Students train for mental health work

Among some 18 high school students participating in a summer careers program sponsored by the Mental Health Association of Metropolitan Baltimore are the following: Patricia Chase, 1627 Edmondson Avenue; Janet R. Crossland, Guilford Avenue and Valarie R. Freeman, Bernice Avenue.

All three young ladies have been assigned to Rosewood Hospital for the seven-week project.

Miss Cross and Miss Freeman are students at Eastern High. Miss Freeman has been active in various school organizations including the Modern Dance group; Student Council, Red Cross and the Model Youth City Council.

Mis Chase an honor student at Northwestern, has played basketball, softball and volleyball for her school.

Named for the Mental Health Association's first director, she Elaine Michelson Mental Health Careers program emphasizes learning while working.

Now in its tenth year, the program has been designed to encourage young people to those careers in mental health.

Free lunch is provided

A free summer-lunch program, sponsored by Provident Comprehensive Neighborhood Health Center began last week at St. Pius V Auditorium, Edmondson and Schroeder.

The lunches for 95 children are provided through the Mayor's Office, prepared and delivered by A.R.A., who won the contract to do so. Packed in bright green cardboard and covered tightly with cellophane, the lunches arrived on schedule, minutes before the meal begins.

The meal includes a lunchmeat-and-cheese sandwich with a separate container of mustard that he children spread with a plastic utensil. Also inside the box are raw, fresh carrots, citrus fruit, and milk, which Mrs. Lydia Mussenden, Health Center Nutritionist, calls "a very well-balanced meal."

The children live in the neighborhood serviced by Provident Health Center, 607 Edmondson Avenue and were registered for the free lunches by Mrs. Agnes Williams and Joseph Lee, coordinators.

The meals are supervised by Mrs. Dorothy Parker, Mrs. Angela Fitzhugh, Mrs. Carolyn Burnett, and Mrs. Gloria Gaines who live in the neighborhood and whose children participate in the lunch program.

The meals will be served for the next month.

Workers from the Neighborhood Youth Corps have been assigned to the Health Center and will lend assistance in administering the lunches as well as in recreational activities that will follow the lunches later in the day.

den unless it is one where the lighting has been designed to put the moon to shame . . . as is, for example the walled-in garden of Dr. and Mrs. Archie Robinson, where Les Onze Club held its closing party, Saturday.

The moon hid behind the branches of the great trees, but lights twinkled from the bottom of the pool, lighted the patio, and snuggled among the roses and greenery. The masculine guests took full advantage of the pool, but the girls shied away from the water.

which they said was chilly, but maybe it was really that the pants attire was hot and they looked much too pretty in the dressy setting to shed their chic clothes for even chic bathing togs.

The hostesses did an old-fashioned thing, each bringing a favorite dish, which added up to some great eating. What began as an afternoon party ran into quite late evening fun.

The hostesses were Bernice McDaniels, Bernice Robinson, Walta Young, Grace Walker, Deretha Stanley, Frances Henderson, Harriet Trader, Helen Gattis, Serena Holmes and Vashti Christmas, who heads the group. All of their husbands were on hand and lent a great hand at hosting.

Their guests included Bea and Dave Wright, Mabel and Eugene Byrd, Blanche and Paul Beckham, Jean and Marvin Davis, Gertrude Edwards, Ralph Howard, Ann and Leon Rosenberg, Lula Mackay, Ada and George Woodland, Christine and Marcus Moore, and Frances and Joshua Mitchell.

The Smart Set Club, rolding it's end-of-the-season session, went to the College Avenue place of Dr. and Mrs. Simon Carter for the party. The hostesses were Jackie (Mrs. Robert) Watts, Marie (Mrs. Charles Hicks, Mabel (Dr. Eugene) Bryd and Kay (Mrs. Carter).

Other members about were Judge and Mrs. Harry Cole, Dr. and Mrs. A. U. Yorie, Dr. and Mrs. Raymond Gray, Ruth Jennifer, Iris Mapp, Sara Newton, Alice Pinderhughes, Theodosia Stokes and Mr. and Mrs. John Wood.

Their guests were Mr. and Mrs. George Woodland, Mr. and Mrs. John Stokes, Dr. and Mrs. Herbert Trader, Mr. and Mrs. Yancy Whitaker, Dr. and Mrs. Ted Phifer, Dr. and Mrs. Cecil Johnston, Dr. and Mrs. Lonnie Greene, Mr. and Mrs. William Harris and Bob Lloyd.

