SPECIAL ANNOUNCEMENT
FHA FINANCING IS NOW AVAILABLE FOR TENANTS With NO DOWN PAYMENT
A program is available for people who have little or no savings to become home owners without the usual necessity of a large down payment and large settlement expenses.
For those of our present and future tenants who wish to buy, we are allowing them a portion of the rent we receive in order for them to accumulate the minimal money necessary to qualify for the FHA program. In addition - before submitting the house to the FHA, each home is examined by the M. Goldseker inspectors, and repairs and improvements are made.
The M. Goldseker Co. believes that every family deserves a decent home and agrees with this statement made by ex-President Lyndon B. Johnson...
'If all our people were properly housed, most of the problems that now threaten our society would be less critical, and we would be an immeasurably stronger nation.'

2 funeral services for Mrs. Norwood, flower lady

"Because of her life of giving, she was like an ocean which touched the shores of many places. She would walk 10 blocks for you just as fast as she would walk one block."

The Rev. Dr. Walter E. Paige was speaking at the Tuesday noon funeral services for Mrs. Bernice Sarah Jackson Norwood.

Mrs. Norwood, 50, 3402 Grantley Rd., was a longtime member of Faith Baptist Church where the services were held. Over 400 attended the Tuesday service and another 400 attended the Monday evening memorial.

Recalling her willingness to help her church and others, the Rev. Dr. Paige said,

"She was always willing to help others, 'never asking for thanks. She would always send flowers to beautify the church."

Mrs. Norwood, with her husband of 28 years, Carl Norwood Sr., owned and operated the two Summers Norwood Florist shops on Pennsylvania Ave. and Reisterstown Rd.

In tribute to her, other members of the Florist Association designed dozens of unique floral pieces. They banked the bronze casket and surrounded the sanctuary which was filled with 400 persons.

In addition to Dr. Paige, four other ministers participated in the two-hour services.

The Rev. William W. Payne, pastor of City Temple Baptist, observed Mrs. Norwood "Had a beautiful life, she raised children and flowers."

The Rev. Joseph E. Brown, Springfield Baptist in her hometown of Victoria, Va., said, "She was trained in a Christian family and when she came here, she followed the Lord's will and immediately joined a church."

The Revs. William Brown, Mt. Sinai Baptist and Loyal L. Swinson, New Metropolitan Baptist, also lauded her devotion to others.

Members of five choirs sang — the Senior Choir, Senior Choir II, Gospel Chorus, Gospel Jewels, and Male Chorus, Mrs. Celia McLeod directed.

Mrs. Emma B. Lee and Mrs. Thelma Bailey were soloists. Deacons of the church were pallbearers.

The church resolution remembered Mrs. Norwood for her "Christian concern and interest in others."

Mrs. Norwood was a member of the church's nurses' aide, Pensy Nurses, and served on the deaconess board.

Mr. Norwood, who had been ill for five years, grew progressively worse in April. She died on Nov. 5.

Among tre unique floral pieces were a coffee pot and tea cup, a tribute to Mrs. Norwood's culinary skills. The family floral piece was a handsome blanket of 500 red rose buds.

The former Bernice Sarah Jackson, was born in Luenenburg County, Va., June 2, 1921, the daughter of the late Maggie and Spry Jackson.

She was baptized and joined the Springfield Baptist Church in her rometown.

She attended the Central School in Luenenburg County, and later she was graduated from Victoria High School in Victoria.

Shortly after graduation, she moved to Baltimore, where she worked as a Nurses' Aide at Johns Hopkins Hospital.

Later she worked for 15 years—at the Maryland Glass Co., and left to join her husband in the florist business.

She was married to Mr. Norwood in 1943.

In addition to her husband, she is survived by six sons, Carl Jr., Michael, Leonard, Robert, Kenny, and Jeffry;

Also, two daughters, Mary and Peggy; two sisters, Mesdames Esther Jones, Jamaica, Long Island, N.Y., Leola Booker, Baltimore.

And, six brothers: Will Jackson, Brooklyn, N.Y.; James, Joseph, and Bennie of Meherrin, Va.; Pettie Williams, Jersey City; and Lawrence Jackson, Baltimore.

Relatives and friends occupied 45 cars to Carver Memorial Park. The Kenneth R. Law Funeral Home was in charge.

clause in baseball; perhaps I will be accused of being inconsistent here. But that accusation would hold up only on the surface.

I do not oppose the limited reserve clause employed in basketball and football. In those two sports, unlike in baseball, an unhappy athlete can play (or sit) out a year without a contract and then make the best deal for himself under an option clause.

Were I the owner of the Bullets, one who has done as much as Abe Pollin claims to have done in uncharted assistance to Monroe, I think I would have let him sit — or play, if he so chose, in the American Basketball Association.

I have visions of how "happy" Monroe would have been with the Indiana Pacers, playing in a league which Rick Barry, another NBA jumper, once called "the shadow of pro basketball."

I also have visions of how effective Monroe would be returning to the game after a year of inactivity, had he elected to sit out his option. The loss of a year — and its estimated $100,000 plus salary — cannot be afforded by an aging man with gimpy knees.

Referring to the charge that Pollin's associates hampooned him, I meant, of course, that rival owners realized the precarious position in which the Bullets found themselves in Earl's refusal to play, and they capitalized on it. They offered little or nothing for him in trade.

And the suspicion persists that, even the little the Knicks offered — a one-armed Riordan and a heart case in Stallworth — wouldn't have been forthcoming had it not been for the horrendous start that finds them at the bottom of their division.

The argument to answer that, naturally, will be that it is good business to take advantage of the competition whenever any bartering is done. And I'll readily agree — except at this time.

With professional sports battling what they choose to regard as a takeover by the athletes, it would seem that they would seek to instill a mutual trust in their operation.

In other words, a fight against the reserve clause (to protect the teams against the promiscuous jumping by their stars) is weakened, when they give evidence that they can't trust the owners any more than they can trust the athletes.

There is absolutely no way a man can leave one job and go to another, unless there is some connivance between that man and the prospective new employer.

And now I come to my last irritation, in which I contend that the Bullets used poor judgment in the acceptance of Stallworth and Riordan.

In them the Bullets got two semi-cripples, one of whom, Stallworth, will be 30 years old next month, and the other nefarting fit age of 27.

As I admitted earlier, they are good players. But what can Baltimore do with good players this year? To all intents and purposes, other teams' young prospects. So, why not dicker the season is shot in Baltimore for a couple of some of the

Is it not plausible that the bringing in of some budding talent that are fringes on other established teams, could be used as the beginning of a rebuilding program?
