Ambassador Holland hosts Baltimoreans in Copenhagen

That was a regular mutual admirati on shebang in Sweden, last week, when His Excellency Jerome Holland, Americ an Ambassador to that country, entertained some 450 Americans at an ultra c ocktail party, among whom were more than a sprinkling of Baltimoreans. Said C ouncilwoman Victorine Adams, one in the group, "We were so proud of them (t he Hollands) and our beautiful 'browns' and 'blacks' really created a sensation.'

The party was at the Ambassador's residence . . . in the lovely garden that borders on the river, and in the beautiful old rooms of the magnificent mansion.

The guests were members of the International Golf Tour Party that visited in Stockholm, Sweden and Copenhagen, Denmark, and included, in addition to Mr. and Mrs. Willie Adams, Mrs. Mildred Brown of Aberdeen, Md., Mrs. Frances C. H. Clark, Miss Blanch E. Cox, Mrs. Anna Yaung, and daughters, Lynette and Lauren; Mrs. Anne M. Jones, Mrs. Mildred Carter, Mrs. Mamie Diggs, of this city. Miss Evelyn M. Hughes of New York travelled with the Baltimore group.

But Tsh! Tsh Mrs. Catherine Terry, scheduled to go, underwent emergency surgery on the day of departure, and was ensconsed in Johns Hopkins during the time.

Ambassador Holland was speaker at the awards dinner of the group, held at the Stockholm-Sheraton Hotel, headquarters for the tour group.

Add to other peregrinators: Ruth Russell, who is travelling in the Scandinavian countries; Diana Brown, Iris Mapp and Hellena Edmonds . . . along with Diana's small son, motored to New Jersey for a weekend in Atlantic City; Verniece Reynolds is in Norwalk, Conn. for a brief respite with her mother, are taking off with Mr. Reynolds (Medford) at summer's end for Europe.

The James Carrolls (Dr. Rebecca) are lesurely seeing most of Africa, this summer. The Robert Diggs (Cleo) selected London to become more acquainted with; and Dr. and Mrs. Edward McDaniels (Bernice) have plans to explore Europe. Joseph Walker, attorney, and Mrs. Walker (Grace) also have European peeking plans.

The Fleming sisters, (Miss) Josephine, and Mrs. Sandra F. Dingle, were back in the States, Tuesday after 20 days of seeing nine countries in Europe . . . and more convinced than ever, say they, that there's no place like the Good Ole USA. They did France, Monaco, Italy, Austria, Lchtenstein, Switzerland, Germany, Holland and England. Mrs. Dingle settled for doing some jewelry shopping in Switzerland . . . but Miss Jacqueline Fleming satisfies her urge with Paris fashions. Both are teachers in Baltimore city schools and were traveling with a group of persons in the educational field, chiefly from the U.S., but also from Singapore and the Philippines.

Mrs. L. Olivia Bates was in Pars, France, last week. Had been to Rome, Italy, Switzerland, Germany and London, England. And Mrs. Olivia Smith joined Washington Masonics on their tour to the Virgin Islands and the Bahamas. She also stopped in Florida. And Judge and Mrs. Willam Murphy, who will stop in Atlantic, Ga. for the National Bar Association, then go on to Africa for a vacation.

Swim, sip and sup was the great motif at the fabulous poolside of Bill and Bettye Morton, Saturday, where his sister, Dolores Morton Spriggs and brother-in-law, Emory Sprggs were hosts.

The guests, they explaned were their "wonderful" neighbors of the 2600 block of Longwood Street, plus a few close friends and several members of her high school club, The Targeens.

Delightful drinks and delicious food never seemed to end . . . and the ribs, chicken, steak, corn-on-the-cob, baked beans and salads were all prepared by Dolores.

Her four-year-old niece, Tanya Savage, broke the ice by being the first in the pool. The adults followed, including Emory, who never took his lighted cigar out of his mouth the entire time he was in the water.

Their daughters, Greer and Gretchen Shorter, assisted with the hosting chores.

About, looking beautiful and handsome, were:

Dolores and Lawrence Morton, Dot and Junkie Wood, Gwendolyn and Wilfred Seaborne, Mae and Walter Dyson, Grace and Joe Walker, Gwen and Bill Spencer, Madelne and Marshall Pyles,

Also Dell and Ben Foreman, Mazie and Robert Rea, June and Ducky Ross, Connie and Bobby Wilder, Minnie and Calvin Styles, Chris and Marcellus Moore, Evelena nad Bill Henderson, Ida and Clyde Rogers, Evelyn and Bill Morton, Evelyn Thomas, Bernice McDaniels, Dorothy Sheffey, Eunice Boyce, Adrienne Savage, Clarissa Morris, Alexis Morton, Greer Shorter, Gretchen Shorter, Paula Branch, Beverly Ford, Edgar Lansey, Walter Malloy, Calvn Davis, Aaron Morton and Alphonso Green.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Washington on Kitmore Road was the setting for the surprise party for Mrs. Oliver (Carol) Washington, given by her sisters-in-law, Mrs. Gloria Washington and Mrs. Mary Washington.

