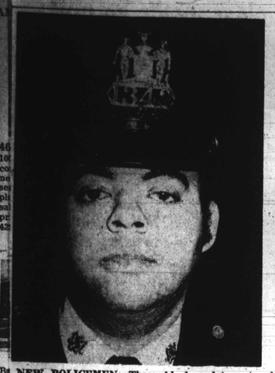
Del. Brailey To Get Emergency Room Reports



NEW POLICEMEN—Three black cadets entered the ranks of the Baltimore Police Department Friday. Officer Victor D. Gregory is assigned to Northern District. Shown with friends, Miss Beverly Fluit, Officer Ronald Miller of Southern District, and Miss Juanita Dockery, Officer William E. McKinney will work at Northern District. Officer William Byrd will start his police career at Northwestern District.

Youth with long hair vs police in Civil Liberties trial Dec. 15

"We have received many complaints of police harassment of young people congregating peacefully in areas around the city, and we wanted to test the situation for ourselves."

This is a statement by John Roemer, III, executive director of the American Civil Liberties Union of Maryland on his arrest while "talking quietly on 36th St. in Hampden in front of a half-dozen witnesses. . . on Nov 18.

After his arrest Mr. Roemer said, "Too often, when it's a policeman's word

LAST DAYS OF AUTUMN were enjoyed by Albert Johnson, David Cranson and Walter Sneed and other youngsters through an old-fashioned trip in a wagon drawn by a just-as-pleased horse from the Mr. Fat Back stables. The experience was afforded by members of the Third World Museum during their "Children's Hour."

34 new police officers

The Baltimore Police Department graduated its sixth class of cadets this year during exercises Friday in the War Memorial Building.

32 cadets received their diplomas from Acting Commissioner Thomas J. Keyes.

The black graduates were William Byrd, Victor D. Gregory, and William E. McKinney.

Officer Byrd of 3406 Duvall St. is to be assigned to

U. of Md. to begin family medicine major

"The complex problems of family medicine . . . are tremendous since the understanding and care of families aren't easily grasped — it takes special care."

These are the words of Dr. Edward J. Kowalewski, appointed to the University of Maryland School of Medicine to head the new specialty of family medicine, beginning Jan. 1.

"These differences between the general practitioner and the family physician is that the new family physician will get special training," commented Dr. Kowalewski.

Student interest is "tremendous," said Dr. Kowalewski, but community interest and involvement are just as important.

"For example, there are students, nurses and technicians who are dedicated to helping in an Inner City area but are physically getting hit on the head; they can't live with families there.

Unless community lead-

Emergency room reports to Brailey

Delegate Troy Brailey told the AFRO this week that he agrees wholeheartedly with Dr. Neil Solomon, State Health secretary, when he says he intends to publish the report on area hospital emergency rooms. The study was made by the Regional Planning Council.

Dr. Solomon has asked the council to put its emergency room data in his hands "as soon as possible" after he received a

Firemen's Union to reballot

After suffering an apparent case of ballot stuffing, Firefighters' Local 734 with the aid of its parent organization, the International Firefighters Association, will hold a new election of Local 734 officers.

Our union is going to receive a "black eye" for this, said presidential candidate Edward C. Hectrotte.

Only the presidential spot sought by Heckrotte and incumbent Charney L. Harris is in question.

"My conscience is as clear as the day is long," beamed Heckrotte who claimed to have been winning by a "flash flood."

Charles Thomas president of the Vulcan Blazers, told the AFRO that black firefighters generally supported Heckrotte and that a number of these men failed to receive a ballot in the mail.

The Rev. Marion C. Bascom, Sr., Fire Board Commissioner, remarked, "It was generally conceded you couldn't win by getting support from the Vulcans."

That Heckrotte had a probable 3 to 1 edge in the returns indicated to the Rev. Mr. Bascom there is less racism in the Fire Department than assumed.

