Alpha Wives' Celestial Ball was 'Fun and Fashion Thing'

Alpha Wives' party on Friday night was a benefit thing...it was a Zodiac thing... it was a fun thing...but especially was it a fashion thing.

The scores of guests who came visited at tables hosted by individual Wives. They sipped and snacked through a long cocktail period, which they interpersed with dancing...and they saw a fashion show after they dined.

They not only saw a fashion show but they provided a fashion show.

Diane Kane narrated the show of elegant clothes and more than elegant furs. And she fetched her models to show 'em. She swerved up to the mike in a white mink coat belted with white leather and wearing high white leather boots. Under the coat she was wearing (as was later discovered) a white crepe frock with a little fitted bodice and a full, full skirt which flaunted a deep ruffle at the bottom. And when she took off the coat she added a feather stole for the balance of the show.

The furs that evoked that certain gleam in the eyes of the women ran the galaxy from a ranch mink poncho to a creamy mink shrug with a big flat bow at back; from coat of mink strips woven in a harlequin pattern and posed over leather and showing lush silver fox collars and cuffs to a full length black diamond mink, belted, and bordered in black mink; and a hot pants suit with a fringe skirt, worn with a little crepe jacket of fur.

And while all of this was going on the run-way, at the tables and on the floor were Chairman Alice Shelton, chic in stark black and her right hand committee member, Catherine Adams in a dress that had a print skirt in muted autumn colors and long-sleeved black top, the latter bordered at neckline and wrists in a geometric design. And at an adjoining table, Mrs. C. R. Campbell in gold and pink brocade with a beautiful portrait neck line. She wore gold chains and fascinating gold earrings with it.

Senator Verda Welcome wore an aqua brocade dinner suit, and Mrs. Benjamin Whitten, a dimmer suit of black and white in a geometric design. Mrs. John Gloster, just back from San Francisco, wore a black velvet gown, it's chief feature a lovely deep decollete neckline. Mrs. Ducky Ross chose a short silver brocade frock.

When those huge boxes of spirits were raffled off, guess who came up with the first winning stub? Sedate and elegant Bernice Hundley (she heads Epsilon Omega chapter of Alpha Kappa Alpha). I'm not sure she wasn't inclined to let the package stay right where it was. And then came Maxine Gaskins to take the next prize. And just when Dr. John Braxton was beginning to sound off about "being unfair to the males" his winning ticket silenced him. Other winners were Fred Jackson and Jim Ellis.

Funds from Friday's "Celestial Ball" will go to the educational and scholarship programs of Delta Lambda Chapter of Alpha Phi Alpha Fraternity. Through the years the Alpha Wives have supported charities including Provident Hospital, Kennedy Institute for Children, the Anna Mae Hunter Foundation for the Blind, Crownsville State Hospital and YMCA Camperships.

Duplicate Bridge On The Upswing

by IRIS WILLIAMS

Duplicate Bridge as a competetive sport, has recently been the target of a lot of excitement in Baltimore, much of which was generated by the American Bridge Associations National Tournament in Philadelphia this summer.

Many duplicate bridge players who had not been seen nor heard from for years resurfaced and converged on Philadelphia, returning with trophies and Masters Points for their excellent playing ability.

According to Mr. Edward Martin, President of the Baltimore Bridge Congress, "A year ago we thought duplicate bridge was dying in Baltimore.

But with the Nationals being held in Philadelphia this year, many players could go who might not be able to go to say, San Francisco or New Orleans or some place far away."

To take advantage of the awakened interest the Nationals have brought as well as to attract new players in Baltimore to the game, a publicity committee was established. The members included Miss Shirley Jones, representing the Short Club; Mrs. Pinkie Daniels, the Double Finesse; Miss Peggy Woolford, the Northeast Club, Mrs. Iris Williams, the Ditto Club; and Mrs. Margaret Haley, The Baltimore Game in first. The North-Bridge Congress.

Each club meets monthly and city-wide Masters Points are awarded to the winners. October's winners were Mrs. Grace Hail and Miss Alice Nixon for the Short Club; Nathaniel Holden and Mrs. Sadie Roberts, the double Finesse; and Edward and Frances Martin, a husband-and-wife team, for the Ditto Club.

At a special session of the Ditto Club, Mrs. Margaret Haley and Mr. Dave Wadsworth of Washington, came in first. THE Northeast Club did not meet in October.

Any beginning bridge players, as well as many advanced players may join the local bridge clubs so that they can get experience playing with different groups.

With about 6 months to a years experience, new players begin to venture out to local and regional tournaments and then on to the Nationals.