The affair, a baby shower, was delightfully carried out in the honoree's favorite colors, yellow, green and white. To the unique decorations, from stork to cake were added an interesting program, and of course, a galaxy of gifts. The latter ran from a crib from the family to beautiful clothing for the expected baby.

The entertainment included two numbers from Barbara Striesand's collection, "I Wish I Were A Kid Again" and "I'm Five." Melvin Michael Washington 3rd recited "What Are Little Boys and Girls Made Of." And while Mrs. Washington opened her gifts, Mrs. Gloria Washington read sentiments from the cards.

The guests included:

Mesdames Leona Washington, Beverly Staples, Gloria Weaver, Dorothy Crowder, Marie Jenkins, Jo Ann Gray, Iris Powell, Heidi McLendon, Sandra Gaither, M. Olgesby, Gwendolyn Marshall, M. Signard, Patricia Allen, Elizabeth Weaver;

And Misses Paula Washington, Barbara Curry, Carolyn Francis, Leona Powell, Belinda Anderson, Paula Chambers; and Stanley Baswell.

Miss Farr married to Robert Gillard

Charming is the word for the wedding and reception in which Miss Joyce Ann Farr became the bride of Robert Gillard, Saturday.

The bride, daughter of Mrs. Louise Farr of this city and Willie Farr of York, Pa., wore an original midi-length dress designed by her mother. The dress of white embroidery featured a high neckline, empire waist and three-quarter length sleeves. With it she wore a picture hat of straw with wide streamers falling down the back, and carried an old-fashion bouquets of white daisies and baby's breath, with a touch of turquoise flowers.

The ensemble worn by her sister, Miss Valerie Farr, who was maid of honor, was in turquoise, styled exactly like that of the bride, and accessorized in the same color, including her picture hat. She carried a basket of carnations and baby's breath, also with a touch of turquoise.

The marriage took place in the home of the bride's mother, with the Rev. Joiseph B. Simon, pastor of Fulton Baptist Church officiating.

The reception was in the garden of the Laurel Drive home of the bride's uncle aunt, Mr. and Mrs. James Harvey, where the turquoise and white color scheme was further carried out. Tables in white were placed under turquose umbrellas.

Mrs. Farr chose for her daughter's wedding an ensemble in light blue, with matching accessories. Mrs. Gillard wore aqua with matching accessories. In the receiving line also was the bride's maternal grandmother, Mrs. Clara Rice, whose chose an ensemble in shocking pink.

The reception was attended by 250 guests. after an undisclosed honeymoon, the couple will be at home at 4921 Lanier Avenue.

The new Mrs. Gillard is employed by the Social Security Administration. Mr Gillard, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. David Gillard is recently out of the service, having been on tour of duty in Korea.

MR. AND MRS. ROBERT GILLARD were married in Baltimore, Saturday. The bride is the former Miss Joyce Ann Farr.

Tips given on moving to new home

If you are planning to move your family into a new residence this year, there are preparations to make and precautions to take which can assure you a happy and satisfying move.

The Movers' and Warehousemen's Assn. of Maryland has issued suggestions to guide householders in planning a move that is smooth and easy for the whole family.

First, choose your mover carefully, advises William L. Ayers Jr., executive director of the association. Your household goods and personal belongings are valued possessions which should be entrusted only to moving firms of established reliability.

Check with your Better Business Bureau on the mover's reputation and customer-experience records of his service and reliability in settling claims.

Get estimates of moving costs in writing. To assure a reliable estimate, be sure to show your mover everything you want him to move including the contents of closets, garage, basement and attic.

Since hazards are involved in the moving and storage of household effects, determine to what extent you are protected. Even though your mover states that your goods are "bonded and protected," such protection may be very limited in its coverage

If loss or damage to your possessions occurs while and therefore your risk may be considerable.
carrier, be sure to have the they are in the hands of the driver make appropriate notations on the delivery receipt. Notify your mover promptly, in writing, of the extent of any loss or damage so that he can send you the proper forms to be filled out and returned for investigation.

Set your moving date well in advance and, to up your chances for relaxed and dependable service, try to make your move during the industry's slack periods.

ALEXANDRIA, Va. — Faculty selections for the 1971-72 session of Luther Rice College were made by the Dean and Personnel Committee and approved by the directors at the July meeting. Eight new teachers will be added to strengthen the academic program of this Baptist liberal arts college.
