Garnish floor

The Federal Wage Garnishment Law (Title III of the Consumer Credit Protection Act) protects employees from discharge because of a garnishment against their wages for a single debt and guarantees them at least $48 of disposable earnings in a week before any deduction for garnishment may be made.

If an employee's disposable earnings are more than $64 in a week, no more than 25 per cent of those earnings may be garnished.

the front door and through the living room windows and drapery. . .

Just prior to police intrusion, Mrs. Dorsey, her daughters, Mrs. Joan Wilson of 4100 block Mountwood Rd. and Mrs. Jean White, 33, of the 4300 block Seminole Ave., their children, four-year-old Lynn Wilson and fourteen-month-old Ivan White, were watching television in the living room.

Sitting near the locked screen door, Mrs. Dorsey states she saw two men entering through her front gate.

She said they were "dressed like thugs, wearing sunglasses, their shirttails out, their pants grimy."

According to the police report, these two men, Detectives David Hollingsworth and E. E. Stanley, carried a search and seizure warrant signed by Judge Liss for suspected lottery activities at the Mountwood house.

Mrs. Wilson and police reports state that one of the men (Det. Hollingsworth) told Mrs. Dorsey he was sent by the housing authority to investigate cracking of her walls.

Det. Stanley said in his report that Mrs. Dorsey was told this "to gain entry without force."

Having received no notice from the housing authority and suspicious of their unruly appearance, Mrs. Dorsey said she refused to unlock her screen door.

Det. Hollingsworth in his report said Stanley and he then "show their identification and said they had a search warrant."

Mrs. Dorsey and her daughters claim they were not shown any identification until the shooting had ceased and did not see the warrant until 3:10 p.m. while in jail in the Southwest District.

Both Mrs. Dorsey and police report that Det. Hollingsworth thrust his foot through the glass bottom of the screen door and drew his gun.

Mrs. Jean White told the AFRO she ran into the dining room and grabbed a 32 cal. revolver kept atop the china closet.

She said she fired two or three times.

Police report that the two detectives jumped from the front porch and police from the street shot into the Dorsey home.

At this point Mrs. Dorsey was struck by a bullet. Police say Det. Stanley was wounded in the right leg.

Mrs. White claims she could not have hit Det. Stanley because he was hit from behind.

She said she thinks he was probably hit by one of the policemen out on the street.

Meanwhile, Mrs. Joan Wilson said she ran into the kitchen and telephoned the operator to get the police. She said she told the police that there were men shooting into the house, trying to get in.

Mrs. Dorsey and Mrs. Wilson said they then led Lynn and Ivan out the back door but were stopped by a plainclothesman, Sgt. R. D. Nevin.

Nevin is reported to have forced Mrs. Wilson to the ground, bruising her left hip. Not until she demanded to know who this man was did he identify himself as a policeman, Mrs. Wilson claims.

Mrs. Wilson said she managed to crawl away from Nevin into the alley behind the Dorsey home.

There she said she came to a uniformed officer by his patrol car and, she claims, he pushed her to the pavement.

Again she says she escaped and went through a neighbor's house to Mountwood Rd.

The street was full of patrol cars, policemen and onlookers, Mrs. Wilson reports.

Mrs. Wilson says, when she entered the Dorsey home, her mother and sister had their hands tightly handcuffed behind their backs.

Mrs. Helen Dorsey and Mrs. Jean White were jailed at Southwest District. Both were charged with assault with intent to murder and to maim. Mrs. White was also charged with discharging a firearm within the city limits.

When Det. David Hollingsworth showed Mrs. Dorsey and Mrs. White the warrant for the first time, 3 p.m., he wrote on the warrant: "nothing taken out of the house."

The police admit they found no evidence of lottery activities.

The next morning, Sept. 9, Mrs. Dorsey posted $2,500 bail and Mrs. White posted $5,000 bail.

Their case was postponed to Nov. 3.

Relatives say mother, 28, dropped from sight Sunday

MISSING MATRON, Mrs. Frances Wilson, has been gone from her home seven days

Police and the Missing Persons Bureau have been notified that Mrs. Frances Wilson, 28, 2303 Hollins St., has been missing from her home since Sunday.

Relatives told the AFRO they last saw her leaving her home at about 1 p.m. Sept. 5 to go to her aunt's house on Saratoga St. They state they were told she never reached her destination and since then they have had no communication from her.

Anyone having knowledge of the whereabouts of the mother of one daughter, age 14, please notify police or relatives, her mother, Mrs. Mary Foster, phone 664-4824 or aunt, Mrs. Mary Goodwin, 770 W. Saratoga St., Apt. 307, phone 752-0837.

Mrs. Wilson wears a bush and is about 5 ft. 4 in. tall and weighs about 138 lbs. She had on a red blouse, brown trousers and carried a black purse when last seen.

Since the first Mercury flight, the Federal government has spent over $30 billion from white and black tax payers alike.

Using a drill similar to the one used by the Apollo 15 astronauts on the moon, Dr. Joseph Allen broke ground for the new Maryland Academy of Sciences, Thursday afternoon.

Astronaut Allen was the Apollo 15 mission capsule communicator during the last lunar rover explorations.
