spent a brief time in Israel while on a study trip to India, last year, she had some first hand information to give on the situation there.

Saretha Greene will be hostess in October, when Dr. Daniel Skinner will review the "Wretched of the Earth" by Franz Fanon. In November the club will attend a dinner theatre in Washington. "The Greening of America" by Charles Reich will be done by Lois Carter when Fannie White entertains the club in January, and Sam Yette's "The Choice" will be discussed by Dr. Robert Ford in February. Antonia Fraser's "Mary, Queen of Scots," will be reviewed by Virginia P. Hobbs at Ethel Day's, in March. Mrs. Dow will review "End of American Era" by Andrew Hacker, in April. Ms. Carter can Era" by Andrew Hacker, in April. Mrs. Carter will be the hostess in May, when Phillip Berrigan's book, "Strangers No More," will be reviewed by Blanche McDonald.

The year will close with the business meeting in June. Officers for this year are Mrs. Carter, president; Mrs. Day, secretary; and Miss M. Margaret Johnson, treasurer.

The Powhatan Neighborhood Assocaton was entertained by Mr. and Mrs. Leon Williams on Thursday, and after the business session members were enthralled by a talk on Japan by one of the members, Clareta Golender, who spent a month there, recently.

Mrs. Golender, a Spanish instructor at Saint Timothy's, though blind, gave a fascinating talk of the life and customs of the Japanese.

The Wilamses served a party menu in their club room, then later took their guests to the garden where a crab feast was in order.

Members of the Association are Messrs. and Mesdames Eddie Cunningham, Grant Williams, Leroy Taft and George Harding; Mesdames Frances Finney and Barbara Dungee, L. Carr, C. Simms, Dr. and Mrs. Talmadge Pinkney and Dr. and Mrs. Douglass Camper.

Peregrinators: Mr. and Mrs. James Franklin, Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Bennett and Mrs. Mary B. Walker, all of this city, and Mr. and Mrs. George Dickerson of Atlantic City, have returned from a delightful tour abroad.

The group visited Amsterdam, Holland, Paris, Grenoble and Nice in France; Genoa, Rome, Florence and Venice in Italy; Innsbrusk in Australia; Lucerne in Switzerland; Mainz in Germany and Brussels in Belgium.

They heard the opera "Aida," saw the Trivoli Gardens in Rome, took a boatride and a cable car ride up Mount Pilatus in Switzerland; and peeped in on the beautiful little kingdom of Monaco. They cruised down the Thine River in Germany, traveled in coaches over the Alps and then headed for home. They were away for 24 packed days.

On Saturday ago, Omega Psi Phi's of Pi Omega Chapter had a "Reclamation" Bull Roast and outing at the McKeldin Area "B" of Patapsco State Park, with an eye toward an informal gathering of the brothers to put pep into the beginning year.

The families of the men were guests. They came at two in the afternoon and lingered until the shadows began to fall. While there was a full day of entertainment features for the young and their elders, the latter did take time out to install the new officers for the year.

The ceremonies were conducted by James Grant, first vice representative of the Second Regional District; and Robert Johnson, a past district representative.

Inducted were:

Dr. James Pirest, basileus; Dr. Edward McDaniels, vice-basileus; Walter Amprey keeper of records and seals; Harrison Fuller, keeper of finance; Ernest Austes, keeper of property; Otis Robertson, parliamentarian; Arthur Mitburn, keeper of peace; Wiley Daniels, chapter editor; Daniel Lyle, Chaplain, Melvin Fax, assistant keeper of records and seals; Alfonso Parks, assistant keeper of property; and Washington Green, Elwood Shockley and Carl White, members at large.

Eugene Ward is immediate past basileus.

Members who participated were:

Joseph Amprey, Walter Amprey, Leroy Barber, Raymond Bell, Lester Buster, Dr. Eugene Byrd, John Cardwell, James Clark, Ernest Austin, Osborne Dixon, Kenneth Ervin, James Grant, Washington Green, Bertram Harrington, Donald Hill,

Joseph Jackson, Robert Johnson, Ernest London, Daniel Lyles, James Mack, Robert Matthews, Dr. Edward McDaniels, Arthur Milburn, Henderson Neal, William Neal, Charles Payne, Ronald Powell.

Lack of funds may end MUND

The Model Urban Neighborhood Program (MUND) may go out of business, according to Harry E. Smith, project manager, unless alternative funding sources are found.

The program, according to Mr. Smith, previously received sufficient government funding which assured its success within inner city communities. However, Mr. Smith reports this is no longer so, and the program is now suffering from a shortage of funds.

