Pierpont holds drug sessions in various neighborhoods

Drug abuse is Baltimore's public enemy number one. As such, it is the first of six problem areas Ross Pierpont will attack in his campaigning for Mayor of Baltimore, the candidate has announced.

This week was designated Drug Abuse Week by Pierpont. During the week Pierpont will hold discussion sessions in the most notorious drug abuse area of the city, such as Cherry Hill, a scene of extensive drug action and counteractions; the Greenmount-Guilford-22nd Street area; Whitelock Street; Pennsylvania Avenue and Pimlico.

Activities of the week climaxed with a neighborhood mass meeting Thursday evening at 7 at the Lombard Junior High School auditorium.

Speakers listed to appear included Philip Greene, Director of the Drug Abuse Administration, Father Tobey of Dismas House, H. Milton Allen, State's Attorney for Baltimore City; C. Maurice Holmes, Director of Md. Action Groups and representatives of The Johns Hopkins Hospital Drug Abuse program.

Pierpont's opponent in the race for Mayor, Danold Schaefer, has been invited to appear on the platform.

Pierpont ticked off his reasons for labeling drugs as the city's number one problem. "Drugs do not begin and end with the addict, he said. "They reach into the addict's family and tear it apart. They drive the addict to push drugs on others until this menance now infects our elementary schools. No child, no family is immune.

"Drug addiction is also our worst source of crime. It accounts for two of every three crimes committed in this city.

"Drugs are also a big factor in organized crime. The huge profits of the narcotics traffic invite corruption from the lowest to the highest levels of public life. Drug profits help to support all sorts of illegal traffic."

A full scale analysis of the drug problem plus Pierpont's answers will be issued as a part of Drug Abuse Week. The Republican candidate for mayor declined to announce any details of his program, explaining that was going into the neighborhoods to listen as well as to talk, and to discuss his approach toward drugs at the beginning of Drug Abuse Week would be premature.

Judge Watts named to board of hospital

The president of the board of directors of the North Charles General Hospital, James Mano Swartz, has announced the appointment of Judge Robert B. Watts, Maurice Annenberg and John E. Esome to the hospital's board of directors.

Judge Watts is a member of the Supreme Bench of Baltimore, Mr. Annenberg heads a large graphic arts organization and Mr. Esome is a prominent real estate dealer.

—Dead man's voice

story dated March 20, the Rev. Mr. Henry stated "My death has been revealed to me by God, therefore, I know that the time is near. I can't say when because I'm not God. I've already picked out the casket and the tombstone. Now I am just advertising for Christ. I've taped the sermon which I will preach at my funeral. It will be played to comfort my family and friends."

The Rev. Mr. Henry had been told by doctors six years ago that he had an incurable disease, multiple myeloma and would not live for more than four months. This disease belongs to the family of cancer and there are only 100 known cases in the United States.

The Rev. Mr. Humphrey was born Feb. 15, 1929, he graduated from the Baltimore College of Commerce in 1959 and the Baptist Ministry School in 1962. He was appointed assistant minister of Mt. Lebanon Baptist Church in 1963. From there he joined Wayland Baptist Church as assistant minister under Dr. W. W. Payne and moved with Dr. Payne to City Temple.

The Rev. Mr. Humprrey is survived by his wife Mrs. Ina Humphrey, two sons Nedric and Nonter Humphrey, three sisters Mesdames Ida Croom of North Carolina, May Cox and Alethia Duffie of New York and a brother Earl Humphrey of New York.

The family will receive friends tonight (Friday) 8 to 9 p.m. at the Arlington S. Phillips Funeral Home. Burial will be in North Carolina.

police stood outside the wrecked dwelling. One wall had a huge hole in it and the windows were completely blown out.

The occupant of the apartment, Mr. Watson 74, was dead on arrival at Church Home and Hospital.

A neighbor, Mrs. Belinda McMillian, a diabetic, was also taken to Church Home is a state of shock.

Mr. Watson's home was completely destroyed. In addition to his home three other dwellings were affected. 216, 218, and 220 Douglass Ct.

