Willie Lloyd, Sr., 58, was AFRO printer

Funeral services for Willie Burke Lloyd, Sr., 58, will be held Tuesday in Plymouth, N.C., where he was born and reared.

Mr. Lloyd died on Wednesday at Maryland General Hospital where he had been a patient for five weeks. He had heart trouble.

A native of Plymouth, he attended the public schools there and moved to Baltimore in 1962 with his wife, two sons and daughter. His wife, Mrs. Pinkey Lloyd and family will receive friends at the Charles R. Law Funeral Home, 802 Madison Ave. on Sunday from 2-9 p.m.

He is survived by a daughter, Miss Joylette Lloyd; 2 sons, Willie Jr. and Melvin P. and a grandchild.

Mr. Lloyd, AFRO printer for 19 years, came to the AFRO on June 2, 1952. In a letter of appliiation he said:

have been in printing for 14 years. In this time I have been make-up man, and composition pressman all with a white weekly. If you will consider me for a trial to make good for my family and me, please let me know at once."

He did. At his death this week, John J. Oliver, vice president in charge of production noted: "Willie was cool and had ability to get along with people, everybody.

"For 6 years he was the president of the union. During his administration there was always the utmost cooperation. He was a very fine printer, and was quite emphatic with his belief that he came to work to do a job and he lived up to his belief. The AFRO has lost a lot with the passing of Mr. Lloyd whom many fondly called "Good le Willie," or "Mr. Willie."

• • •

Mr. Lloyd had expressed the hope that he would live long enough to receive his 20-year award from the AFRO.

Two days before his death, co-workers gathered at his bedside, watched as Mr. Oliver, AFRO President John H. Murphy 3rd, made the presentation of a handsomely engraved watih.

WILLIE LLOYD, SR. — AFRO printer for over 20 years, died Wednesday at Maryland General Hospital.

Carter memorial service attracts overflow crowd

"We are here tonight to talk about Walter Carter. He is our friend. He is a black man. If we should weep tonight or tomorrow, let no man misunderstand our weeping.

"It will not be only an expression of grief. It also will be an expression of fierce anger against the granite mountain of racism which casts its long shadow across this nation.

"The mountain of racism against which Walter's brave heart was pitted in unrelenting struggle."

Congressman Parren J. Mitchell was speaking Tuesday night at Union Baptist Church, 1200 block Druid Hill Ave., opening an hour long memorial service for Walter Carter, the Activists civil rights leader.

Congressman Mitchell presiding set the tone for a number of speakers who followed with eulogies.

Despite the hot humid evening and perspiring conditions in the church, the upper auditorium was packed to capacity, with some peole standing along the walls. Others were seated in a downstairs hall, where the ceremonies were pipel over a loud speaker system.

They were the climaxing throng of a steady stream of citizens who had filed past the open casket since late afternoon.

The Rev. Vernon Dobson, pastor, opened the service, leading the assembly in the singing of "O, Freedom."

It was the first of three sung by the assembly. Midway of the service, they sang "Lift Every Voice and Sing," with some members of the family joining in.

The concluding song was "We Shall Overcome."

Speaker after speaker labeled Mr. Carter a courageous, dedicated leader who fought for his people, but dealt in issues rather than personalities.

Because of the size of the crowd and the rather dim lighting in the church, it was difficult to spot top personages and public figures.

Among the speakers, however, were James Griffin, Edward Chanze, of CORE; James Bridgeforth, Activists; Norman Reeves, National Social Workers; State Sen. Clarance M. Mitchell 3rd, National Black Social Workers (George L. Russell Jr., city solicitor, was in the audience but not called to speak by Mr. Mitchell;

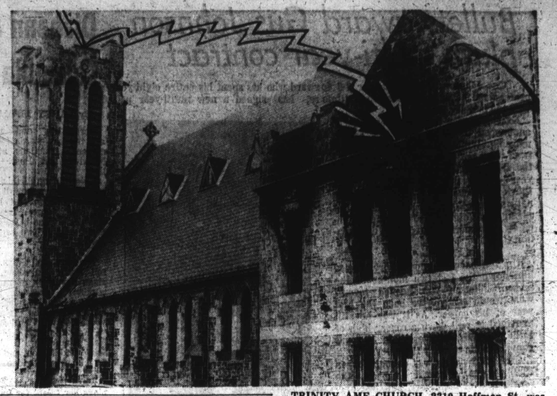
Also Father James O'Conner, of Loyola College, William Sykes, Model Cities; Father Henry Offer, Ministerial Alliance; Travis W. Vauls, Urban League, and Delegate Troy Brailey.

Among the others were the Rev. Marion Bascom, Albert Williams Jr. and Frank Hunt.



TRINITY AME CHURCH, 2310 Hoffman St. was victim of Sunday's storm when lightning struck the tower of the main building and bounced to the recreation building (right). The church suffered critical damage from smoke and water but firemen cautiously selected stained glass windows which could be more easily replaced before crashing in. The main glass front door had to be broken. The recreation hall was gutted and damage is yet to be estimated. The Rev. James Venson is pastor.