Most duplicate bridge players eventually win enough points through local and national organizations to become recognized players, while others play mostly for fun and entertainment.

Either way, bridge retains its excitement and allure due to its competitiveness, challenge, and infinite methods of play.

Keep your eye on the Afro for more news about Bridge in Baltimore.

Celibacy upheld

VATICAN CITY (UPI) — Roman Catholic Church leaders have voted overwhelmingly against relaxation of the 12th Century law forbidding priests to marry.

They also voted against allowing priests to engage in "militant" politics except in extraordinary circumstances and upheld existing church rules that priests cannot hold non-church jobs except under special circumstances.

Carl Murphy Scholarship Dinner set for Nov. 12

The Carl Murphy Scholarship Fund at Morgan State College will hold its annual dinner on Tuesday, November 12 at 6:30 p.m.

The Fund bears the name of Dr. Murphy, late AFRO publisher, scholar and civic leader, who died in 1967. In addition, he was longtime trustee and chairman of the board of trustees at Morgan State College.

This year, dinner will be served at the Northwood Appold Methodist Church, Loch Raven Boulevard and East Cold Spring Lane.

Until 1970, annual luncheons were held downtown at the Lord Baltimore Hotel for the fund which has existed for some eight to ten years in order to aid African students who attend Morgan.

However, due to inconvenience in time and location for Morgan students and faculty, last year's luncheon was moved to the dinner hour and was held at Morgan with former ambassador to Sierra Leone, John Akar as guest.

This year, Morgan president, Dr. King V. Cheek, has agreed to speak on his experiences during a recent trip to Africa. Chuck Richards of WMAR-TV will preside.

The fund has both a long program and a scholarship program each of which is administered by a Community Committee.

Between $1,000 and $1,500 is raised annually to help the non-sponsored African students. Most of these funds are gained through the annual Scholarship Fund Dinner.

Tickets are available to the general public and the Morgan community at $10 each.

NOV. 14

Radio star Arthur Godfrey and his horse "Goldie" will be special guests at the Eastern National Livestock Show on Sunday, November 14, 2:30 p.m. at the Maryland State Fairgrounds in Timonium.

MISS SHELIA JEFFERSON is the new Towson State College "Queen."

Towson 'Queen' was pleased, shocked

"I was pleased, of course, and a bit shocked. After all the school is predominately white."

These were the words of pretty, vivacious, 19-year-old Miss Shelia Jefferson who has been crowned as Towson State College's first black homecoming queen.

There were 30 girls running for queen and Miss Jefferson was the only black girl. The students at Towson voted for the girl they felt was most qualified for homecoming queen. The girl with the highest amount of votes was crowned.

Miss Jefferson is well-liked and a popular student.

She is a member of the Black Student Union, New-all House Council Secretary, Student Orientation Council, Freshman resident advisor. She is a Freshman with a major in elementary eduction.

Her hobbies are sewing, bowling, and working with children. A 1970 graduate of Eastern High School, where she was also popular and active, Miss Jefferson was president of her homeroom class for three years and received the Daughter of American Revolution Award.

She is from Lanham, Md., a member of Ebenezer Methodist Church. Her parents are Mr. and Mrs. Burtell Jefferson Her brother Maurice, is a student at the University of Maryland.

Mrs. Gambrill feted at retirement party

Mrs. Mildred Lane Gambrill, R.N., who recently retired from the Baltimore City Health Department after 34 years of service as a public health nurse in Eastern District was feted, recently.

The luncheon which honored her was given by the Baltimore City Health Department at the Tail of the Fox and attended by department personnel, long time friends and members of her family. The occasion took on the overtone of "This Is Your Life."

Mrs. Gambrill is a graduate of the Frederick Douglass High School and Provident Hospital School of Nursing. For four years prior to joining the Health Department she was office nurse for the late Dr. Stanley Boyer of Cambridge, Md.

In 1969 the Greater Baltimore Chapter of the National Foundation for the March of Dimes and the Baltimore City Health Department conferred on her the Mary Frances Etchberger Award for outstanding service in the field of maternal and child health.

Mrs. Gambrill is a member of Provident Hospital Nurses Association, Maryland Nurses Association and a charter member of Gamma Chapter, Chi Eta Phi Sorority.

She is interested as well as active in civic affairs, and belongs to the VAG's, a civic and charitable club. Mrs. Gambrill is an ardent worker in the Berean Baptist Church where she has been a member since early childhood. She is the widow of Edward "Pete" Gambrill, who was a retired Federal government employee.

MRS. MILDRED LANE GAMBRILL, R.N. was honoree at a luncheon upon her recent retirement from the Baltimore Health Department.