The other occupants, Mrs. Belinda McMillian 56, Mrs. Emma Keeton 72, and Mrs. Viola Dunn 54 were relocated to other housing developments.

Mrs. McMillian will reside at Flagg House, Mrs. Keeton will move to Perkins House and Mrs. Dunn will stay at the McCulloh Homes until their apartments are repaired.

Mrs. Gordine Bloun', wife of Senator Blount, and Mrs. Maude Parker of the Housing Department helped the aged occupants pack to move to their temporary homes.

One of the ladies, Mrs. McMillian, has been living in the project for 20 years.

Mrs. Emma Keeton, who lived over Mr. Watson in the AFRO: "I was standing near the window listening to the radio when a loud noise shook the place I tried to get out, but I was blocked-in."

"I had to climb through a hole and go out Mr. Watson's door. I could see his leg sticking out of bed, but the rest of him was covered. The way he was lying I could see he was dead."

David Ramsey, superintendent of the Douglass Project said: "The fire marshal told me that he had to turn off 4 burners when he entered the apartment."

"Gas would be a tenative reason for the explosion, but this is not definite until further investigation."

The granddaughter of the dead man, Mrs. Arlene Ingram also lives in the project at 220 Dallas Ct. Mrs. Ingram said: "The noise was so loud I thought it was in my house.

"I ran to the window and saw smoke coming from the direction of my grandfather's house.

"I ran down there and I could see my grandfather's leg through the window. I tried to go into the house, but my neighbors wouldn't let me.

"I begged them to let me go to my grandfather. He raised me. He is the only father I know."

Mr. Watson was an oil truck driver for 30 years for Blomier Brothers. He had been living in the project for months. He was a widower.

Mr. Watson is survived by his 2 sisters, Mrs. Gertrude Spruel, Middletown, Del., and Mrs. Cora James, Philadelphia, Pa.; his grand-daughter, Mrs. Arlene Ingram.

Also surviving are his 3 great-grandchildren, Terrence Ingram 3, who attends Lexington Day Care Center, Tracy 5, who attends school 139, and April 6, also attending school 139.

Arrangements by Dyett will assume funeral services. All arrangements had not been made at AFRO presstime.

Probation to be revoked if boys remain friends

A 15-year-old youth was advised his probation sentence will be revoked if he fails to stay away from a friend he admittedly hit with a brick at his home on Sept. 11.

On Wednesday, Juvenile Court Judge Bernard M. McDermott told the youth of the 1100 block Pennsylvania Ave., to "stay away from his friend who also has a juvenile record.

The judge also advised the mother of the juvenile accused of assault, to call police if her son's friend ever came to their home again.

CCB opposes zone change

The Community College of Baltimore has opposed zoning amendment ordinance by the Lame Duck City Council dealing with the possible change of the area within the vicinity of the college from M-1 to B-3.

A letter from the college to the president of the Council pointed out that the action would not only do severe damage to the general discipline of the college but also harm the aesthetic treatment of the environment and as well, lower the whole atmosphere on Liberty Heights.

When established it will allow a highway commercial drive-in service accomodation directly across the street from the college.

What the college states that it would become a hangout and a centre for problems which are associated with many educational institutions.

Copies of the college letter signed by President Harry Bard will be sent to Larry Reich, director of the Planning Commission and to Councilman Frank Gallagher, chairman of the Zoning Committee of the Council "so that they will know that all of us at the Community College of Baltimore are very upse at the possibilities that the wonderful efforts on the part of all of us in this part of Liberty Heights corridor are not disturbed through changes in the zoning law."

Copies will also be sent to Councilman Dr. Emerson Julian, Councilman Robert Marshall and Councilwoman Victorine Adams, since the college is within the 4th District to be disturbed.

Furthermore copies are being sent to Councilmen Kaplan, Edelman and Stark since the 4th District shares a border with the 5th District. It is hoped they would help in stopping any plan to "do damage to this area and to the college."
