Grooming class begins at YWCA

A grooming and deportment class for teenagers, taught by a former professional model will be offered at a YWCA program center in six two-hour sessions on Saturdays at 10 a.m.

Beginning Oct. 23, the course will be held at the Ascension Lutheran Church, 7601 York Road. Classes are open to girls 13 years of age and up at a fee of only $10 plus a $2 YWCA membership.

• • •

Miss Diana Kane, director of the Diana Kane School of Modeling, teaches

Material presented is the course.

Material presented is aimed at giving the girls real tools needed for the real world. Students will be taught to know themselves as important individuals through good grooming, to be aware of the kind of personality they project, and to execute socially acceptable manners for their peer groups, opposite sex and adults.

• • •

Also, the importance of physical fitness will be stressed and numerous exercises demonstrated.

The girls' role in family planning and how their decisions determine tre direction of their life, as well as the combined factors needed for obtaining and maintaining a career will be discussed.

The course will use resource persons, film strips, tape recorders and shop-ins as instructional methods. For information call the YWOA, 823-8011.

Parents asked to help plan school ploicy

The Public School Administrators and Supervisors Association is now requesting suggestions and criticisms concerning school suspension policy from parents of pupils enrolled in the public schools.

The association, located at 105 E. 25th St., will soon submit through its committee on Constructive Discipline, to School Superintendent Dr. Roland Patterson, a list of practical recommendations to prevent serious discipline problems.

Members of PSASA also reveal future plans to meet with responsible personnel formulating the new policy on school suspension.

In an effort to "make the policy work and to treat fairly children, parents, teachers and everyone else concerned," the association states it is requesting suggestions, criticisms, comments and personal experiences which would be useful in implementing its final policy.

All suggestions should be sent in by Oct. 29, to: Mrs. Savilla Tegler, Yorkwood Elementary School, 5931 Yorkwood Rd.

Livlier plans painting game

The Livlier Baltimore Committee of the Citizens Planning and Housing Association announces a fence painting to be held at Maryland Ave. and 20th St. on Nov. 7 from 1-4 p.m.

The event called the 'Numbers Game,' will feature fence panels drawn by local artists to be painted by the participants. Paints will be provided by the committee; volunteers are requested to bring their own brushes.
