paintings now being seen in the Morgan Gallery, as well as hundreds of drawings and sketches. Tom wrote descriptions of the paintings and told the story of the people and the land behind them. The backers spent their money well, for the paintings are already valued at far more than the original investment, and the first edition of the book, published by William B. Eerdmans Publishing Company, has long been sold out. A second edition will be published in 1972.

Baltimoreans were completely enchanted with Mr. Collins, here for the opening. He's 32, but looks 23, with his slender figure, bush cut, and wearing a black turtleneck body knit, tightly fitted trousers, studded wide leather belt, and boots. He is as refreshingly down to earth as an April morn. For an American who had hit the top deck in such a short time he is amazingly outside of himself.

The painting presented to the Gallery in honor of Dr. Jenkins is "Untitled," and one done by the artist since his return. The original 30 works will be contained in the collection, will not be for sale until after a world tour which will begin with Europe in January.

Following the reception about 50 guests were invited to meet Mr. Collins at a supper party at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Saul Perdue. Some 500 guests had been invited to the black-tie reception.

The Pierians are:

Mrs. Pearl Brackett, Dr. Jessie Colson, Mesdames Lionel Desbordes, G. James Fleming, Bradshaw Higgins, Martin D. Jenkins, Ernest Johnson, Arthur Lamb, Sr., Arthur C. Lamb, Jr., James E. Lewis, Mesdames Cliff Mackay, James Mebane, Herbert Moseley, Glenford Mussenden, Lester Norris, Saul Perdue, Medford Reynolds, Glenn Tarter, Jerome Todd, Emerson Walden, G. Luther Washington; Senator Verda Welcome, and Mesdames Ruth Welling and Herbert Wilson.

The way townsfolk were madly giving parties the past week one would have thought time was giving out.

Anne Davis and Agnes Patterson(an aunt and niece combo) held forth at 2890 N. Charles St., Saturday afternoon at a pip of a Christmas party for the Girl Friends.

As their guests arrived the hostesses pinned Christmas corsages on them. An entrancing table setting in red and white bid guests to luncheon. But while cocktails were still the chief dispensation, Ann conducted a raffle for Yule gifts. She handed out bags of beans for the raffle barter.

'Twas also the session at which Girl Friends exchanged Christmas gifts with each other.

President of the Baltimore chapter, Theda Wilson, interspersed carols for the business session, so 'twas a pure fun session . . a high fashion session, with Anne in the snarkiest multi-colors of purple jacket and skirt with purple blouse and high purple boots; and Agnes choosing chic navy pants ensemble trimmed in white.

Mae Williams and Olga Parker (those sisters who "if she does it, I do it, too") perked in wearing lush maxi-length fur coats. Gwendolyn Lynch was pretty in the palest of pink wool knit, and Mazie Rea in a pants ensemble which had a stripped top and plain bottom, chiefly in aqua. Both Doris Wheeler and Verna Williams chose Christmas red to be sparkling in.

Helen Patterson, a guest, wore black and white. Other guests included Ethel Payne and Mildred Seaborne.

Girl Friends missing were Catherine Wilson and Georgeanna Chester, who were in New York for a wedding; and Laura Jones, who was in bed following an automobile accident.

About were Elizabeth Stewart, Gwendolyn Roper, Eliza Robinson, Gaynell Spaulding, Doris Wheeler, Mazie Ream, Lula Mackay, Margaret Driver, Olga Parker, Gwndolyn Lunch, Ruth Jennifer, Theda Wilson, Mae Parrott, Catherine Law, Irma Roy, Vera Williams, Anita Wheatley.

Dorothy Wood, whose turn to entertain the Smart Set had come late in November, changed to a December date and boosted the meeting into a party with husbands and guests, too.

Having a high time with her and John (Junkie) on Sunday were:

Gwendolyn and Wilbert Seaborne, Lillian and Leon Bell, Hellena and Walter Edmonds, Iona Collins, Adele and Ben Foreman, Alice and Bill Penderhughes, Kay and Simon Carter, Ada and Warren Weaver, Sarah and Joel Newton, Sara and Raymond Gray, Bertha and Alan Forte, Helen Queen, who came from Pennsylvania, Doris and Harry Coles, Theodosia and E. V. Stokes, Iris Mapp and Mable Byrd.

Saturday evening the Gay Northeasterners were making their holiday offering at dinner and the theatre at Bolton Hill.

Those chic hostesses included Carol Diggs, Bernice Monroe, Verda Welcome, Helen Lee, Beatrice DeCosta, Edna Campbell, Mae Peck, Donnie Jackson and Emma Bright.