Mitchell blocking Blue Cross rates

Rep. Parren J. Mitchell (D-7th District-Maryland) has acted to help block a 34.1 per cent increase in Blue Cross Blue Shield premium rates for federal employees.

The controversial increase was attacked last week by members of a House post office and civil service subcommittee, including representative Lawrence J. Hogan (R-5th District-Maryland) a member of the committee.

In a letter to the director of the Civil Service Commission's insurance division, Mr. Mitchell demanded that outside auditors be brought in to investigate the accuracy of

Soul of black art shown at Third World

The soul, culture and beauty of black art is currently on display daily in one of the city's newest museums of art, The Third World Museum III.

According to Berkley S. Thompson, curator, the two-year old museum is unique because it not only seeks to establish itself, but also seeks to establish new black artists.

He states, "Everything we do is under the banner of the Black Cultural Endowment Project, whose main goals are: 1) to build Baltimore's first black art museum and 2) to endow black artists with commis-

Allen Stockett, 71, dies at barber shop

"He loved all sports, enjoyed art shows and liked to play checkers."

Thomas Stockett, AFRO artist, was speaking of his father Allen Stockett, 71, 1714 N. Washington St.

Mr. Stockett dropped dead in a barber shop on Tuesday, Thomas Stockett, stated, "It was the barber shop where he used to play checkers. He had a pain in his side and died there."

He had been self-employed for 45 years selling coal from a garage in the 1600 block of Jefferson St. For 48 years, he was married to Mrs. Lillie Stockett, who survives.

Duplicate Bridge

By TEX NEWSOME

You say you play bridge all the time? Even play bridge on your lunch hour? So why haven't you come on up to duplicate?

You say you play better than everybody in your group—that you can't find an interesting game anymore?

Well, come on up to duplicate. We've got beginners you can beat, good players to hold your own against, and some Life Masters who'll teach you respect for the game.

You say you're not lucky at cards, but you like the game so much you keep on keeping on even with miserable hands. Why not come on up to duplicate?

Here's an example of how duplicate bridge takes the luck out of the game: you're sitting there holding 9 points and the opponents get to slam on this bidding: South opens one spade, North says two diamonds, South jumps to three spades, four diamonds by North, four hearts by

The Kenneth Wilsons host Sunday supper

with Lula Mackay

By PAULA BROOKS
(Substituting for Mrs. Mackay)

Pretty, pretty, pretty, indeed, was that Sunday evening party Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth O. Wilson gave at their Grantley Rd. home. 'It was no special occasion, I just wanted to have som friends in,' Mrs. Wilson explained. Nevertheless, guests had been invited by cute invitations which bid them come for cocktails and supper. Shortly after seven, the Wilsons manse was aglow with beautiful people engaged in happy conversation and enjoying a variety of beautiful dishes.

Tables throughout the house were laden with hors d'eourves for the cocktail hour which preceded the supper at nine o'clock.

Mrs. Wilson (Jean), received guests in an apricot culotte hostess gown designed by Teal Traina. Her jewelry was a pendant.

Up from Oxford, Md., were Mr. and Mrs. Edward Webb.

Local guests about were: Messrs. and Mesdames Wiley Daniels, Willie Adams, David Wright, A. Paul Moss, Jerome Markman, Charles Michael, Charles Hillen, Royal Weaver, Gilbert Rubin, George Jude, Samuel T. Daniels, Sylvester Watkins, William Pinderhughes,

Messrs. and Mesdames George Radcliffe, Phillip Hoffman, Lionel Fultz, John H. Murphy 3rd, Robert Diggs, Thomas S. J. Waxter Jr., John Mackey, Roger Johnson, Clarence Maiden, Joseph Rash, John L. Stokes, Garland Chissell, Bernard Harris, Nathaniel Proctor, Archie Robinson, Albert Burwell, John Chissell; Judge and Mrs. Harry Cole, Lt. Col. and Mrs. William Harris, Judge and Mrs. Robert Watts, Henry Parks, and Frank Cuccia.

