Double-ring ceremony unites Miss Smothers, Samuel Myers

A double-ring ceremony in St. Pius V Catholic Church, Saturday, at High Noon united Miss Sharon Eloise Smothers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph D. Smothers Sr., and Samuel Lloyd Myers Jr.

• • •

Father Robert Mulligan SSJ officiated, and the program of music was by Mrs. A. Sinclair Swan, organist; and Mrs. Linda Silverthorne, cousin of the bridegroom, soloist. Mrs. Silverthorne sang "A Time For Us" from Romeo and Juliet, and the "Ava Maria."

• • •

The high white marble altar of the church was decorated with large baskets of white carnations and green fern. The low altar, where the ceremony took place, was decorated what low sprays of white carnations, and the first rows of pews marked with satin bows.

Miss Smothers was given in marriage by her father, and attended by Miss Marsha J. Brown, student in the University of Maryland Medical School, maid of honor.

• • •

She wore a gown of ivory organza accented with peau d'ange lace, designed in the purest shape and with a chapel train. Her veil was a Juliet crown with peau d'ange lace reembroidered with tiny seed pearls. She carried an arrangement of stephanotis with an orchid.

Bridesmaids were Miss Tama Rose Myers, of Bowie, Md., sister of the bridebroom and a student in the University of Pennsylvania Law School; Mrs. Patricia Little Gomez of Hackensack, N. J.; Miss Pamela Carroll of this city and Miss Valerie Patterson of Morgan State College, here.

The honor attendant wore an apricot and green dimity voile printed gown which featured large puff sleeves. The waist was sashed with green satin ribbon. Her headpiece was a wide-brimmed white straw hat with green satin ribbon. She carried a nosegay of green carnations.

• • •

The dresses of the bridesmaids were identical to that of the maid of honor, except the ribbon at their waists and around their hats was apricot. They carried nosegays of carnations tinted apricot.

Two petite flower girls, Shannon Hawkins of Columbia, Md and a cousin of the bridegroom; and April McClain of this city, wore apricot gowns with puff sleeves, designed like that of the other attendants. Their wishes, which Charles W. Wilson of Rochester, N.Y., student at Morgan State College.

• • •

The reception was held out in the bride's colors of apricot and green. Guests were greetd by Miss Linda D. Holland, cousin of the bride, and presented to the line by Mrs. Yvette M. tied in the back and flowed to the floor, were in green satin, and they carried white straw baskets filled with carnations.

Holley is new PR director at Morgan State College

Morgan State College named John A. Holley its new director of public relations, filling the vacancy created last March with the resignation of Mrs. Frances Murphy Henderson as director of the College's News Bureau.

Mrs. Henderson is now chairman of the AFRO—AMERICAN board of directors.

Mr. Holly, who assumed his new post earlier this week, formerly director of public informaton services at Albany (Ga.) State College. His appointment was announced here by Morgan president, Dr. King V. Cheek Jr.

A native Baltimorean and a graduate of Frederick Douglass High School, Mr. Holly joined the Albany State College administrative staff in 1966 as director of public relations. A year ago, in 1970, when the College established a word processing center, he also directed that operation in addition ti his duties as the College's public information officer.

Before joining the Albany State Staff in 1966, Holly headed the public relations program at Shaw (N.C.) University. Prior to that he worked with the Virginia Teachers Association in Richmond for 4½ years and edited that organization's monthly magazine and served as assistant to the executive secretary.

He has also worked on the staff of North Carolina Central Universkty and with the Commissoner's Office of the Central Intercollegiate Athletic Association (CIAA.

Mr. Holly, who will hold the rank of assistant professor on the Morgan faculty, received the bachelor's degree from North Carolina Central University and has done further study at the State University of Iowa and Virginia Commonwealth University.

Mr. Holly, in his new post, will wear several hats; among them being his role as the College's sports information director, working exclusively wth Morgan intercollegiate athlete program.

He will be involved in several athletic promotional ventures, among them being the Whitney Young Memorial Football Classic between Morgan and Grambling at New York City's Yankee Stadium on Sept 11 and televised by ABC nationally and the Texaco sponsored broadcasting of all eleven Morgan football date during the coming season.

CINCINNATI — As part of its community involvement program, Keebler Company recently delivered two thousand pounds of cookies and crackers to the Seven Hills Neighborhood Houses in Cincinnati. Holloway C. Sells, Jr., (R.), Executive Director of Seven Hills, accepts a box of the products from Keebler's Cincinnati Plant Manager, John Drennan (L.). Looking on are Keebler's Employment Manager, Albert Martinand Miss Anne Hasham, Personnel Manager. Mr. Sells accepted the responsibility of receiving the products; but, seven other organizations charged with the care of young children, are part of the program and will receive a share of the Keebler products. This marks the second city in which the program is now in operation. To date, child care organizations in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania have shared approximately 5,680 pounds of the company's bakery products.

Harmonica contest open to youngsters

Talented youngsters in Maryland, between the ages of 5 and 18 will help celebrate the 150th Anniversary of the harmonica as contestants in the national Choo Choo Charlie Harmonica Contest being held across the U.S.
