Witnesses exped 1,500 Od. 29,30,31

This coming weekend — Oct. 29, 30, and 31, close to 1,500 of Jehovah's Witnesses will meet at their assembly hall in Crownsville, to enjoy a repeat of a three day convention entitled — "Keep On Doing It More Fully."

The reason for having the same program for two consecutive weekends is due to the vast increase in this religion. One of the highlights of this convention will be the baptism of new witnesses who have a desire to symbolize their dedication to God by water immersion.

The climax of the three day meeting will be a free public Bible talk, Sunday, October 31 at 3:00 p.m. entitled — "Can You Live Forever—Will You"? The speaker will show how the Bible gives the reasons for man's short life span and how the outworking of God's purpose to eternally extend the life span of the human family in our generation, in fact in the very near future.

The lecture is free and the public is cordially invited. Directions to the convention site are follows: go south on Maryland route 3, off Maryland route 178 — turn left to Sunrise Beach Road turn left and go approximately 1 mile.

was reacting to word that his change of residence from Dukeland St. in northwest Baltimore to Liberty Rd., in Baltimore County has disqualified him to continue as a member of the Baltimore City School Board.

Mr. Byron, 50, is dean of education at Coppin State Sr., was reacting to word that his change of residence from Dukeland St. in northwest Baltimore to Liberty Rd., in Baltimore County has disqualified him to continue as a member of the Baltimore City School Board.

Mr. Byron, 50, is dean of education at Coppin State Sr., was reacting to word that his change of residence from Dukeland St. in northwest Baltimore to Liberty Rd., in Baltimore County has disqualified him to continue as a member of the Baltimore City School Board.

He was named to a six-year term on the board last January by Mayor Thomas J. D'Alisandro 3rd, replacing Samuel T. Daniels who resigned.

Ironically, the ruling on Byron's ineligibility was made by a lifetime friend, George L. Russell Jr., the city's chief lawyer.

City Solicitor Russell had been asked by School Board president, Robert L. Karwacki, to determine whether Byron could remain on the board.

This followed a letter from Byron advising of his new county address.

Russell told the AFRO his decision was a matter of law. He expressed regret that it affects a man of Byron's stature but added "the law is clear on residency requirements for school board membership."

The AFRO learned that should Byron now return to the city to live, he would have to live in town for a year before becoming eligible for board membership again.

In determining that Byron's change of address disqualifies him for board membership, Mr. Russell joined by his associate, Miss Blanche Wahl, special assistant city solicitor on education and labor.

They pointed to Section 58 of Article VII of the Charter which establishes the legality of a residence requirement for holding public offices.

Noting that the Md. Court of Appeals has not passed on whether one who changes residency during a term of office is disqualified, the city's chief lawmakers advised there is ample support that eligibility requirements for persons do not cease during their terms of office.

In June, 1971, the city solicitor's office found another city office appointee disqualified herself to serve on the board of trustees of the Employees' Rtirement System when she failed to meet eligibility requirements.

With the departure of Byron, Mayor D'Alesandro has an opportunity to name a new school board member before his own term expires in December, 1971.

He told the AFRO on Thursday he had made no decision.

The removal of Mr. Byron leaves the city school board with a white majority for the first time in D'Alesandro's term of office.

Board chairman Robert L. Karwacki is white.

So are Commissioners Mrs. Maree Farring, Stephen McNeirney, Robert J. Thieblot and Kalman Heltleman.

Black members on the board include Mrs. Elizabeth Murphy Moss, James M. Griffin and Larry S. Gibson.

The Baltimore city public schools are predominantly black on both the elementary and secondary level, and a substantial number of administrators, including the new superintendent, Dr. Roland N. Patterson, are black.

Welfare money

Miss Morant and her two companions were accused in the robbery of Mrs. Regina Jacobs, 1206 W. Pratt St.

Mrs. Jacobs testified she had waited in line at a grocery store, to cash her welfare check and noticed the defendant and two female companions watching her.

After shopping, Mrs. Jacobs said she left the grocery store along with her three-year-old daughter and the defendant and two companions allegedly approached her and stated "Give me your money."

The defendant, it was testified, drew a six inch pocket-knife and placed it at the throat of the young mother who was then holding her daughter and groceries in her arms.

Miss Jacobs also told the court, the other assailants then went through her coat pockets and took the welfare money which they found there.

Police, who received notice of the offense and a description of the assailants, later arrested Miss Morant and her two companions who reportedly fitted the description given police by the victim.

The arrest was made on the same day, one block from the home of Miss Morant.

ganization.

Presenting the gifts, Mayor D'Alesandro thanked the group for their hard work and expressed the hope that they would continue to worwk hard. "Your good work will serve as an example to others," he stated.

Mrs. Dungee, on behalf of the association said members were gratified by the honor.

Among those present at the ceremony were Mrs. Nodia McQueen, treasurer; Mrs. Mary DeMinds, member; Mrs. Esther Middleton of Freedom House; Dr. Lillie M. Jackson, Freedom House founder; Arthur C. Smith, member; William Perkins, president and Mrs. Georgia Whyte, member.

"as paid" rent to public housing, (8) eliminate general public assistance to employees and (9) place $275 maximum grant limitation.

Slicker, in a report to Gov. Marvin Mandel stated that welfare recipient families of four receive a total of $426 per month or $5,118.77 per year, however, welfare recipients are asking that those welfare people who receive that much money be produced.

According to Mrs. Leondras Moody, welfare recipient, she receives $167 per month to support herself and two children. Out of that amount, she has to pay $45-$50 per month for gas and electric and $40 per month for rent.

She adds, "If I have to borrow money to help make ends meet, I have to pay that back."

Mrs. Moody is a student at a business school in Baltimore. She said, "I'm trying to educate myself and get a good job."

Mrs. Margaret McCarty is mother of nine children and she receives $366 per month. She said, "Even though I have asked for more assistance, I've never gotten it."

"With the cutback," she said, "I would have to take some of the children out of school."

Another mother who receives $200 per month is supporting herself and three children, this comes to $2,556 per year.

According to Mrs. Rudell Martin, chairman of the Baltimore City chapter of the Welfare Rights Organization, "we want to stay in the public eye so that they can learn the truth about what a welfare family receives. No one out here is getting enough money to live adequately."

Mrs. Martin said that the fight is not going to end in front of the State Office Building and adds, if they have to, they're going to Annapolis.

Twenty states have felt the cutback in welfare grants but pays one recipient. "The reason we haven't gotten the cutback is because of the hell we're raising."

According to Sampson Green, commissioner on Human Relations, "The state has no reason or right to starve folks. It's questionable whether the state will give an adequate increase on the budget unless the people band together."

"The case was tried in the newspapers already," griped Cockrell. "It is like putting out a fire with gasoline."

Testifying on behalf of Miss Jordan were Ernest Crofoot and Clyde Thompson, respectively council director and representative for the Maryland Public Employees Council 67, AFL-CIO.

Crofoot reported to Judge Cardash that Miss Jordan "is a good and steady worker" who would present "no risk at all in releasing her."

Sairo Jordan, the father of the defendant, attended the bail hearing and co-signed with his daughter for personal recognizance release.

The Jordan family has resided on North Ave. for over 10 years while Jordan has been an employee at Sparrows Point.

Jordan denied the AFRO to photograph his daughter saying, "There has been too much publicity already."