An eyecatcher at the inauguration ceremony for Mayor William Donald Schaefer on Tuesday morning, was the petite and attractive Mrs. Marie Henderson, coordinator of the program.

She was elegant in a full-length black skirt with a subtle slit at the side, accented by a gray and black sequin top.

By the way, Mrs. Henderson, who has a melodious voice, handled the entire affair as if it were second nature to her.

Didn't she sound good when she presided at the Civic Center ceremony!

Orchids to others on the well-arranged inaugural program committee: — Mrs. Betty Wells and Elmer Smith, co-chairmen; Mesdames Jody Albright, Kathy Campbell, Jean Crolius and Shirley Wysocki; Larry Best, James David, Roscoe Herring, Robert Kier, Robert Steinberg and Gene Sysocki.

Piano pupils hold annual recital

Piano pupils of Mrs. Adah K. Jenkins performed in their annual recital Sunday afternoon in the Chambers Auditorium of Provident Hospital

Programmed as multi-media concert, each work was introduced by a description given by Mrs. Iantha Lake, narrator. An original poem by Paul Whitsen was read preceding "Shadows on the Moon."

A ballet interpretation of "The Snake Charmer of Benares," was given in costume by Karla Brown and Rosalyn Johnson, with Sharon Johnson at the piano.

Original piano compositions were played by Cyrus Chestnut, 8 year-old and Victor Datcher, 12-year-old, pianists.

Mr. and Mrs. Mack Simpson (Mildred and Mack), gospel duo, were guest artists. The program concluded with the awarding of certificates and pins resulting from the annual Piano Guild Auditions held last spring. With Rosetta Waters receiving the highest of international winner.

ael Bates, Dyanne Michelle Dix, Mack Simpson III, Janet Kelly and Rosetta Waters.

Illustrious Women

MRS. JUNE COOPER

By PAULA M. BROOKS

Mrs. June Cooper, president of Carver High School's Parent-Teacher Student Association, (PTSA), was presented the highest award at the recent Maryland Congress of Parents and Teachers meeting here in Baltimore.

The 'Honorary Life Membership' certificate cited Mrs. Cooper for "outstanding" services to Baltimore's children and youth and for her commendable work with the Carver Vocational-Technical High School's PTSA.

Maryland Congress of Parents and Teachers President, Jack Lancaster, presented the embossed certificate.

Mrs. Cooper was recommended for the honor by Carver's PTSA, as a tribute to her "indefatigable work in promoting higher education at the school and in the community."

Mother of four, Mrs. Cooper has served 15 years in PTSA.

Two of her children attend Maryland Institute of Art—Miss Hannah Cooper, 21, majoring in fashion design and a student at the Peabody Conservatory.

Russell Keith, 19, is a freshman at the Institute, majoring in art education.

Other Cooper children are: Kathryn L., 17, a senior at Edmondson High School. An honor student, she plans to study law at UMBC.

Brian Morgan, is a junior at Carver High majoring in diesel mechanics.

Mrs. Cooper is married to Russell Cooper, an Area Project Supervisor for Housing and Community Development and president of MEA (Municipal Employees Association). The family lives in the 4100 block Barrington Rd.

At one time, Mrs. Cooper was president of three PTSA groups. She is the past president of Edmondson High and City College' PTSA, and is the current president of Carver High's PTSA.

She is a member of the League of Women Voters (Educational Committee), the Mayor's Task Force on Equal Education ad Rights, The Maryland Licensed Practical Nurses Association, Field Service Representative from the Baltimore City Council of PTAS to the Maryland Congress of PTA.

She is also active in Garrison Community School Council, Chairman of home visits for Meals on Wheels, past matron of Dorcas Chapter No. 14 order of the Eastern Star and Grand Officer of Debora Grand Chapter.

The Cooper family attends Douglas Memorial Community Church. Mrs. Cooper says, "I often regard Carver as my 'home school'."

There is no doubt that Carver High regards her as its "most irreplacable natural resource."

Miss Stevenson to wed Mr. Brown
