Black economic development group may have December meeting here

Congressman Parren J. Mitchell has disclosed that he plans to convene here a meeting of black economic development agencies and cooperations on the national level.

He said such a conference may come to Baltimore within the next 60 days, by Dec. 1.

Two earlier developments on the economic and political scene appear to have helped to initiate this decision.

Congressman Mitchell delivered the keynote address Saturday at the annual meeting in St. Louis, Mo., of the National Association of Black Manufacturers.

He called for the extensive use of set-aside programs for blacks in federal, state and city procurement contracts.

Citing point by point the failure of the Nixon Administration to act on recommendations made to the President by the congressional black caucus, Congressman Mitchell stated that the only way to secure implementation of the caucus recommendations on minority economic development is through increased political activity on the part of black Americans.

Another development is a scheduled meeting in Chicago this weekend of a number of black political and civil rights leaders from across the country, on planning for the Presidential primaries in several states next year.

Reports are that the plans will center on solidified participation in these primaries, with perhaps in some areas local black candidates being entered.

Congressman Mitchell is expected to play an important role in this conference. He told the AFRO this

No broken bones after 40-ft. fall

A 10-year-old girl, who her mother claims resented a spanking, has survived a fall from a third story window in her apartment home in the 2800 block Reisterstown Rd.

It is estimated that the child plunged about 40 feet from the window ledge to the ground. Considered "a miracle" is the fact she has no broken bones.

Provident Hospital reports the youngster, Rita McClary, arrived at emergency at 12:50 p.m. Wednesday and suffered multiple contusions and lacerations plus a possible small chip of a heel bone.

She is reported in fair condition and remains in the hospital under observation and for more concentrated study.

The AFRO went on the scene of the fall into the rear alley of the apartment house after several neighbors called to say that they heard screams before the fall took place.

Raising her eyebrows, a neighbor told this reporter one of the main complaints was that an ambulance did not arrive promptly.

She noted that the ambulance had only to come from a firehouse near Liberty Heights and Holmes Aves. just off the intersection of Reisterstown Rd. and Liberty Heights. An upset crowd stood by until the ambulance arrived.

The youngster, a pupil of the Franklin Roosevelt School No. 18 is the daughter of Mrs. Gloria Johnson, a supermarket employee. Mrs. Johnson did not explain her daughter's being at home and not in school but stated she felt the child jumped through the window.

CHILD, 10, survives fall of about 40 feet from 3rd floor apartment house window.

200 Baptist ministers join Brailey's No Booze drive

A while back Delegate Troy Brailey (D-4) initiated a drive to halt sale of alcoholic beverages from 2 a.m. to 1 p.m. Sunday and close bars, taverns and package goods stores during those hours.

Church goers prompted the drive by complaining of difficulty getting past the "nippers" on the way to services.

Subsequently, women leaders took up the cause and have been joined by lady preachers, mothers, housewives, members of the Order of Eastern Star and groups of other club members.

This Monday, the Baptist Ministers' Conference of over 200 members went on record as unanimously supporting the "No Booze Sunday" campaign.

Mr. Brailey quotes the group as enthusiastically responding with pledges to send bus loads to Annapolis when his pre-filed bill comes up for public hearing during the next session of the General Assembly.

He states, "They also pledgedd to send speakers to Annapolis to voice support of the bill.

"One of the ministers has offered me 15 minutes on his radio broadcast before then."

Square rally will include Mr. Lively, Ohugabala of the SOUL School, Paul Coates of the Black Panter Party and Shabuka of the Republic of New Africa.

Set rally at Jail Saturday

In protest of the treatment of black persons in prison, International Black Workers Congress is leading rallies Saturday at the Baltimore City Jail at 1 p.m. and at Johnson Square (Biddle and Valley Sts.) at 3 p.m.

At the later rally, activist Walter Lively told the AFRO, the protestors will organize the Harriett Tubman Prison Movement.

Besides ending imprisonment for all blacks, this movement is intended to investigate and bring to light specific cases of prison atrocities in Maryland.

This organization, added Lively, will also seek the removal of any prison guard or administrator suspected of prison brutalities.

Speakers at the Johnson

He is survived by his wife Mrs. Mary S. Jackson, a daughter Mrs. Gail J. Adams, one son Nebraska Jackson, two sisters, Mrs. Agnora McMorse, Mrs. Willia Mae Dawkins of South Carolina, a brother Tommie Jackson, Washington; and his mother Mary Jackson of South Carolina.

Burial is in Garden of Eternal Hope Cemetery.

WHO CARES ABOUT THE FUTURE OF BALTIMORE?

