

Our public funds are thus circumstanced, as to capital, viz.

The state holds of 6 per cent. bearing an immediate interest,	431012 <sup>11</sup> / <sub>100</sub>
Of 3 per cent. bearing an immediate interest,	331585 <sup>77</sup> / <sub>100</sub>
Of 6 per cent. bearing an interest after the year 1800,	108385 <sup>39</sup> / <sub>100</sub>
	Dollars 870983 <sup>11</sup> / <sub>100</sub>

Installed debt,	38126 9 2
Interest due thereon to the 1st November, 1796,	2270 7 0
	40396 16 2
Uninstalled debt, say	22500 0 0
	£.62896 16 2

The uninstalled debt due to the state amounts to £.60739 15 9, which, from insolvencies, from the high price that much of the property was disposed at above its real value, from injunctions in chancery for relief, and various other causes, ought not to be calculated on beyond the last extended sum, but may probably produce more; therefore,

The aggregate amount of our capital appears to be	870983 <sup>11</sup> / <sub>100</sub> Dollars.
And of valid debts	£.62896 16 2
Amounting in the whole to the sum of	£.389515 11 0

Interest on outstanding emissions of June, 1780,	375 0 0
	23297 15 0
Annual surplus,	£.11884 16 6

The committee have not, nor is it practicable to obtain, accurate information as to the aggregate of outstanding certificates, they have been supposed to amount to £.30000, but interest in the course of last year has not been paid on the principal of more than £.3489 1 3, and this circumstance, together with a known fact, that certificates to a considerable amount were issued by the late John Johnson, and paid to the army in Carolina, in small sums, when they were of little value, and could not be taken care of, induces a strong belief, that the outstanding amount is many thousands less than the sum on which the committee have calculated interest.

The committee have also charged the state with an annual interest of £.375, on a supposed outstanding capital of £.7500 of the emissions of June, 1780, but it is very questionable if a capital
