Funeral home changes hands

A special dedication and open house was held at the New Marshall Jones Funeral Home, 4101 Edmondson Ave., on Sunday.

For years the home had been known as Witzke Funeral Home. Mr. Jones brought the spacious home from the Witzkes.

The home has 16 rooms with four chapels on the first floor and three chapels on the second floor. It has space to accommodate seven bodies at one time and can have three funerals at the same tieme.

There is a parking lot for 75 cars with a four car garage. ON the lower level of the home is a large preparation room.

Mr. Jones has been an embalmer since 1959 and a funeral director since 1960. He worked for the Charles Law Funeral Home from 1956 to 1960.

Mr. Jones, 39 years old attended Community College Temple University from 1950-1962. He is married to Mrs. Gloria Adams Jones who is a funeral directress. They have three children Iris, Sharon, Marchelle, and his nephew Gary.

Along those seen at the open house on Sunday were Messrs and Mesdames William F. Adams, Sr., Charles Bonner, Robert Hopkins, Alonzo Harrison, James Keene, Herbert Nutter, Thomas B. Milkle, James Flemming, R. M. Horton, William C. March, Joseph G. Locks III, Captain and Mrs. Dennis Mello, Melvin Evans.

Mesdames Cornelius Woodson, Katie Byrd, Clara I. Adams, Leola Dodson, Purnell B. Oden, Maggie Little, Carl Adair.

Messrs. James Brent, Oscar Johnson, Earl Gilmore, Samuel Wade, Refreshments were served and music was by the Bus Green-Town Trio.

FUNERAL CHAPEL—Shown is one of the spacious and beautiful funeral chapels at the new Marshall Jones funeral home at 4101 Edmondson Ave., There are 16 rooms in the house and can accomodate seven bodies at one time.

OPEN HOUSE—A dedication ceremony and open house was held Sunday at the New Marshall W. Jones, Jr., funeral home 4101 Edmondson Ave., shown (l. to r.) are John H. Matthews, Jr., staff assistant; Pernel Jones, funeral director and embalmer; Marshall W. Jones, Jr., owner-manager; Mrs. Gloria A. Jones, funeral directress; Purnell B. Oden, funeral director and embalmer; Miss Helen Harris, organist; Samuel Wade, Jr. funeral director.

600 attend Waters AME rededication

The choirs of Waters A.M.E. Church marched down the aisle at the 11a.m. services on Sunday lifting their voices to "God of Grace, God of Glory."

More than 600 people set in their pews joining in the singing. The occasion was homecoming, dedication and re-dedication.

The Rev. Melvin C. Swann, pastor of Waters stated that "for 17 months we worshipped in Lafayette Auditorium, we come this morning with mixed emotions. There was never a Sunday we had to worry about a congregation to worship to. We are grateful we are back home, we want to say thank you Jesus."

Following these remarks the choirs and congregation began to sing "Jesus Is All The World To Me."

Dr. A. L. Murray, presiding elder Easton District introducted the guest speaker-the Rt. Rev. Henry W. Murphy, presiding bishop.

Dedication of pews was by the Rev. Swann, Dr. Murray, tre Rt. Rev. Henry w. Murph, Eric Douglass and the congregation. Services were closed by Bishop with a prayer for the sick, bereaved, hopeless and helpless.

The church ras pledged to remain in the community where it has served for 128 years. It ras established a child day-lare center, re-equipped the gymnasium, excavating for a new basement for a youth lounge with ping pong, and other game, and provided classroom facilities for adult education in the evenings.

The Rev. Swann ras been pastor of Waters for six years, he is married to Dorothy Swann and ras one son Melcin Chester Swann, Jr., who is director of student affairs in Greensboro, N. C. public schools.

Dinner was served after the services. Among those seen on Sunday were Messers. and Mesdames Paul Chester, Charles E. Smith; MesdamesMary Mosely, Dr. Lillie Jackson, Juanita Jackson, Virginia Roberts, Margaret Perry, thelma Taylor, Martha Thomas, Florence Fields, Rose Davis, Sara Tiller, Beverly Fleting and daughter Kell, Rosalee Smith, Pauline Gray, Alice McGee, Mary Brent, Ann Wallace

Messers Melvin Swann, Jr., Gary Aquilla, Charles Gray, John Bryant, Melvin Smith, Rev. James Hill.

Services will bereld at Waters A. M. E. Church until Dec. 12, for the dedlation and re-dedication.

HONORED at Waters AME Church month-long 128th anniversary celebration are Mesdames Lillian Stanford, Alma Gatewood, Emma Drake

(PANEL 2) Harry Mitchell, Mrs. Myrtle Webster and Mrs. Priscilla Gatis. All are longtime members.

Jewish Council seeks relief for Syrian Jews

Residents of the Baltimore community art being urged to write the Secretary-general of the United Nations as well as the Syrian Mission to the United Nations to protest the mistreatment of Syrian Jews by the Government, according to Alan D. Hecht, President of the Baltimore Jewish Council

In asking Baltimoreans to express their concern over Syria anti-semitism, Mr. Hecht cited a statement recently published by the non-sectarian committee of Concern headed by General Lucius D. Clay, which describes not only the general persecution threatening the survival of the Syrian Jewish community, but the apeaal, "that Jews who try to leave Syria are singled out for especially oppressive measure.
