monday, which means that he will be too old to compete in 1972.

The trip is the third in as many years for young McKesson, who lives at 2523 Seamon Ave., and represents the Carter Woodson Center.

In winning the Baltimore citywide title last week, George defeated Derrick Ryce of Mt. Royal Center, and Gerald Day of Gilmor Homes.

Both are 13 years of age. Ryce lives at 2220 Mt. Royal Terrace, and Day resides at 1356 Whitcoat St.

Discover for yourself what you're missing in big car comfort and handling:

1 NEW SUPERSHOCK ACTION. A sealed cushion keeps air space and fluid separated—an Olds exclusive that keeps the ride smoother over the roughest roads.

2 COIL SPRINGS CUSTOM-SELECTED FOR YOUR CAR. A Delta 88 rides better because its springs are computer matched to the car's weight with the engine and equipment you specify. A real "custom" ride, indeed.

3 FULL-DEPTH FOAM TO CUSHION ROAD SHOCK. The front seat of a Delta 88 features six full inches of molded foam that resists sagging—so it keeps its new-car comfort longer, makes driving more enjoyable.

4 TUNED BODY MOUNTS SOAK UP VIBRATION. Sixteen specially tuned live-rubber body mounts isolate the body from the frame. They soak up shock and vibration, provide a quieter ride.

5 TEST DRIVE THE NEW "G-RIDE" OF A DELTA 88... discover for yourself how Oldsmobile's exclusive system of advancements in steering, ride and shock control improves any road!

OLDS DELTA 88 DISCOVERY DAYS

NOW DISCOVER WHAT OLDS IS DOING FOR CLEANER AIR:

Every 1971 Oldsmobile fights air pollution in two ways.

1. Every Rocket engine—regardless of size and horsepower—is designed to run efficiently on the new low-lead, or no-lead or regular gasolines. Yet it still meets Oldsmobile's famous standards of performance!

2. Every Olds is equipped to control emissions by evaporation. A new sealed fuel system with evaporation controls now trains, stores and recycles gasoline and vapors—preventing them from entering the outside environment. It's another step by Olds to keep our air clean—and it's standard on every 71 Olds.

Heart Golf tournament to kick off June 25

The fifth annual Heart Golf Tournament sponsored by the Baltimore division of the Heart Association of Maryland, will be held from June 25 through July 11 at participating golf clubs in the area.

All proceeds from the tournament will go to the Heart Association for its work in research, education and community service.

The tournament will be played on a full handicap medal play system. Participating clubs will be awarded individual Heart trophies for men and women champions.

Golfers will be asked to contribute one dollar (or more) to Heart for each round they play in the tournament. A player may participate as many times as he wishes and use his best score to compete for the trophy.

• • •

On June 25, the kick-off for the Heart Golf tournament will be the Pro-Celebrity Member Tourney at Dulaney Springs Golf Club in Lutherville.

Many notable golf professionals are scheduled to playin this tournament, as well as prominent community leaders.

TV, radio and press celebrities will also participate.

Proceeds from the 1970 Heart Tournament netted a 48 percent increase over the previous year. The committee for the 1971 affair unter the general chairmanship of Mrs. Louis J. Pratt Jr., Timonium, is aiming to top that record.

CC of B chosen as site for huge youth program

Community College of Baltimore will be the site of the local phase of the National Summer Youth Sports Program, school officials announced this week.

The program is a partnership plan, sponsored by the President's Council on Physical Fitness, the National Collegiate Athletic Association (NCAA) and CC of B.

• • •

The goals of the program are to provide sports training and athletic competition to the nation's youth on an unprecedented scale, making available expert instruction, competent supervision and superior facilities to many needy, underprivileged young people who are unable to secure such an experience through their own means.

The boys and girls, aged 10 to 18 will be instructed in swimming, football, basketball, baseball, dance, physical fitness, volleyball, tennis and track and field activities by college and high school coaches and outstanding athletes working as staff members.

The dates are from June 22 to July 30 with the time being 9:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m.

