N.C. blacks still behind in employment

RALEIGH, N.C. — North Carolina blacks still trail whites in employment, a state employment security official says.

David A. Garrison said recently that joblessness for the state as a whole is about 2.5 per cent of the work force and the rate for blacks is about twice that.

"As to the relationship between black and white unemployment, we normally think of this in terms of a two-to-one ratio," he said.

Last rites for City Jail suicide victim

Funeral services will be held Wednesday at noon for James Miller, 19, 2300 block Riggs Ave., at the Nutter Funeral Home, 3035 W. North Ave.

Internment will follow at the Mt. Auburn Cemetery, Annapolis Ave. and Hollins Ferry Rd.

Mr. Miller, who was detained at City Jail on a criminal assault charge, died Friday after hanging himself in his jail cell.

According to Warden Hiram L. Schoonfield, the youth's death is the first to occur at the jail this year.

A corrections officer cut Mr. Miller down from a rolled-up bed sheet that had been tied to the iron grills of his cell window.

The youth, who was still alive when freed from the bedsheets, was pronounced dead on arrival at City Hospital.

MRS. ERRIE STARLING of DeKalb, Texas, finds repairing tanks and other combat vehicles all in a day's work at the Red River Army Depot near Texarkana. She is the first woman to complete the U.S. Department of Labor registered apprenticeship program at the Texas installation and chose to be a combat vehicle mechanic.

SCHOLARSHIP CONTRIBUTION — Morgan State College's president, Dr. King V. Cheek receives a contribution to the school's scholarship program from Armco Steel Corporation representatives Vernon Berky and George A. Foy.

$500 SCHOLARSHIP was presented to Miss Fabienne Royale a senior sociology major at Morgan State College by B. W. Deaton, scholarship officer for the Western Electric Company. Looking on is Melville W. Pugh, chairman of Morgan's sociology department and Miss Royale's advisor.

Play shows Nigerian customs

COLUMBIA, Mo. — "Wedlock ofthe Gods," a ritual drama by Mrs. Nwagzula Sofola, was presented this weekend in Jesse Auditorium at the University of Missouri-Columbia.

Mrs. Sofola, a Nigerian, in spending the fall school term in Jefferson City where her husband is acting head of Lincoln University's sociology department.

Presented at the request of Black Cultural Society and the university theatre department, the production is designed to draw black people into drama at the university and give them an opportunity to participate in an original African play.

Her brother-in-law then refuses her and she is allowed to enarry her first lover, the baby's father. The girl's former mother-in-law plots revenge for her dead son and poisons the girl. Finding her dead, the lover kill the mother-in-law and poisons himself.

Provident Hospital objects to connection with U. of Md. program

In a release early this month, the University of Maryland Public Relations Division announced it is establishing a program to attack sickle cell anemia and "inpatients and outpatients at both the University and Provident Hospitals will be included in the center's clinic which opens around Jan. 1."

However, in a statement issued Wednesday Provident Hospital denies any connection. The statement is signed by Henry J. Whyte, executive vice-president and director; Dr Archie Robinson, president of the medical staff and Dr. C. Alex Alexander, director of medical affairs.

• • •

The statement reads as follows:

"We refer to an article which appeared in a local paper on Dec. 3, announcing the award of a grant by the Thomas R. Wilson Foundation to support Sickle Cell Disease Clinics at the University of Maryland and Provident Hospital.

• • •

"While Provident Hospital is very grateful to note that the Foundation is deeply interested in the care and treatment of blacks afflicted with this disease, we would like to inform the general public that neither the Foundation nor the University of Maryland has formally sought from either the Medical Staff or our Board of Trustees their endorsement or approval of the program as announced by Dr. Priscilla Gilman.

• • •

"Provident Hospital has already established a Sickle Cell Anemia Center and is engaged in expanding its activities in conjunction with the Baltimore Committee on Sickle Cell Anemia.

"It would be greatly appreciated if foundations and agencies would discuss their interests and intentions with Provident Hospital and the Baltimore Committee on Sickle Cell Anemia prior to issuing statements of the type referred to in this article.

"Provident Hospital has established great rapport and credibility within the Black community of Baltimore.

• • •

"The Baltimore Committee on Sickle Cell Anemia was specifically organized to coordinate all activities in this area so that an institution such as ours is not used as a decoy by others to attract funds from agencies that are sincerely committed to helping the black citizens.

"Provident Hospital is seeking funds for its own program in Sickle Cell Disease and we wish to inform the public that our plans will be announced shortly.