The primary thrust of the program reportedly enabled the people of the MUND inner-city area to direct their own destinies and plan future re-building and construction within their communities.

More than 100 neighborhood residents of the area, according to the news release, took part in planning this year's program. Cal-Gail Charette, the proposed school site between Calvert St. and Guilford Ave.

According to Mr. Smith, "The Charette, itself was a great demonstration of a joint effort plan which ties together relevant social and economic issues to articulate where the community wants to go and how it wants to get there.

One major success of the MUND community, area located between the Jones Falls on the west to Harford Rd. and from North Ave. to 25th St., has been its fight against unemployment.

The program during its second year in 1968 received a $150,000 grant and cooperated with the private sector to provide 1,200 community resident with jobs that yielded over $6 million a year in payroll earnings.

However, Mr. Smith reveals the MUND program may be regarded as a failure because traditional government allocations are no longer forthcoming and appeals to more than 200 private foundations for funds have been fruitless.

WEEK'S BEST BUYS

Fresh fruit plays role in menu plans

By VIRGINIA McLUCKIE, food economist

Fresh fruit should and does play an important role in daily menu plans, particularly when late summer seasonal supplies are heavy.

Peaches still remain one of the leading fruit choices. Late varieties are Elberlas, Redskin, Shippers Late Red, J. H. Hale, After Glow and Rio-Oso-Gem. The Shippers Reds and J. H. Hales are superior for canning or freezing.

You get the most for your money when each variety is at this in-season peak. Keep fully ripened peaches in the refrigerator to prolong the storage life. Peaches are a good source of Vitamins A and C.

Bartlett pears are enjoying one of the biggest crops in years. The U.S.D.A. Agricultural Marketing Service reports the California, Oregon and Washington crop up 40 per cent from 1970 and 10 per cent more than 1969.

This is the time of year when we also get Bartlett pears from nearby Pennsylvania. The pear we know as Bartlett came from England to the United States shortly before 1800.

In 1817 Enoch Bartlett of Dorchester, Mass., bought an estate on which trees from English seeds were growing. Unaware that their European name was William's Bon Caretien, he sold them under the name of Bartlett. The American Pomological Society accepted the new name in 1848. Many varieties of pears are grown in the United States, but the Bartlett easily outranks all the others marketed.

Bartlett pears are creamy yellow when ripe, and many have an attractive red blush. To become meltingly smooth, sweet, and juicy they must ripen off the tree. Pears are picked when mature but in a hard stage. The fruit ripens enroute to storage and the market.

If you pachase green colored pears, leave them in the brown bag at room temperature to fully ripen in a day or two. Count on getting 3 or 4 medium sized pears in one pound. Plan to use pears as a lunch box fruit or a fruit bowl snack item. Use an anti-browning agent or lemon juice on the surface of cut pears to keep the nice light flesh color.

Purple plums are another fruit in especially heavy supply and will remain plentiful through September.

In buying, choose plums that are plump, clean, looking and full of color for the variety. A softening at the tip of the plum is generally a good indication that maturity has been reached. Keep in mind that all plums except Italian prune plums and damson plums are clingstone. However when ripe not much flesh clings to the stone. Plums and a sweet tart flavor to salads, cobblers and deep dish pies.

There are some blueberries and nectarines still on the market. Other suggested fruits are cantaloupe, watermelon. Table grapes, summer apples and bananas.

Make a fresh plum cobbler with 1½ cups sifted all purpose flour, 1/3 cup sifted confectioners sugar, 1/8 teasp. salt, 1 teasp. grated fresh lemon peel, 1 cup butter; 3 tablesp. milk, ½ teasp. ground cinnamon, ¼ teasp. ground nutmeg, 1 cup light brown sugar, firmly packed, 3 tablesp. flour, and 1½ pounds fresh plums, quartered.

Sift together flour, sugar and salt. Add lemon peel. Cut in ½ cup of the butter with 2 knives or pastry blender until mixture resembles cornmeal. Add milk and mix lightly to form a soft dough. Reserve. In a small saucepan melt remaining ½ cup of butter. Blend in cinnamon and nutmeg. Pour into 8" square cake pan.

Combine brown sugar 3 tablesp. flour; sprinkle over spiced butter in cake pan. Arrange plums on sugar mixture. Roll pastry into 8" square; place on top of plums. Bake in a preheated hot oven, 425 degrees F, 30 minutes. Serve warm with cream, if desired. Yield: 8-inch square cake.
