your first trip away from home and I have been trying for a long time to get you into the Boy Scouts."

She said she folded a dollar bill and put it in Mark's pocket for spending change.

When they found Mark's body, the soggy bill was still folded neatly in his pocket.

His body was found 20 minutes within the time he was seen jumping into the pond.

Mrs. Stubb is not sure how the accident occurred or what happened.

I am only going by what the little boys and the scout master told me," she stated.

Mark was member of scout troup no 193 and his scoutmaster was James Easley.

He had recently joined the troop, whichmeets at St Ambrose Catholic Church, and would have been a membe for three weeks last Monday.

Mark was well thought of in his community. His mother told the AFRO:

He was the type of little boy anybody could love. Mark loved to make people laugh."

Mark would have been in a higher special class the Edgecomb Circle Elementary School in September. He was making considerable progress in his school work.

Besides his mother, Mark is survived by his father, Robert I. Lindsey; three step brothers, Phillip Stubb, Cornell Lindsey and Robert Lindsey Jr.

Also three stepsisters, Mrs. Sonia Queen, Misses Marcia Stubb and Renee Stubb; and a grandmother, Mrs. Elsie Slaughter, all of Baltimore.

Mark is buried in Arbutus Memorial Park.

JUVENILE COURT JUDGE Robert I. H. Hammerman poses with new court master Paul Smith.

PAUL CHESTER, presently the clerk of the Court of Common Pleas, filed last week to run for the post of president of the City Council on an independent ticket. Here he is shown with his treasurer-attorney Larry Gibson. Gibson was his campaign manager when Mr. Chester ran successfully to become the first of his race to become elected chief of any of the courts.

Miss Black Beauty a Beautiful 'Mrs.'

By JANICE JASPER

Winner of the "Miss Black Beauty" pageant will not be able to go on for another title.

Twenty-one-year-old Mrs. Deborah Webb, Social Security secretary, will not go to the "Miss Black Maryland" pageant after it was learned that she was married.

Instead, 19-year-old Miss Connie Hockaday, one of the seven semi-finalists, will enter the contest.

It wasn't until after the pageant was over and all the contestants and guests had left the affair that the judges found out that Mrs. Webb, who is single in a way, is still married although she is separated from her husband, Donald Webb.

Mrs. Pam Fields, one of the judges, and co-producer of WBAL's "North Star," told the AFRO late Thursday afternoon, "I think the reason we picked Miss Hockaday to run in the 'Miss Black Maryland pageant, was that she was the only single girl among the seven runner-ups."

It was at that time the judges, arbitrarily picked Miss Hockaday, one of the seven semi-finalists to go to the Saturday contest. No explanation was given as to why she was placed above the first runner-up, Miss Marsha Greene.

After eight weeks of tedious rehearsals, modeling instructions, make-up sessions and beauty culture lessons, 28 young women from the Baltimore area made their debute in the "Miss Black Beauty" pageant and cabaret at the Famous Ballroom on Saturday evening.

Among the 300 guests were relatives and friends of the lovely black beauties.

The contestants were competing for the chance to enter the "Miss Black Maryland" pageant which will be held at the University of Baltimore on Saturday.

The contestants were judged by a special panel of well-known Baltimoreans who included, Mrs. Pam Fields of WBAL-TV's "North Star"; Jim Taylor, WEBB disc jockey; Miss Karen Garrett, former model; Charles Fields, assistant project manager of MUND, and Miss Diana Kanne, state executive of the "Miss Black Maryland" pageant.

Other special guests were "Diamond Jim" Sears of WEBB, who was master of ceremonies Miss Ira Glover, soloist, and little "Lucky" Peterson, 5-year-old musician from Buffalo, N.Y., who sang his new release, "1-2-3-4."

Poise, personality, figure and projection were the guidelines the judges followed.

Among the runners-up were Misses Marsha Greene, second place and Dorothy Johnson, 3rd place. Miss Johnson also won the title of "Miss Congeniality" after nominated by the contestants.

Among the prizes were U.S. savings bonds, gifts certificates, modeling scholarships and beautifully inscribed trophies.

Other contestants included Misses Sanetta Harris, 23, Cassandra Hazard, 21 Romano Lucas, 19, Angela Royster, 22 and Minnie Carter, 23.

And, Misses Linda Brown, 18 Ruthie Bethea, 23 Valtina Holt, 16 Christine Robinson, 18 Martha Jones, 16, Nyla Lucas, 17 and Mary Jones, 16.

And, Marsha Greene, 16, Lorna Banks, 17, Dorothy Jornson, 22, Wanda Hendricks, 18, Estelle Lykes, 17 Harriet Stepheney, 22, Beverly Carter, 25, Carolyn Moses, 20, Olivia Samuels, 20, and Barbara Murphy, 26.

Also, Anita Carroll, 16, Also, Anita Carroll, 16; Paula Walker, 18; Thomisina Moore, 17; Gale Parker, 19, and Judy Mewlette, 25.

The Rev. Ellison Witherspoon Jr. of Ne-Mar productions, produced the pageant and Mrs. Alice Williams was the assistant producer.

Miss Tangy Newsome, model, directed the contest and Mrs. Maxine Thomas was the coordinator of the fashion and make-up sessions.

PROMOTED ON FRIDAY — Mrs. Mercedes Rankin, wife of Donald Rankin a police officer with the Youth Division, was promoted to sargeant, Police Community Relations in the commissioners office th afternoon (Friday). She is the mother of two, Wanda and Bryan Rawlings.
