Discard rose-colored glasses Dr. Patterson advises women

Education must have top priority because it concerns everything the citizen does, Dr. Roland N. Patterson, superintendent of Baltimore City Schools told members and guests of Woman Powed at the organization's 14th annual luncheon session, Sunday.

The new official did not fail to let it be known that it is his opinion that Baltimore is far from this ideal at present.

Pointing to discrepancies in the physical plant of the school system, Dr. Patterson said that on one occasion he visited a school building that was one of the finest in the country. The next day, he said, he visited an elementary school that he wouldn't want to put his dog in. He said that he had had in mind asking for $150,000 for a survey looking towards restructuring the system. It was unbelievable the answer he got when he mentioned $13,000 to be used to determine how the $200 million system should be run.

The time has come to stop looking at education through rose colored glasses, to tell it as it is, to put in office those who have the concern of children at heart and for parents to give their all to insure the best for their youngsters.

Dr. Patterson said that much of the problem in education today is that the tendency is to change the pupils to fit the system instead of changing the system to fit the pupils. The change has to come from teachers through to school boards, he said. He also pointed out that schools are suffering financially because the wealth is moving to the suburbs. Montgomery County, he said, spends $1000 per pupil. Baltimore spends $800. The tendency, said Dr. Patterson, is to want to take the city earned wealth to the suburbs, but to keep power over the city.

Dr. G. James Fleming, political scientist, Morgan State College, speaking on "The Politics of Education," bewailed the efficacy of a one-party set up. Voters get more when one party has a second one breathing down its neck, he told the group. There is always politics in education, said Dr. Fleming. Pub-

Banquet marks retirement of David Echols, John Barnett

David A. Echols, who had spent 46 years on the faculty of Carver Vocational Technical High School, and a fellow faculty member, John E. Barnett, with a 23-year record, received tor plaudits of co-workers and friends at a testimonial banquet in the Sheraton-Baltimore Inn, Friday evening.

The honorees not only received the applause of the group, but were recipients of checks: Mr. Echols, $240; and Mr. Barnett, $160, as tokens of affection.

In a tribute to Mr. Echols, Mrs. Otelle B. Rea said "... Your accomplishments are our accomplishments, your years of services are a challenge. 'A teached affects eternity.'"

It was pointed out that in the first 35 years of teaching at what was then known as the "Colored Boys Vocational School," Mr. Echols was never late or absent from a class. Having trained as an auto mechanic at Hampton Institute, and in Philadelphia and Detroit, Mr. Echols came to the school system, here, from a position as manager of a service station in Lawnside, N.J. He completed training for certification by further study at Hampton and the University of Maryland.

Mr. Echols is married to the former Evelyn Barnhour. They are parents of a son and a daughter, and grandparents of three. Mr. Echols is a member of the Douglas Memorial Community Church.

In response, Friday evening, Mr. Echols said "One of my idiosyncrasies is thi belief that you get better results when you have action. I've experienced that all through the years.

"I never said to a youngster 'I've got mine and you've got yours to get.'

"My greatest satisfaction is when a youngster comes back to me and says 'Thanks, you've helped me a lot.' Any time I do anything, I try to do it to the tevt of my ability. I tried to give each assignment my all."

In the tribute to Mr. Barnette, Mrs. Gladys Turner, quoting Socrates, said, "One must wait until the evening to see how splendid the day has been. For "Jack" this is a good evening, a very good evening which indicates that he has had a very good day."

She described Mr. Barnette as quick, smart, capable, talented and agreeable. "He showed a rare quality of leadership and stability of character which enabled him to control and inspire his students. His radio and TV shop was like a beehive. He constantly urged students to broaden their sights."

An uncle aided Mr. Barnett in getting through high school. During the high school years he worked at various jobs. When he came to Baltimore in 1925, he got a messenger job in the Law Department of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Co. He taught himself shorthand and typing and was soon promoted to law librarian for the company.

Mr. Barnette has written and sold several short stories to science fiction magazines. His interest in radio began as a hobby and he received his Amateur Radio Operator's Licence in 1930. He became an evening school instructor in 1941 when National Defense Training was instituted. At its close he was transferred to War Production Training as a radio instructor. He has owned and operated a radio repair business.

Mr. Barnette was hired again by the Department of Education shortly after the end of World War II. He became instructor-in-charge of four Veteran's Trade Schools in 1950, and went to Carver as an instructor in radio and television in 1952. He still retains his Amateur Operator's License and operates Station W3GHQ.

Mr. Barnette is married to the former Dorothy Jones of this city.

At the testimonial on Friday evening, Mrs. Ruth W. Ricks was mistress of ceremonies. The invocation and benediction were given by the Rev. Marion C. Bascom.

Participants on the program also included Mrs. Dorothy Bryson, Robert Gosnell, Mrs. Annie-Belle Tucker, Robert Umphrey, Dr. Benjamin Whitten, Reuben Jones and Henry C. Johnson.

Music was by Charles Stevenson, soloist; and Victor W. Myrick, organist.

Guest at the banquet included:

Messrs. and Mesdames Henry C. Johnson, Robert Umphrey, Theodore Brooks, Earl Diggs, William E. Tatum, Jerome Todd, Thomas Carroll, Raphael Coel, David Echols, Sidney Echols.

Messrs. and Mesdames Leonard Jeter, Claude Richardson, Charles Thomas, John Belcher, Malachi Darkins, William Henderson, Reuben F. Jones.

Messrs. and Mesdames Aaron Ostrofsky, Charles Stevenson, Hayward Strother, Anthony Watson; Dr. and Mrs. James F. Cooper.

