CCB and Mt. Zion to run Day Care

At its monthly meeting last week, the Board of Trustees of the Community College of Baltimore gave the college administration permission to join with Mt Zion United Methodist Church in establishing a day care center.

"The center will be open not only to the children of CCB students, faculty or staff, but will also serve the neighborhood surrounding the college," said Mrs. Lucille Cohen, Coordinator of the Early Childhood Education Program at the college.

In making her presentation to the Board, Mrs. Cohen stressed that the day care center would serve the college well by providing a conveniently located facility for field placements for students in the college's Early Childhood curriculum.

"These placements are currently often quite difficult to make," she said, "because of transportation problems, the scarcity of centers meeting the minimum standards set by the faculty, and the consequent overutilization of these centers."

The Rev. H.T. Henderson, is pastor of the church which is located at the corner of Wabash Ave. and Liberty Heights Ave., a short distance from the college campus.

He noted that the Mt. Zion center was currently licensed to serve 37 children and presently had an enrollment of 28. The nature of the church's facilities is such that they can readily be expanded to accomodate a larger number of children," he declared.

Dr. Eveline Schulman, chairman of the psychology development, Miss Christine Gutierrez, a student

Dr. Harry Bard, president of the college, expressed enthusiastic support for the project which he considered only an initial step in meeting a pressing need in both the college and neighboring community.

In other actions the Board approved the appointment of Eric Byrd as director of training and technical asssitant programs TTAP) replacing Mr. Grover L. McCrae Jr.

Mr. McCrae will become project director for Construction Employment Training and Management and Entrepreneur Development Co-ordination, which will be funded jointly by H.E.W. and the Labor Department.

William Campbell, a graduate of Gettysbug College, succeeds Mr. Byrd as director of the New Careers Program.

Charles Cherubin, president of the American Federation of Teachers, Local 1930, the faculty bargaining agent at the college, questioned the Board's actions with regard to the federal wage freeze.

Mr. Cherubin declared that the union felt that the Board had not been vigorous enough in its efforts to unfreeze teachers' salaries.

After a lengthy discussion, the Board, while re-affirming its judgement that separate litigation on behalf of the college was not warranted at this time, voted to review its actions and to seek clarification of several specific issues raised during the discussion.

In its final action the Board voted to accept the gifts of oxygen and vacuum safety locking outlets and of respiratory equipment made by several commercial enterprises. The oxygen equipment is the gift of the Puritan Bennett Corp.

1,793 due tax money

Some 1,793 residents of Maryland have not yet received State income tax refunds due them because they have not left a forwarding address with the Post Office.

State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein said that a total of $91,680 will remain in the Maryland treasury until such time as these persons due refunds from the 1970 State income tax make known their forwarding addresses.

Orlinsky visit finds Schaefer in usual form

Priming himself for his new position as president of the City Council, president-elect, Walter S. Orlinsky, sat in on his second session in less than a month last night (Monday).

Also, beaming to one and all was Mayor-elect William D. Schaefer, who conducted one of his very last sessions a head of the legislative branch of government.

Receiving the congratulations of colleagues on his electoral victory last week, Mr. Schaefer dispensed with the city's business in his usual manner as though he could do it for the next four years as well.

Merry Christmas

CAM RANH BAY, Vietnam—American soldiers have been warned of a Viet Cong plan to mail them booby trapped Christmas packages which explode when opened.

Sexy guerilla girls have been ordered to make up to GIs in restaurants, night clubs, hotels and other public places to obtain individual mailing addresses, the Army's Cam Ranh Bay Support Command reported.

"Packages designed to explode when opened would then be mailed or delivered to these addresses at a later date," the command said.

School secretaries offered scholarships

The Baltimore Department of Education is now sponsoring a secretarial scholarship enterprise which will allow secretaries in city public schools an opportunity to enroll in college.

According to Mrs. Mary C. Frazier, Personnel Secretarial Affairs, the purpose of the program is to enable the clerical staff to grow professionally by offering scholarships funds to those interested.

Included among the fund raising activities is a Nov. 7 presentation of the Peabody Conservatory of Music which will be held at the Baltimore Polytechnic Institute on Coldspring Lane, will cost $3.25 for an afternoon of music.

Contact Mrs. Frazier for more ticket information.

Net receipts from an affair sponsored last spring by the department enabled many secretaries, for the first time in their lives, to enroll in college.

A large number of the secretarial staff studied at the Community College of Baltimore during a summer session. In addition to those already enrolled, Choral Group, the concert, many are now registering for study during the fall term.

Any member of the secretarial-clerical who desires to study at the Community of Baltimore will reap the benefits of the scholarship activity. All staff members and their families are encouraged to attend.

King Parent-Child Center chosen for new HEW program

King Parent-Child Center chosen for new HEW program

The Department of Health Education and Welfare has selected Baltimore's Martin Luther King Parent-Child Center as one of just seven in the United States to incorporate a Parent-Child Advocacy Component.

This new component will have the responsibility to:

Identify unmet needs of low income families with children from 0 to 5 years of age in the catchment area.

Identify all private and public programs (local, state, federally-supported) that supply services of the area; and to compile information on existing community services.

Identify the gaps between needs and existing services.

Assist in bringing together a comprehensive and efficient delivery system of services.

Promote the development of community resources to fill gaps in existing services.

Assist fafilies by referring them to specific agencies, and following through to ensure that services are provided.

Develop a training program for child advocates in concert with local colleges and other agencies.

Evaluate the input of the advocacy program on families and the community.

Funds for the incorporation of the advocacy component into center programs will be in the form of supplemental grants.

The Martin Luther King center is one of 37 such Parent-Child Centers in the United States.

All are funded by the office of Economic Opportunity and operated by local CAA's in cooperation with health and social work facilities.

The Baltimore center, operated under the direction of Mrs. Mary Robinson, is conducted jointly by the CAA and Johns Hopkins Hospital and is acclaised as one of the outstanding Parent-Child projects in the nation.

It is located in the Episcopal Church of Our Saviour, across the street from Johns Hopkins Hospital, in the 500 block of North Broadway. Currently, it serves approximately 280 families living in the Lafayette-Douglass Housing Project.

CAA Directors, Delegate Agency Directors, PCC Directors, PAC Chairmen Project Advisors and regional representatives of the participating programs will convene in Washington D.C., October 20-21, to work out the specifics of the program.

...nd 8' ...n disabuse drug abuse

Mystified cloud-nine ideas about drug use and abuse will be helped to be dissolved through a free public film workshop called "Cloud 8" to be held by Project DAWN at the Uptown Theatre on Nov. 23 at 7 p.m.

"Cloud 8", as the name implies will be a look at drugs closer to the reality than the mythology. The workshop will focus on films of interest to intergenerational audiences and will deal with the drugs most widely used in the central corridor of North West Baltimore.