They, too, had guests, including:

Dr. and Mrs. James Carr, Dr. and Mrs. McDonald Bando, Josiah Henry, attorney, and Mrs. Henry; Mrs. Dora Hutchinson, Mrs. Rose Kennedy, Dr. Frank DeCosta, Dr. C. Dudley Lee, Warren Peck, Mrs. Cliff Mackay, Abdella Campbell, Dr. Clarence Monroe, Dr. Houston L. Jackson, Marshall Bright, Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Brooks, and Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Smith.

And at the same time members of the Coupels' Club were grouped at an elegant little dinner party at the Medford Reynoldses. Barbara (she is suave black and white) were guests. Ben Foreman, attorney, was gathering the eye-boggling in a Santa red suit. Mrs. Foreman was holding her own in a rose blouse and skirt of Egyptian print, split high.

Mrs. Charles Law wore a black skirt, black faille waist high boots, white blouse and a Chanel jacket in white edged in gold. Mrs. Dellaphine Warrington wore plum wool edged in white, and Mrs. William Stanford, a blouse and skirt combo.

Mrs. Hiram Butler was in red crushed velvet ensemble embellished with tiny rhinestone buttons; and Mrs. John Rich turned to a straight line black wool frock which featured a cape. Mrs. Lonnie Greene was in ashes of roses satin, designed on princess line with long sleeves and the whole splattered from neck to hem with rhinestones and pearls.

Of course all of the gals' men were there.

The Moles, however, started the season off with a Christ-like jesture.

The whole group, along with their husbands and children, worshipped at St. John A.M.E. Church, Sunday morning, where they heard a dynamic speech by the Rev. Benjamin S. Foust and from there on to brunch at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Herbert Trader.

This beautiful and warm experience was shared by Mr. and Mrs. Marsden Rawlins and son, Keith; Mr. and Mrs. Paul Beckham and sons, Paul, Jr., and Stewart; Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Stubbs and daughter, Weslye; Mr. and Mrs. Alonzo Hairston and daughtters, Valerie and Gena;

Also, Mrs. Dorothy Johnston and son, Cecil; Mrs. Margaret Land, Mrs. Florence Bailey, Mrs. Helen Queen, Mrs. Lou Lockerman, Miss Jackie Spencer and nephew, Teddy Carroll; Mrs. Ellen Howard, Dr. and Mrs. Alan Forte; Dr. and Mrs. Trader and son, Herbert; Mr. and Mrs. Glen Dudley, Dr. and Mrs. Edward McDaniel Mr. and Mrs. Thomas McPherson, Mr. and Mrs. Roland Williams and Mr. and Mrs. Dave Wright.

'Another Club' is the name, and what would you expect them to call themselves when they do belong to so many. Well, they gathered on Sunday, quite by chance, and formed the group.

Members are Mr. and Mrs. Royal Weaver Hernione); Mr. and Mrs. Albert Hawkins Sr. (Barbara); Mr. and Mrs. Simon Carter(Kay;) Mr. and Mrs. A. Paul Moss (Bettye); Dr. and Mrs. Lonnie Greene (Seretha;) Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hillen (Gwen;) Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth O. Wilson (Jean) and Mrs. Frances Murphy.

Mrs. Myrtle Thompson was hostess to the Original Martiniques at Forest Manor, Saturday.

The business session was brief so that the group could get to the business of the day, a bountiful smorgasbord and dancing.

Members about were Hester Greenway, Ruth Paysour, Susie Moore, Irene Harris, Victorine Adams, Charlotte Johnson, Pearl Bonner, Mrs. Thompson, Alma Perry, Edna Wildon and Helen Tucker.

Guests were:

Messrs. and Mesdames Troy Lewis, M. Mansfield, Mack Bowyer, McCoy Goodman, Clarence Brown, Frank Thornington, Richard Tyler, Henry Patterson, Charles Lightfoot, Robert Bynum, James Bonner, Messrs. and Mesdames John Weatherford, Luther Jackson, Shirley Diggs, Theodore Johnson, William Jackson, James Phelps, Rudolph Rhodes, Willie Woe, Carl Mitchum; and Col. and Mrs. Arthur Hidgins and Dr. and Mrs. James Greene.

The Creoles, a Popular Social Club of Baltimore in their 23rd year, has embarked upon their 1971 Programs of Charities for Christmas.

