Yuletide bazaar scheduled at FCC

Federal City College's "Free Style Craft Shop" is sponsoring a "Pre-Christmas Bazaar," Dec. 9th-10th and 11th, at 1424 K St., NW. in the lobby, from 11 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Available for unique Christmas gifts will be creations from senior citizens, local craftsmen, local artists, out of town artists and the "Free Style Craft Shop."

The dials are automatically scanned by a television camera. Sahdix officials said the break-in occurred shortly after midnight. They said they were not notified of the photos until shortly before 8 a.m.

$92,400 may go to workers who found it

PHILADELPHIA — Two city sewer cleaners who think honesty is the best policy may profit by $92,400 because of their belief.

Cardell Williams, 41, who earns $7,800 a year, and Louis Laguna, 57, who earns $10,900, found a wad of torn and waterlogged $100 bills in a sewer inlet Nov. 22. The bills totaled $92,400.

The men promptly reported their find and the money was turned over to the police.

Deputy Mayor Anthony Zecca said: "The city isn't going to lay claim to that money and following whatever legal process is necessary it should revert to them."

"Honesty in city employees is a valid commodity and ought to be rewarded," Zecca said.

Detective Sgt. Frank Heinze, heading the investigation of the find, said the rgitful owner has a year to claim his money. "We've got lots of claims, but so far none appears to be valid."

College to teach skills to minorities

An experiment in on-the-job training, combining the resources of the Community College of Baltimore and agencies of the federal government will teach vocational skills to 150 minority residents of the Baltimore area and provide entrepreneural potentials to minority contractors.

The announcement was made by Dr. Harry Bard, president of the Community College of Baltimore, at the City Hall.

The idea was conceived by the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development. The Community College of Baltimore will provide continuity of training in the construction trades in federally financed and subsidized housing projects. 40 per cent of the trainees will be Vietnam era veterans.

The project as a number of objectives, while its basic purpose is to provide training in construction-type occupaions and entrepreneural opportunities in Baltimore City on federally assisted construction. It will also further one of the mandates of HUD'S projects, REHAB, mainly involving inner city residents in rehabilitating the housing of their own areas.

The contract is being funded by the U.S. Departments ofLabor and Health, Education, and Welfare. The total cost is $29,940.

DEC. 12

Handel's Messiah will be presented by the Douglass High School Alumni and Choir today, at 4 p.m. in the school auditorium, Gwynns Falls Parkway. The public is invited to this free concert.

Baltimore girl helps make NYU fencing power

NEW YORK — New York University, working around a nucleus that includes Ruth White of Baltimore, has finally won recognition as a genuine power in collegiate fencing.

Miss White, a graduate of Western High School in Baltimore, won numerous junior titles before enrolling here in 1969.

She and her Violet teammates have won 25 straight dual meets. They hold a share of the NCAA team title, and are expected to land as many as four berths on the U.S. Olympic squad for the 1972 Games at Munich.

For 47 years, NYU has had a fencing coach named Castello. Julio Catello coached for 22 years and was succeeded in 1947 by his son, Hugo, now in his 25th season.

They produced 56 All-America fencers, won 18 NCAA championships including nine team titles and Hugo Castello has served on all the major fencing committees of the NCAA and Olympic Groups.

One of Hugo's saber aces was Neil Diamond, now a popular recording star, who fenced on one of the NCAA title teams in the 1960's.

• • •

Castello bears down hard on fundamentals but lets each individual develop his or her own style. The theory obviously has worked. His lifetime coaching record in dual meets is 181-34.

Best Olympic prospects at NYU are Miss White, Walter Krause of Newark, Paul Apostol of East Northport, N.Y., and George Masin of East Patchogue, N.Y.

Bears resume MEAC campaign

Nat Frazier's Morgan State basketers esthe play tomorrow (Saturday) night in quest of their second Mid-Eastern Athletic conference title.

The Bears entertain South Carolina State College in the Hurt gym.

Back-to-back victories over Delaware State and Lincoln University gave Morgana record of our wins in five starts. The defeat of Delaware was the first in the basketball schedule of the MEAC.

Morgan won the football championship in the league's first year of operation.

Adding the cage title, however, may be somewhat difficult.

Howard, whom S.C. State plays after leaving here, has an exceptionally formidable team this year. And A and T State of Greensboro (NC) perennially strong.

Both are members of the MEAC.

Scholar-Athlete weeding begins for '71 citations

The process of selecting the high school Scholar-Athlete of the year in the Baltimore area is now under way, according to H. William Bauersfeld, Jr. president of the Greater Chapter, National Football Foundation and Hall of Fame, speaking for that organization and the quarterback club of Baltimore, Inc., the co-sponsoring group.

"Letters went out Wednesday," said Bauersfeld, to the principals of 64 high schools. These schools are located in Baltimore City, and in Baltimore, Harford, Anne Arundel, Carroll, Frederick and Howard Counties

"The letters ask the principals to confer with their athletic directors, football coaches and members of the faculties in order to nominate one senior to represent each school as its Scholar-Athlete. The selection of each nominee is based on his scholastic record, his ability in sports—particularly football, his school and community citizenship activities and personality factors," Bauersfeld said.

• • •

Representative of the 64 schools will be honored at the ninth annual scholar-Athlete Dinner to be held at the Eastwind on Wednesday, February 16. Prior to the dinner, a special selection committee will choose the single most outstanding school representative and on February 16, the winner will be announced and will be presented with a 500 scholarship to the college of his choice.

The scholarship money is made available each year by the co-sponsoring Quarterback Club.

Wheelchair basketers in action at Eastern

The Middle River Optimist Club is sponsoring a wheelchair basketball game tomorrow (Saturday) at the Eastern Vocational High School at 7:30 p.m.

The Baltimore Ravens, from the Baltimore League for Crippled Children and Adults, will meet the Montco Ironsides from Philadelphia in this Mid-Atlantic Conference game.

As Maryland's only organized wheelchair basketball team, the Ravens play teams from New Jersey, Pennsylvania and Virginia over the course of a twelve-game schedule.

Although winless in four games, Raven coach Mike Naugle expressed confidence at a recent practice held at the League's headquarters on Cold Spring Lane.

"We have been working a lot on shooting," he said,"since the men use strictly arm and shoulder strength and it takes time to get the touch."

Bob Ardinger is the team's leading scorer averaging 16 points a game, and James West, center, is the top rebounder.

Rec schedules swim classes for learners

Mrs. Ernestine Ward, district supervisor for the Baltimore City Bureau of Recreation, has announced that "Learn to Swim" classes are being held at the following locations:

Edmondson High School Pool — Thursday and Friday from 7 to 9 p.m. and Saturday from 1 to 4 p.m..

Carver High School Pool — Monday, Tuesday and Thursday from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m.
