Car salesmen unite to help community

Twenty-two Baltimore car salesmen established an organization six months ago, the Automobile Salesmen Association, Inc. Their aim is to help black car buyers and their communities.

Some of the charter members have been in business for 23 years and they are experienced and want to share their experience with the black buyer.

"The setup of the organization is similar to a referral service. If a car buyer comes to one of the salesmen and he is unable to help him, he will refer him to a member who can," said Bob Jones, a spokesman for the group.

The community is not the only beneficiary. The organization will also be capturing more of the black market.

The group explains it is not only interested in getting the black market, but in being an asset to the community they serve.

They are well equipped to help the buyer because they work for all the big car dealers from Ford to Cadillac.

Two other spokesmen for the organization are Radiean Coates, Chesapeake Cadillac Co. and Daniel Hays of A. D. Anderson Chevrolet ("Little Detroit").

Mr. Coates is the first to sell Cadillacs on the Eastern Seaboard.

One of the organization's projects is helping young people.

The organization is establishing a scholarship to send qualified students to school for sales and marketing.

"We want to seek and train young graduates in the field of sales," said Mr. Jones.

"We want to operate a school where we will be able to send black salesmen to any type of sales job. He will be an expert in his field because he will have the tools," Mr. Jones added.

"We also want to train men to be managers and also in going into a business of his own," Mr. Coates stated.

Mr. Jones explained they will also be sponsoring a Little League baseball team in the near future.

"We want to show the community that we have good qualified black salesmen to help them. If they contact us, we can help them in any problem they may have," Mr. Jones said.

Some of the other aims of the organization are: to enlighten the community in better understanding buying and financing, including the establishment of credit, serve as advisors in the area of purchasing, to develop a more stable bargaining power, to actively take part in community affairs, and to delete the idea that blacks are not capable of merchandising.

To raise money to carry out these objectives, the group gave a cocktail sip Sunday evening at Lenny Moore's. This is the first of several benefit programs they plan to make their dream a reality.

Paul Sarbanes warns city of lead poisoning

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Ten to 12 per cent of Baltimore's children have dangerously high amounts of lead in their blood, Rep. Paul S. Sarbanes (D-4th) revealed today in a statement submitted to the House of Representatives.

The Congressman quoted a recent report by Dr. Julian Chisolm Jr. of the Baltimore City Hospitals which suggests that 70 per cent of Baltimore's housing units are potential sources of lead poisoning.

Sarbanes cited the danger to 6,800 Baltimore children in his effort to persuade the Congress to appropriate $20 million to combat the disease.

Early last week Sarbanes criticized the Administration for its failure to request sufficient money for a national lead poisoning detection and prevention program.

"These new Baltimore figures," the Congressman said, "make it unmistakably clear that Baltimore and the nation at large will pay a terrible price in lives lost and stunted if sufficient funds are not allocated to control lead poisoning."

"Now that summer is upon us," he noted, "the Congress should be particularly concerned about this country's lead poisoning crisis, for high lead levels in the blood are particularly dangerous in hot weather."

Towson State to present premier

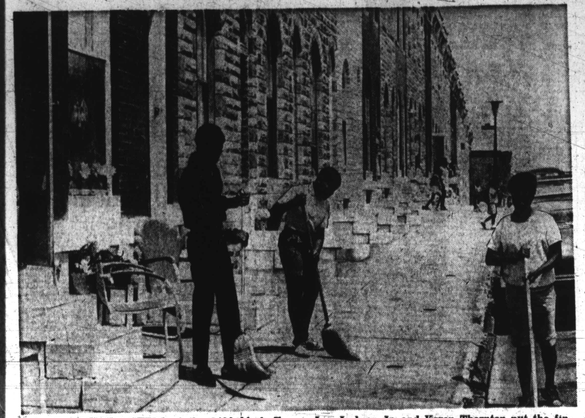
Gov. Mandel Praises Clean Blockers In Baltimore



WHITE MARBLE STEPS of the 2400 block E. Eager St. scrubbed to sparkle in the early morning summer sun to keep alive the old Baltimore tradition noted around the world. Here Albert Harris, Lee Jackson Jr. and Karen Thornton put the finishing touches on a beautiful block by sweeping the street and sidewalk.

2400 E. Eager St. to have Clean Block year round

By EDITH HOUSE

There is a block in East Baltimore planning to have a Clean Block campaign year around. It is the 2400 block of E. Eager St.

Presently, they are participating in the AFRO's Clean Block campaign to help keep their neighborhood attractive this summer. This is their first year in the campaign.

It is an immaculate little block from front to back and side to side. The alleyways are just as spotless as the main street and many of the backyards have multi-colored petunias lining the walkway.

On the other side of the alley is the railroad tracks and to have to contend with the debris from there, it can be said that these residents are committed to the cause of cleanliness.

There was no trash or litter on the city's property as well as their own. The city's property has been kept clean largely by the efforts of the clean block participants who get out every morning around 7:00 to get the block in tip top shape.

• • •

There are over 35 little two-story homes in the block. As this reporter stood on the corner of Milton Ave. and looked up Eager St., it was a picturesque site.

Clean Blockers have chosen summery shades for their color scheme. The orange and white flower pots and out door furniture highlight the gleaming white marble steps which are part of the city's illustrious past.

At the corner of N. Milton and E. Eager there is a tree with a patch of grass surrounding it. Planted in the grass are artificial orange and white zinnias.

Along the sidewalks, the orange and white plastic flowers are peeping up from sidewalk cracks.

