Herbert M. Frisby Society cruises down Chesapeake

History was made Saturday, by a group of women dedicated to the preservation of notable achievements of black Marylanders.

The Herbert M. Frisby Historical Society Inc., hosted over 500 guests at its sixth annual dinner meeting aboard the Steamer Port Welcome with an all-day cruise down the Chesapeake Bay to St. Michaels in Talbot County, Maryland.

History was also revived on this occasion because it has been several decades since black people could cruise all day down The Bay before the month of September (after white excursionists had closed their vacation season and when superstition had it that September was a month to be avoided by white people — a season of chills and fevers.)

• • •

This unique social affair was the brain child of Mrs. Douglass Camper (Naomi), the popular civic worker and chairman of the Annual Dinner Committee of the Frisby Historical Society.

The dinner-cruise affair was a sell-out three weeks ago.

The gangplant of the Port Welcome was hauled promptly at 8:30 a.m., and the steamer with its load of passengers in joyous spirits and dressed "out of this world," headed down the Patapsco River for The Bay.

• • •

A buffet breakfast call was made at 8:30 a.m., a fabulous sight to behold . . . tables loaded with heaping mounds of a variety of dishes.

The Port Welcome arrived at St. Michaels at 1 p.m. Docking was no problem, for Mrs. Camper, a former resident of and well known to everybody in St. Michaels had secured permission from the proprietor of the Maritime Museum to allow the steamer to tie up at his private wharf (No longer are there any large docks at Eastern Shore towns).

• • •

A committee of the townspeople met the steamer, welcomed the guests and presented each one with a ticket entitling him to a country dinner to be served in facilities about two blocks from the dock.

The townspeople had made elaborate preparations for the guests. There were large and small signs with "Welcome — The Herbert M. Frisby Historical Society" displayed in the vicinity of the pier, in the store windows and homes of the residents.

A delicious Eastern Shore chicken dinner was served by the Women's and Men's organizations of the Union United Methodist Church, in the Parish Hall and in the lawn of the church and nearby Elks Hall.

In lieu of the fashion show, Dr. Frisby played the massive concert grand piano in the church. His repertoire included jazz, rock and hymn tunes played in soul style.

• • •

As the hour for departure approached it seemed that the entire town headed for the dock. "Come back again" was heard over and over again.

The Port Welcome departed for Baltimore at 4:15 p.m. Enroute home the guests were urged to return to the serving area for more delicacies.

Music was provided by a youth group of musicians — the Jimmie Cook Experience Combo. Responses indicated a close of the generation gap.

The Herbert M. Frisby Historical Society Inc., is an integrated organization of women "dedicated to perpetuate in dignity and on the pages of history the names and achievements of Matthew A. Henson, co-discoverer of the North Pole, Dr. Herbert M. Frisby, Arctic Explorer, and other black Marylanders who have made outstanding contributions to the growth of all America."

Delegates Lena K. Lee is founder of the Society, Mrs. Charles K. Anderson, the president, Mrs. Naomi Camper, chairman and Mesdames Ronald Rayne and Charles W. Woodford, co-chairmen.

Workshop on air pollution scheduled

Better Air Coalition, an organization in its second year of working to improve the quality of air in Metropolitan Baltimore, is sponsoring a workshop to help to train volunteers in programs to fight air pollution.

All interested citizens are invited to attend the volunteer workshop on June 24, from 9:30 a.m. to 2 p.m., to be held in the air conditioned Little Theatre at The Community College of Baltimore on Liberty Heights Ave.

Jean J. Schueneman, Chief of the Air Quality Division of the State Health Department will speak about air pollution: what it is, how it is being controlled, what needs to be done.

He will also discuss the proposed emergency regulations plan which will be debated at a public hearing on Aug. 5 at Poly-Western.