The participants receive a medical examination, liability insurance, a daily meal, health education and counseling in study and career opportunities.

The program is good for the community because it enables colleges and universities to participate more fully in community life and help solve community problems.

It also is good for the youngsters. Sports can do much for the young — in building good habits, in directing the competitive urge towards new goals desire to belong and participate. Young participants in the program do so at no cost to themselves or their parents.

Youth Game slots await kids 10-15

On August 19, thirty-six boys and twenty-six girls will travel to Boston, to represent Baltimore in the United States Youth Games.

To qualify, youngsters are training in the various sports— basketball, bowling and track. The program is open to young people 10 to 15 years of age.

A qualifying track meet will be held June 25 at 11 a.m. at Poly Senior High School.

Bowling will take place at the local ten pin lanes.

Entry blanks will be available at local lanes.

Basketball teams will be selected from the Baltimore Neighborhood Basketball Leagues.

Hampton jazz event chief says music is for everyone

HAMPTON — The Hampton Jazz Festival, slated for two big nights at the Hampton Roads Coliseum, Friday and Saturday, June 25 and 26, 8 p.m. nightly, has grown in four short years as the biggest single entertainment attraction on the east coast.

"Jazz is no longer an isolated music. Today, it covers everything from the classics to rock and soul and everybody's doing it," says Hampton Jazz Festival director John C. Scott, who at 26-years-old can boast of a career that few men obtain in a lifetime — one that has taken him from concert promotions in Europe to the mecca of Dixieland jazz, New Orleans.

A one-time drummer at Bruton Heights High School in his native Williamsburg where he didn't even make the band, "Scotty" is recognized by people in the music field as a young man with such a zest for life and an understanding of what's happening now that if you want to be successful you had better not take him lightly.

The one time delivery boy in the former Virginia capital now is president of Hampton Intercollegiate Productions (HIP), which directs the promotion of many great artists across the country Among them are Duke Elington and Sly and The Family Stone.

• • •

The Hampton resident got his start in promotional work as a student at Hampton Institute. He was student chairman of the first Hampton Jazz Festival promotional committee 1968 when Dr. Jerome H. Holland, now U.S. ambassador to Sweden, was president of the tidewater college.

After the first festival in Hampton Scotty who had just graduated from H.I. in June, 1968, accepted a job with Howard University in Washington, D.C. as sports information director, a job he hal performed at Hampton as a student.

Following a few short months in his Howard post, Scotty resigned to form H.I.P, which, he notes with a great deal of pride, "is geared to serve as a counseling and talent buying representative organization for limited budget institutions."

The budding businessman readily attributes much of his success today to George Wein, who 18 years ago began the Newport, Rhode Island, Festival, the mother of ail jazz festivals in the country today.

In helping to profote the Hampton Jazz Festival, which is co-sponsored by the City of Hampton anl Hampton Institute, Scotty has been able to inject a little of his own philosophy into the annual Peninsula event.

With the city and the college jointly sponsoring the two-day event and thousands of persons pouring into the area, the festival has become a community project and many citizens see it as an inspiration for better understanding between peoples in Tidewater.

"You must be able to deal with a person on his own individual capabilities and not expect to impose your will on another person. The festival means different trings to different people, but we have sought to deal with each on his own individual capabilities and not impose our will on him, he said. "We have been fortunate to enjoy the support from the educator, the politician, the newsman, the man on the street, and the bus boy in the restaurant. There is something special about jazz and the feeling for the Hampton Festival. The music and the good will of the local people are prime ingredients. There is no disorderainess like you have with rock shows," added Scotty.

If this feeling of neighborliness exists, then Williamsburg's John Scott, who once thought of becoming a minister and attended the First Baptist Church with his grandmother, Mrs. Lucille C. Wright of 411 Lafayette St., has injected his own feelings into the festival.

Scotty is the son of Mrs. Marian Scott of 102 Bunch Dr. He has two brothers and three sisters, all of whom live in Williamsburg except for one married sister now residing in New York City.
