Mrs. Strother elected VP of Central Md. Girl Scouts

Mrs. Ella Strother of Baltimore, a 1970 AFRO Honor Roll winner, has been elected executive vice-president of the Girl Scouts of Central Maryland, to serve through May 31, 1974.

At its recent organization-wide meeting, the Girl Scout Council also elected Mrs. Jacqueline Fassett of Baltimore to a three-year term on the 30-member Board of Directors.

J. Edward Boston of Baltimore and Mrs. Ralph Williams of Glen Burnie were elected to two-year terms on the nine-man Nominating Committee.

Mrs. Strother, Girl Scout field vice-president for the past year, served previously as a board member and is the leader of two Girl Scout troops. In 1969, she was a delegate to the National Council Meeting of the Girl Scouts of the U.S.A., held in Seattle.

A former high school teacher, Mrs. Strother is an acknowledged community leader. She is president of the Provident Comprehensive Neighborhood Health Advisory Council and was a 1970 Resident Advisory Board member of Housing and Urban Renewal.

Mrs. Strother has served as representative to the National Consumer Health Committee and to both the Maryland and National Housing and Redevelopment conventions. She has been president of three PTAs and president of the Gilmor Tenant Service Organization.

Mrs. Fassett is new to Girl Scouting but brings a wealth of experience with young people. Coordinator of the Adolescent Center of Sinai Hospital from 1966 to 1970, she is now the hospital's director of the Department of Social Work, a field instructor for the University of Maryland School of Social Work, and a member of the Staff Development Committee of the Maryland Department of Mental Hygiene.

Before joining Sinai, Mrs. Fassett worked for nine years with the Social Services Department at Crownsville State Hospital. She is active in a number of social welfare organizations including the Maryland Chapter of the National Association of Social Workers, where she is presently serving on the executive board.

Her efforts in community education include work with Public Health and student nurses, PTAs, Save-A-Girl Project, Child Welfare Committee of the Maryland Conference on Social Welfare, Vista trainees, and the Sinai-Druid Camp Counselor Training Program.

Mr. Boston, whose wife is a Girl Scout community director, has served the Girl Scouts twice as an arts consultant and has assisted with troop camping. He has worked with the Baltimore City Bureau of Recreation as senior leader and center director, and is presently district supervisor of the Northeastern Area.

A former cottage master at the Maryland Training School for Boys, Mr. Boston has been camp counselor, arts instructor, and camp business manager for the YMCA Druid Hill Branch. He is a trustee and past president of the Darley Park Neighborhood Improvement Association.

Mrs. Williams, an adult Girl Scout for more than 15 years, has been a troop leader, day camp unit leader, assistant day camp director, and troop service director.

Previously a teacher of secondary-school-age educable mental retardates, Mrs. Williams has served as president of the Baltimore City Chapter II Council for Exceptional Children, secretary for the Maryland State Federation of Chapters of Council for Exceptional Children, principal of Saratoga Junior High School, and member of numerous other educational groups.

"SENIOR POWER DAYS," June 24-26, were decreed in proclamation issued by Mayor Thomas J. D'Alesandro. The dates coincide with a three-day Annual Senior Power Convention to be held at the Social Security Administration Building at Woodlawn. Thursday, Friday and Saturday this week. The state-wide conference is sponsored by Project S.A.G.A., a multi-purpose senior program funded by the Model Cities and Community Action Agencies. With Mayor are Mrs. Beatrice Epps (seated) and Mrs. Sarah Roberts.

Senior Citizens in conference at Social Security Building

Mayor D'Alesandro has proclaimed June 24, 25, and 26 "Senior Power Days" for Project S.A.G.A., a multi-service senior citizens program sponsored by the Community Action and Model Cities Agencies.

These are the dates during which the project will hold its Second Annual Senior Power Convention at the Social Security Building in Woodlawn.

Mrs. Ida Wells, director of Project S.A.G.A., states that "the convention, which has planned entirely by our members, will have as its chief goal the highlighting of problems that are peculiar to senior citizens."

Events for the convention include workshops, panel discussions, a fashion show, and exhibits. Groups similar in nature to the project from all parts of Maryland are invited to participate.

Buses will transport Model Cities residents to the convention from convenient pick-up points. For bus schedules and other information, interested persons should contact Project S.G.A. at 523-4440.

Occupational tax stamp deadline July 1

Persons involved with businesses or products requiring a federal occupation tax stamp must register and pay for tax stamps for the new fiscal year by July 1, 1971, Irving Machiz, District Director of Internal Revenue said last week.

The new fiscal year runs from July 1, 1971, through June 30, 1972.

The kinds of business or products requiring a stamp include gaming devices, wagering, narcotics, distilled spirits, wines, beers, and firearms.

Those planning to start a business that requires a stamp should register and pay the tax before commencing business, Machiz said.

Pop concert in Druid Hill Park

On Sunday, June 27, a free program of popular music will be performed in the Druid Hill Park Zoo Mansion House Lawn area at 5 p.m., featuring the Baltimore Park Band under the direction of Charles E. Gwynn Sr.

A versatile musician who has conducted the Baltimore Park Band for 24 years, Gwynn plays four instruments and organized and directed the Baltimore Post Office Band.

This Sunday's program will feature the popular classics "King of the Road" and "That's Amore."

Guest soloist for the concert will be Mary Fletcher, soprano.

Song leader, Matthew Fraling, will lead the "Sing Along" of old and current favorites.

In the tradition of Count Basie and Duke Ellington, the Big Band Sound will be featured in the stage band specials "Make Mine Minor", "I Can't Stop Loving You," "You're Nobody 'Till Somebody Loves Roy", and "Red Bank Bogie."

"The CBS Sunday Night Movie" at 8 screens 1965's "Once A Thief," starring Ann-Margret and Alain Delon in a drama about an ex-crook's efforts to go straight (R).