EARL KOGER CARES!

There are more than 90,000 voters in the 4th District. Only an average of 11,029 votes were cast for the three top candidates in the Primary. This is a disgrace. Why such a small turn-out? . . . . .

It is evident that the public is sick of factions whose only interest is their fight for political power. Koger's interest is Baltimore, not selfish power. He will fight for you.

What about transportation for black people in Baltimore?

Why should a City motorist, without violations, pay $100 more for auto insurance than a motorist in the county?

Why should law abiding men and women stay trembling and cowering in their homes at night for fear of the hoodlums and bums in our streets?

Wat about a Police Commissioner who appears insensitive to the mores, life styles, and values of Black people?

What about the $400,000,000 Never-To-Be-Built Expressway, that displaced 2,000 Black families, and at a loss to Baltimore of $20,000,000 in taxes?

What about the medical exploitation of the Aged?

What about the scholarship scandals, and special privilege frauds?

Why should black and white people live in growing hatred and distrust in this dying town, rather than in love and respect working together to make Baltimore the foremost American city?

Everyone — Democrats and Republicans — Can Now Vote for Koger for City Council

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore an Empire A-Line gown of white silk organza trimmed in Venice and Guipure lace. The bodice had a scoop neckline with long sleeves. The skirt had lace trimmed panels and an attached chapel length train.

The bride's headpiece was a tiered waist length veil of white silk illusion attached to a white hat of Venice lace and pearls. She carried a cascade of white roses and pink carnations with a pull-out orchid corsage.

Mrs. Leonard Powell was matron of honor, and Miss Patricia L. Holtsclaw, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. They wore sleeveless floor-length gowns of pink chiffon trimmed in white Venice lace and lavender grosgrain ribbon. The bridesmaids wore similar gowns in orchid.

They carried nosegays of daisies and pink and orchid carnations.

Unusual were the headpieces of the bridemaids. Mrs. Nell Sheridan, using fresh flowers as those in the nosegays, and grosgrain ribbon curls, created lovely flower caps.

The bridesmaids were Misses Judith Daniels, Casandra Fallin, Taunya Golden of Arlington, Va.; Willa Lee, Terry Roy, and Mabel Wilson, Philadelphia, Pa.

SIXTY YEARS of marriage was celebrated by Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Morton, of Baltimore, with a family dinner, Thursday.

Mr., Mrs. Morton married 60 years

In 60 years a golden band may wear a trifle thin, but a golden union only becomes more endurable.

This is one of the reasons Mrs. Robert Wesley Morton is wearing a new gold wedding band, this week. It was the gift of Mr. Morton, presented when the couple celebrated their 60th wedding anniversary at an intimate family party in their lovely Elsinor Avenue home, Thursday. Mrs. Morton's gift to her husband was a stereo.

Attending the dinner party were the couple's son and daughter-in-law, Mrs. Morton, the former Fannie Beatrice Taylor, is the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Preston Taylor of Hanover County, Va. She and Mr. Morton, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Allen Morton of Caroline County, Va., met in Baltimore in 1908. They were married slightly more than two years later by the late Rev. J. W. Jones.

On Saturday ago, 21 members of the Woodland family gathered at Greenbriar State Park to bid summer a fond farewell.

The weather was ideal for the motorcade of seven cars, loaded with relatives and an unusual variety of picnic fare . . . including a pretty and luscious birthday cake for the youngest, Derek Edwards to blow out two candles. As you see it was his second birthday.

* * *

There was bathing and sunning, a well equipped play area for the youngsters, and ball, cards, knitting or just lazying for the older crows.

Plans were made for a repeat performance next year.

Family members enjoying the day were:

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin R. Johnson Sr., and daughter, Donnell; Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Wright, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Woodland, and son, Marvin; Mr. and Mrs. John T. Redd and children, Denise, Monica and David; Mr. and Mrs. John Edwards, and daughter, Arnecia, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Edwards, and son, Derek; and Mrs. Edwin R. Johnson Jr., and daughters, Wanda and Annette.

Friends joining the family were Mrs. Beatrice Wilson, and Mr. and Mrs. Paul Moore, and Venton Moore.

Mrs. Johnson, Wright, Redd and Mr. Woodland are children of the late Frederick D. Woodland, who received recognition in the AFRO for his unique hobby of training turtles. The other members of the family are grandchildren and great-grand hildren of the late Mr. Woodland, who died September 24, 1954.

The Book-a-Month Club had its opening meeting Saturday, with Lillian S. Watty as hostess. Since Mrs. Watty has been ailing this summer, members of the club assisted her.