Residents are very proud of their block because many expressed concern for the upkeep of the area.

They have been fearing that their street may become a part of the increasing number of urban ghetto blocks.

But with concern for their neighborhood and work from the residents, this block will not become a ghetto street.

• • •

The residents can be described as "get out and do it yourself" people. They do not wait for the city to come and do the job, they do it themselves.

Mrs. Gloria Gardner said that she and her neighbors have patched up holes in the street that house rats.

Many blocks beside this block are plagued with rats, but so far, these residents have been more successful than others in combating the problem.

Residents are proud of what they are doing in the neighborhood and their hopes for the neighborood and they were eager to talk about it.

At 2442, live Edward and Mrs. Mabel Weaver and the five little Weavers: Edward Jr., 14, Anthony, 13 Senora, 11, Marvin, 10 and Lolita 8.

Clean Block proclaimed a Maryland Institution

By PAULA M. BROOKS

The AFRO Clean Block Campaign is pleased to report to its members the official acknowledgement of the Clean Block Campaign by the chief executive of the state of Maryland, Gov. Marvin Mandel.

The governor's proclamation marks the campaign as an official Maryland event.

The period from June 25-Aug. 29, have been proclaimed as the AFRO Clean Block months.

The govenor expressed his wish that the result of the campaign will be clean streets, well kept yards, neat homes, and a city which visitors will remember for its community spirit and civic pride.

The proclamation reads: "The AFRO Clean Block Campaign represents an important contribution to the betterment of the Baltimore community and is deserving of recognition by the people of Maryland. Now, therefore, I, Marvin Mandel, Governor of the State of Maryland, do hereby proclaim the period of June 25 to August 29th as Clean Block Campaign time."

Funtime party

"The Ghost of Zorro," a movie, and four Warner Brothers cartoons provided happy entertainment for all the AFRO Clean Block workers.

The Regent Theatre hosted the AFRO Clean Blockers for a period of two hours Tuesday morning and oh, what fun.

If some of the children were not busy watching the screen, they were buying hot dogs, popcorn, soda, and candy.

The theatre was packed from "stem to stern."

Even though there was a large number of children present, most of them were very well behaved.

Clean Blockers will be invited back to the Regent again for another morning of fun and adventure on the screen.

If you register your block and get down to work to help clean up our town, you can join in the fun times we are having.

Funds to Clean Block Campaign are tax-deductible, happily

By MICHELE McRAE

Urgent appeals for contributions to the AFRO Clean Block Fund are being made by the Clean Block staff.

Many treasured friends of Clean Blockers have already mailed their contributions upon receiving the appeal and others before. Many thanks to all who have responded to appeals made.

This money is used to reward Clean Blockers at the closing ceremony when the campaign comes to an end the last week in August.

More than 400 letters of appeal have been mailed from the Clean Block Office. If you have not received a letter of appeal, still show your support by sending your contributions immediately.

Acknowledgements of contributions will be carried each week on the Clean Block Page of the AFRO.

Mail all checks on money orders to AFRO charities Fund-Clean Block, 628 N. Eutaw St., Baltimore Md., 21201. Contributions are tax deductible.

Clean Blockers to have time of their lives at Camp Greenbelt next wk.

This summer all registered AFRO Clean Blockers will have the great pleasure of spending a night or two, depending on age, in the wonderous forest of Camp Greenbelt.

The camp is located in Greenbelt Park just off the Baltimore Washington Parkway.

If you are wondering how expensive the overnight camping trip will be, the answer to that is "Have no fear," the trip cost nothing.

Camp Greenbelt is a part of the National Park Service "summer in the park" Program.

This means that your children have been invited as guests of the park.

Children ages 8 to 10-years-old, will go to camp Greenbelt on Monday morning, July 19 and stay through Tuesday afternoon July 20.

Children ages 11 to 14-years-old will go to camp on Wednesday morning, July 21 and stay through Friday afternoon, July 23.

Place of departure and return will be at the Chick Webb Recreation Cener located at 623 North Eden St., just off of East Monument St.

Campers sroold be at the Center by 8 a.m.

Buses will leave at 9 a.m., and will return at approximately 6 p.m. on the designated days.

• • •

The camp requests that your child bring only those items which the counseling staff has asked him to bring.

PLEASE do not supply your child with food. There will be plenty of wholesome food for all of the children.

Parents must complete the medical form and permission blank found on the last two of pages of the camping brochure.

These forms must be filled out and returned to the AFRO Clean Block Office immediately.

Applications for camp can be secured at the Clean Block Office, located on the Druid Hill Ave. side of the AFRO building.

• • •

Remember parents, this program is designed for your children's benefit, health and fun. Let them go to camp Greenbelt this summer.

Campers List

1. One change of clothes. (sneakers are good)
2. One towel.
3. Toothbrush and paste.
4. One sheet and pillow case.
5. Registration and medical form (see the applications).
6. Raincoat and boots, sweater, sweatshirt or jacket for cool evenings.

Sincerely yours,
AFRO Clean Block Staff

Moving on with UNCF

Like thousands of students, Renee McCracken is moving on to a productive, meaningful life because of her studies in a UNCF college.

The United Negro College Fund (UNCF) gives financial support to help its thirty-six member colleges maintain top-grade educational facilities. UNCF has also given encouragement to promising high school graduates. The kind of encouragement that has helped five generations of black students to a college education.

Support UNCF and its member colleges. America's young people need the kind of encouragement UNCF has to offer. The United Negro College Fund, 55 E. 52nd Street, New York, New York 10022.