The country's labor problems mounted Wednesday as half a million telephone workers walked off their jobs in the first nationwide strike of its kind since a 17-day walkout in 1968.

A leader of the Communications Workers of America predicted the strike would last at least two weeks, but the Bell Telephone System said automated equipment and supervisory personnel — handled calls should prevent any disruption of normal service.

Continentals name seven to new board

The Baltimore Continentals Inc. installed its first honorary board of directors in an impressive ceremony last Saturday evening in the Holiday Room of the Village of Cross Keys. Champagne and hors d'oeuvres were served at the reception which immediately followed.

Baskets of colorful flowers and greenery hanging from the ceiling, organ music playing in the background, and the beautiful hues of the long gowns worn by the members and guests enhanced the elegance of the black-tie affair.

Mrs. Helen Mae Chamberlain, Continental president, and Mrs. LaFrance Muldrow, president-elect, extended greetings. Mrs. Thelma Cox, parliamentarian, who also presided, installed the Board of Directors. Mrs. Sue Miles, vice president-elect, read the Continental pledge, and William Mumby, representing Continental men, offered the toast to the newly installed directors. Mrs. Mattie Mumby was chairman of the event.

The honorary board of directors for the Baltimore Chapter of the Continental Society for Underprivileged Children includes members from the areas of government, medicine, social welfare, psychiatry, education, and community service and will serve as an advisory body to the Chapter to assist in promoting an effective and significant program for the betterment of underprivileged children in Baltimore City.

They are:

Mrs. Kathleen Carter, Director, Children's Comprehensive Pediatric Clinic, University Hospital, and Professor of Sociology at the University of Maryland; Sherman M. Funk, Director of Educational Programs for Minority Enterprises; Dr. Louis E. Harmon, Commissioner, Civic Center; Dr. Delores Hunt, educator; Mrs. Elizabeth Murphy Moss, vice president-treasurer, AFRO-AMERICAN Newspapers; Dr. Addison Pope, Regional Mental Health Director for Baltimore City; and William Sykes, Director, Model Cities Program.

The specific functions of the Board will be (1) to serve as a liaison between the Continental Society and other similar organizations, individuals, or agencies interested in the welfare of children, (2) to identify further areas of needs of underprivileged children in the community, and (3) to help promote the endeavors of fund-raising and service in the behalf of children.

Responding for the new Board, Mrs. Carter said, "I feel I speak for the other members of the Board when I say we said 'yes' when asked to served because, being actively involved in the affairs of the community, we feel a special commitment to serve the children whom the Continentals are pledged to aid.

"Being committed and actually becoming involved in service to others," she added, "that is what it is all about."

Participants hail CRC's Workshop

"Community Relations Commission (CRC) workshop at Community College of Baltimore, for teachers, covering three weeks, from June 24, 1971 to July 13, 1971, has been inspiring, informative, and helpful.

"The teachers think more people should take this course, so we intend to repeat it next year."

This evaluation was made by Mrs. Marian Sjodin, division chief, Community Education Division, CRC.

The workshop, focused on how to combat turbulence in the schools, and was designed to develop personal sensitivity, classroom procedures and content to gain knowledge of community resources and urban problems.

The July 9, panel on "The Teacher's Relationship to the Parent and the Community," concentrated on new ways of cooperation between parent and teacher.

Panelists were Mrs. Marion Banfield, Family and Children's Society; James M. Griffin, Baltimore Board of School Commissioners; John Ferron, Mrs. Mimi Joseph, Pimlico Study Group; and Mrs. Madeline Murphy, community leader, Cherry Hill Community leader.

There was agreement among the panelists, that teachers should be well informed fact finders, reading newspapers, books, periodicals, to keep abreast of local problems.

Mr. Griffin stressed the importance of teachers attending school board meetings to understand the board's relationship to the administration and its concern for the morale of the teachers.

The panelists urged the teachers to get rid of the vacuum of teaching. Teachers are citizens, parents, professionals, and should contribute their expertise to problems of overcrowding, curricula, drugs, drop-outs, unemployment, under-achievers as well as local leadership development.

Depth of leadership, they added, is an urgent need in the black community.

"Its success is related to the way teachers help parents understand the problems of school and community, then to do something about it," the panel agreed.

The workshop, at its closing sessions on July 9 and 13, discussed African and African-American music and dance, the impact of the individual teacher and juvenile problems.
