Help needed to do hair in nursing homes

Volunteers, male and female who can press hair, are being asked to join with Mrs. Mabel Brooks, an ex-beautician, in her efforts to help persons in city nursing homes to improve their appearance and spirits.

Mrs. Brooks says she has been donating her free time to press the ladies' hair in the nursing homes for the last 10 years.

Now, Mrs. Brooks would like some help so that more nursing homes can be covered and more of the aged and sick could get their hair pressed.

She would like to get enough people to work with her permanently on a rotating basis. Mrs. Brooks is especially concerned about getting help for the Christmas Holiday.

"I have gotten a promise from a prominent mortician to help us with transportation should that be a problem, added the ex-beautician.

If you can press hair and have two hours to help someone less fortunate than yourself, please call Mrs. Brooks at 669-2798 between 6 and 7 p.m.

Vote for Nixon seen melting away as Art Fletcher quits Republicans

Three former high-ranking black officials in the Nixon administration, including Richmond, have expressed confusion and disappointment over the resignation of a fourth black Republican who was the administration's second highest ranking black.

The comments of the former officials concerned the apparent surprise resignation last week of Arthur A. Fletcher, an alternate delegate to the United Nations.

Fletcher, who was Nixon's No. 1 black defender, had been expected to carry a large campaign burden next year on behalf of modest Republican hopes of capturing 20 per cent of the black vote.

Some black Republicans speculated that Fletcher had develped too much power in the Labor Department, where he had served until September. He was in charge of enforcing laws aimed at eliminating discrimination in labor unions.

These souces felt that because of this Fletcher was "Kicked upstairs" to the UN and then quit when he was not offered a policy-making position in the government or the Republican party. Fletcher will become executive director of the United Negro College Fund.

Clarence W. Townes Jr. of Richmond, who set up the GOP's minority division before he resigned last year as special assistant to the GOP national chairman, said the loss of Fletcher to black Republicans was like "Willie Mays retiring in the prime of his career."

Townes, who described his own departure from the Republican Party as "amicable," is now a senior staff associate in the nonpartisan Joint Center for Political Studies in Washington.

Reached in Honolulu where he attended the League of Cities Conference, Townes praised Fletcher as a "driver, builder, articulate and creditable black spokesman."

Several others used similar words of praise for Fletcher, saying hat he had been an activist, rather than passive, and this had helped him retain credibility in the black community despite working for the Nixon administration.

These observers said that the Republicans mostly tolerate blacks who were passive in their jobs, but that such blacks lost any value to the GOP because they lost credibility in their own community.

Another former Richmonder, W. Frank Render 2nd, who resiednged under prescretary of defense after Pentagon officials criticized his work in the civil rights area within the military establishment, said that Fletcher still had his credibility, but was even effective "with even the old-line moneyed Republican interests. It doesn't help to have one of the top black standard bearers taken out of the party."

James L. Farmer, former director of CORE, the Congress of Racial Equality, who quit a year ago as assistant secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, said that the loss of Fletcher as a campaigner was "a big blow to the GOP since it was expected that he would be campaigning."

He said that the Nixon administration had begun making appeals to black voters and that "this probably will accelerate."

"This puts us (blacks) in a good position and we should play it for all it is worth —one party against the other," Farmer said.

What's Happening on the Eastside

Mrs. Obiedell Alston, a person of strong character, great sense of determination, unfailing courage and a deep sensitivity to human needs, has given the majority of her life helping others.

Mrs. Alston came to us from Lillington, N.C. some 50 odd years ago. As the young wife of the late Hilliard Alston, she decided early that the most one can get out of life is its discipline of one's self and its usefulness for others. Since making a decision, she found strength to answer the call to duty, irregardless.

As a member of Faith Baptist Church, 40 years, Rev. Walter Paige Pastor, Mrs. Alston serves in many organizations. She teaches Sunday School, a member of the B.T.U., and sings with the Gospel Jewels.

She works with the Lady's Aide, the Women's League and with the Missionary; Mrs. Obiedell is also a teacher with the Good Samaritan Bible Circle.

Mrs. Alston devotes much time to the community working among all people. She is with Eastside community Committee who sponsors children's camp and other activities and does volunteer work with the East Baltimore Good News Club and the Home Makers Club of University of Maryland.

Our good neighbor does all kinds of service with the Rescue Mission located at Green Street and Pennsylvania Ave.

She takes time to visit the prisons also corresponds by letters every week. She visits the sick and shut-ins making for a happoer life.

Mrs. Obiedell reared a family in the 1600 block of Miller Street where she worked with the Clean Block for 35 years.

Many view her as another Florence Nightingale. We see her through many eyes.

Regardless how many see our good neighbor, her children see her as Mother of all Mothers.

The Mother who healed their many wounds, who never spared the rod, one who counseled and directed them.

All her children have done well, because she was their guiding force.

Her son, Earl is now Principal of Mergenthaler High School.

Daughters Claretta Green is a student at Morgan College and works as a teacher's aide at Dunbar High School and Gertrude Beaufordi is a Senior Aide, at school no. 149. Adele Israel is working as Supervisory Social Worker, D.C.

Mrs. Alston's 19 grand children, ranging 10 months to 22 years see her as one who has helped to mold their lives from puter to gold.

Our good neighbor, a loving person who feels that everything good was made for the usefulness, to the human race.

Birthday Greetings Cynthia Stinson, Denise Alston, Alice Treese, Linda Yates, Mary Alexander, Ruby Green, Lillian Young.

Goodwill socks, shoes project

The annual Christmas project of Baltimore Goodwill Industries is again being directed towards supplying new shoes and socks for underpriviileged children of school age in the metropolitan Baltimore area.

Inaugurating this program of furnishing shoes, socks and sweaters in 1970 in order to make possible the continued attendance of school-aged children proved to be so successful that it was decided to expand the number of children served in 1971.

Working with the full cooperation of the school system and several social service agencies, the youngsters referred by them have now been measured for new shoes, socks and sweaters.

Distribution of these gifts will be made during a big Christmas party on Dec. 18.

Anyone wishing to help Baltimore Goodwill in this worthwhile undertaking
