–Four-day holiday

fact that the 1971 highway death toll is already far past the 1970 total.

MONDAY HOLIDAY

The holiday begins officially for federal, state and city employees at sundown Friday and extends through Monday. All banks, library, courts, city, state and federal will be closed Monday.

In fact, with most stores closed and all public agencies shut down Monday, the town will seem to have two Sundays in a row.

The 4th of July is the last holiday until Labor Day weekend, the first week in September. It officially opens vacation season as most townsfolks try to leave the "cement jungle" for far-away places or oceanside retreats and nearby beaches.

The history of the Fourth goes back to the birthday of the United States on the same day in 1776.

Parades and patriotic demonstrations are therefore the order of the day. Few "Peace" demonstrations are expected in Baltimore and if any, will come as a surprise.

EMERGENCY DUTY

Police predict no unusual protests but will be alert to accidents, incidents illegal and tragedy.

Also on duty are firefighters in all neighborhood stations ready to run emergencies.

Hospitals are on usual around-the-clock shifts.

All employment Security offices will be closed Monday. Claimants who regularly report for unemployment insurance benefits on Monday have been notified of an alternate reporting date.

DON'T FEED METERS

All parking and stopping prohibitions will be in effect in metered and unmetered areas throughout the city Monday but it will not be necessary to put money in parking meters (if parking is allowed in metered areas).

EDGEWOOD ARSENAL CARNIVAL

Edgewood Arsenal will be open to the public Saturday, July 3, for the annual carnival which supports youth activities. Fireworks displays will be a highlight.

The 36 booths will feature hundreds of favorite pastimes including hot buttered corn on the cob and home-baked goods.

There will be fire engine, train and pony rides for the kiddies, an antique car show, an air show, sky diving, helicopter and airplane rides, games of skill and chance and concerts throughout the day by the 327th Army Band.

The grand prize for this year's carnival will be a 1971 Plymouth Duster-Twister 340 V-8 sports coupe. Other prizes include a $1,000 Savings Bond, 23-inch console color television, $500 bond, 21-inch console B and W TV, $100 bond and a portable television set.

COUNTY FIREWORKS

Fireworks Displays are scheduled in Baltimore County over the Independence Day week end as follows:

July 2 — Pine Valley-Pinewood;

July 3 — Timonium Drive-In, Inc.; Luskins, Drive-In, Inc.; Luskins, Cromwell Bridge Road; Goucher College; Green Spring Valley Hunt Club.

July 4 — Gwynn Oak Park; Dundalk Jaycees, North Point Junior High and Granger Elementary; Immanuel Church, Glenco; Valley Country Club; Sparrows Point Country Club; Kingsville; Essex Recreational Council.

couple of Tuesdays ago while he was sitting in the TV room watching a cowboy movie.

Leaving other inmates behind, he went to his room, bent the bars, lowered himself down 50 feet on a home-made rope of mattress ticking to the jail courtyard.

And then, without passport or an exit visa, he got through a barbed wire fence, climbed a wall to drop down in the backyard of Warden Schoonfield's house. Next, he climbed an 8 foot wall and did not stop to say goodbye.

Faison had been at City Jail since Jan. 21 this year awaiting trial on assault and robbery.

He received 18 months imprisonment on the escape from the Court House.

further their careers in fine arts, commercial arts, performing arts, and communication arts.

Referring to the Baltimore pageant, Samuel Wilson, founder of the Arena Players and principal of Grove Park Elementary School, said:

"I thought it was very well executed, excellently planned, in excellent taste and smoothly produced. It was the kind of pageant parents and adults, related or not the contestants, felt very proud of.

"I wish the producers of all other pageants could have seen this one," Mr. Wilson continued. "These girls were talented, tastefully presented and just charming young ladies.

"I think Carolyn Wainwright, narrator and mistress of ceremony, is to be complimented for her gracious manner in conducting the program," the Arena founder added.

Speaking as a mother and interested in lifting the aspirations of neighborhood girls, Mrs. Virginia Frommoethelydo, planner for pupil service team — earned and learned in junior-senior vocational high schools projects said:

"I took a group of neighborhood girls to the Baltimore pageant. I was so pleased with it that I plan to take a larger group to the Maryland pageant.

"Representative black beauty meant something to these young girls.

"The reaction of these girls was amazing," Mrs. Frommoethelydo continued "They were deliriously happy to see the standards of beauty change.

"I cried. I thought of the teamwork, diligence, dedication and all the work involved. Not only were these contestants beautiful girls, but through their spirit of friendliness, cooperation and their efforts toward perfection on stage, they proved that black people have an inner beauty and more than the ability to imitate.

After another young lady at All Saints Catholic School where Minna just completed the eighth grade, submitted name as an entry to the Baltimore City pageant, Mr. and Mrs. Whittaker had to talk the matter over many times before agreeing to let their daughter participate.

resident agent-vice-president, various other store officials and employees and a store detective as defendants.

The suit refers to Criminal Court records which show that Mrs. Moore was charged by the store agents with taking a sum of $2,603.63 during her employment as a money-counter in January, 1971.

She was arrested and posted bail of $2,500.

* * *

After a Criminal Court trial, a jury found Mrs. Moore not guilty and freed her of all charges on May 12.

According to her statements on file in Superior Court, Mrs. Moore states that she has been unjustly made to suffer "slander of her good name, inability to obtain any other gainful employment, humiliation and embarrassment."

The matron asks for a jury trial. The defendants have been given 15 days after Aug. 2 or until Aug. 17 to plead to the declarations in accordance with the rules of Superior Court or suffer judgement by default.

When the AFRO reached the store resident agent-vice-president by phone Thursday, he refused comment.

Said Det. Wagner, "Her clothing was ripped, but there is no confirmation of sexual assault. She was hit on the head several times with a blunt instrument."

The AFRO learned that Miss Hightower was thought to have "frequented" the bars in the area of the Mulberry St. murder.

Although no suspects have been arrested, the AFRO was told police have several leads and that one principal may be a close associate of the woman.

According to neighbors in the death area, dope addicts and small children use the house for many purposes. The house has not been boarded. Many homes in the area are being torn down.

Residents have been shocked that this is the second murder of a woman in less than a year. Woman residents are demanding increased police protection and patrolling of the area at night.