Mesdames Odelle Rea, Ruth Ricks, Gladys Tuffner, Marie O. Babour, Beatrice Bouldin, Ivory Brown, Sophia Brown, Therese Eubanks.

Mesdames Beatrice Graham, Ernestine Hawkins, Lauretta Jordon, Dorothy Mosby, Minnie Walters, Evelyn Bullitt, Mattie Elias, C.C. Jackson, Lucille Monroe.

Mesdames Idella Nichols, Zella Washington, Leonia Young, Elizabeth Allen, LeVaughn Beard, Dolly Bennett, Ethel Bond, Dorothy Bryson, Sineta Chaney, Robecia Clark.

Mesdames Mary Cummings, Jessie Dawson, Faith DeGross, Gladys Dorsey, Johnnie Garrett, Doris Jackson, Pearl Jackson, Lavenia Lane, Rosalind McIntyre.

Mesdames Rose Smith, Jean Thomas, Dorothy Watson, Alethia Williams, Carrie Williams, Iona Williams, Ida Wroten; Dr. Mary N. Brooks.

Misses Rosalind Allen, Nannie Carrington, Sara Johnson and Annie Belle Tucker.

Mrs. Hall named to Catholic Board

MRS. PHILATHEA HALL

Mrs. Philathea Hall was named to the Catholic Archidiocesan Board of Education for a two-year term at its recent meeting.

Mrs. Hall fills the vacancy left by Dr. Jacob Cunningham, executive secretary of the National Conference of Christians and Jews, who was transferred to California.

Mrs. Hall, who teaches the eighth grade at St. Katharine of Siena parochial school, is a graduate of Shaw University, Raleigh, N.C. and has done graduate work at Mount St. Agnes and the College of Notre Dame. She is also a licensed real estate broker and operated her own company before going into the education field in 1969. She still owns the company. She has served on the board of the National NAACP, The Business Council, and organized and served as an officer of a-real estate organization, the Realtist.

Sp/7 Johnson cited ends service today

Sp/7 H. F. JOHNSON

Specialist 7 Harcourt F. Johnson, a physical science assistant in Edgewood Arsenal's Weapons Development and Engineering Laboratories, was awarded the Army Commendation Medal, recently, and, will end over 20 years of service today (Friday), by retirement.

Specialist Johnson was cited for developing an operational capacity for both infrared and ultraviolet spectrometry. Through the use of his technique, the time required to analyze riot control agents was reduced from eight hours to one hour.

He was also commended for teaching his method to lab technicians at Pine Bluff Arsenal, Arkansas, a sub-post of Edgewood Arsenal, where riot control agents are produced.

A 1942 graduate of Dillard High School, Fort Lauderdale, Fla. he received a bachelor of science degree in chemistry from Florida A and M University, Tallahassee, Fla. in 1951.

He is married to the former Miss Bessie L. Greene. They are parents of a daughter, Mrs. Gloria Carter; and a son, Charles Johnson. The family resides in Wooodmore, Baltimore County.

Specialist Johnson is also an associate vestryman at Saint James' Episcopal Church, Baltimore.

lic schools, supported by taxes, get the results of how people feel, he said.

Voters get what they deserve, he added. There are too few who attend school board meetings, meetings of the Board of Estimates and City Council sessions. Too many teachers, said Dr. Fleming are more interested in their salaries rather in what books Johnny gets "Probably, we should work to get another line of relirement," said the speaker. "There are some teachers who should retire at 30, if that is the time they have lost their interest in youngsters and their enthusiasm in teaching. We need to let officials know that we want Dr. Patterson undergirded, not hamstrung. We need to put the emphasis where they belong...on Children," Dr. Fleming said.

Henry G. Parks, Jr., president of Parks Sausage Co., told Woman Power that his chief concern is that young men and women become involved in the economics of this country. "We are on the verge of a trillion-dollar economy," he said, but we have been brainwashed, and by various devices, kept out of the mainstream of business. "More young minds must be prepared to take advantage of openings. We still do not yet have "the instant black man,"

Dr. Delores C. Hunt, executive director of Woman Power, presided. Other program participants included Mrs. Vera LeCato, luncheon chairman, who brought greetings, and who also read the message of Councilwoman Victorine Q. Adams, present, but suffering with a vocal ill; Donald Patterson, city school administrator, who introduced Dr. Roland Patterson, and Miss Gladys Barbour, who gave the invocation.

Mrs. Ethel P. Rich chaired the committee which arranged the luncheon meeting.

The Youth Group of the organization served as hostesses. They included Misses Constance Bennett, Robin Cherry, Andrea Custis, Lynn Dorsey, Alexis Thomas, Victoria Hicks, Karen James, Wilda Kidd and Shirley Sutton.

Mrs. Hill in Netherlands

BALTIMORE — Mrs. Tyson N.Hill, the assistant director for Staff Services of the Baltimore City Department of Social Services, is attending the first International Seminar of the International Council of Home Help Services in Amersfoort, the Netherlands, this week.

The theme of the Council's Seminar is "The Home Help Service and Care for the Aged." Mrs. Hill will participate in a working group on integration of activities and services affecting care for the aged.

Mrs. Hill holds a Master's Degree in Social Work from the Atlanta University School of Social Work. She was Chief of the Department's Homemaker Services Division. She continues to serve as consultant to that Division.

The Homemaker Services Division of the DSS provides full day or part time help such as light housekeeping, marketing, purchasing of medicines and food stamps, child care and supervision and other services during family crisis situations.

They were supervised by Mesdames Ruby Anderson, Carrie Bowens, Claire Dorsey and Betty M. Shelton.