Mrs. Willanna Valentine was hostess to the group recently at her home, where a pleasant evening was made exciting and rewarding, by our activity-in packaging gifts of jewelry, toiletries, candies and other Sundries for the inmates of Henryton State Hospital, Crownsville State Hospital and other Institutions in the City.

Some of these packages will be distributed monthly throughout the coming year so that the spirit of giving can last more than for one short season.

Mrs. Valentine is also a Red Cross volunteer, and has steered the club in selecting institutions whose inmates are really in need of having others interested in their plight.

Mrs. Coleman surprised on 62nd birthday

"Surprise!" was the greeting for Mrs. Florence Coleman as she walked into the hall of St. Peter Claver, Saturday evening, on her 62nd birthday.

Mrs. Coleman, who lives in the 1100 block of Woodyear St., was given a surprise birthday party by her family and friends.

Miss Loretta Coleman, daughter of the honoree, said Mrs. Coleman was told she was invited to a cabaret as a pretext for getting dressed in evening attire.

Mrs. Coleman was born to the late Mr. and Mrs. Thomas May in Lunenburg, Va. on Dec. 18, 1909.

Widow of the late Vanderbilt Coleman, she has four children, Mrs. Jennifer Paige, Misses Loretta and Betty Coleman; and Nathaniel Coleman.

Mrs. Coleman wore a long black and silver gown made of crepe and she was presented with a white orchid corsage. The Coleman family attends Providence Baptist Church.

Chatter and beauty at Adamses' Yule party

One of the gayest holiday parties was the one Mr. and Mrs. Willie Adams gave on Sunday afternoon at Club Casino.

Mrs. Adams, the city councilwoman from Baltimore's 4th District, received guests in an old rose crushed velvet two-piece with embroidered grosgrain gina Nutter, a Social Worker in the Day Care Program, was also given a donation by the Creoles to buy toys for the children at the Bond Street Day Care Center, to be distributed at their Christmas Party to be held on December 22, 1971.

The Creoles are:

Mesdames Regina Nutter, Pres; Romaine Taylor, Vice Pres., Willania Valentine, Rec. Sec., Margaret Austin, Fin. Sec., Margaret Durham, Treas.,

Mesdames Roseta Uncles, Bus. Mangr., Catherine Young, Elizabeth Phillips, Margaret Hawkins, Ada Armstead.

Mrs. Alease Jones an Honorary member, helped with the projects.

Mrs. Gloria Basfield and Mrs. Willia Bland were hostesses at a shower held (Saturday) at Mrs. Bland's West Mosher Street home, in honor of Mrs. Ceil Strickland.

Mrs. Strickland, formerly Mrs. Ceil Banton, is co-director of Flair Studio, local charm school. She became the bride of Mr. Leonard Strickland of Oakland, California during a four day trip to the West Coast in mid-November. The prospective bride flew to Oakland on November 24, after which the bridal couple drove to Reno, Nevada where they were married on November 26. Mr Strickland remains in Oakland, where Mrs. Strickland will join him in June 1972.

Offering best wishes at the shower were Mesdames Addie Buck, Beatrice Avery, Martha Holmes, Dorothy Tucker, Christine Ward Edna Canty, Beverly Foster, Ernestine Jones, Jean Freeman of Brentwood, Maryland, Dorothy Lindsey of Hyattsville, Maryland and Nell Boyton, Diane Brown of Columbia, Maryland. Also Misses Marjorie Joiner, Vicki Smith and Joyce Weaver, ribbon at the neck forming a standing collar. She wore a red carnation corsage, a gift from Mrs. Ethel Johnson and Mrs. Helen Handy, who were among those present.

Invitations bid guests join "Councilwoman Victorine Q. Adams and Little Willie" for cocktails from 5 to 8 p.m. By 7 p.m. a three-block area near the Pennsylvania Ave. Club was jammed with cars. Parking was at a premium.

City leaders, including new City Council President Walter Orlinsky and Mrs. Orlinsky, topped the guest list.

Like most parties where people who know each other will together, there was the usual small chatter and warm greetings.

Now and then, guests were overheard to discuss a political matter. Like the head of a large agency who whispered to one guest that he thought City Solicitor George L. Russell Jr., should be an attorney for his agency.

Mr. Russell and his wife, Marian, were among guests.

Talk of the party was the floor length black diamond mink worn by Mrs. Sherlock Gringe (Ivy). It attracted a number of admiring glances.

There was also much applause for the jumping music supplied by Al Brown and the Brown Combo.

Among other guests about were:

Messrs and Mesdames John Schaefer, Kenneth Webster, Raymond Haysbert, Walter Brown, Willie Durant, Gordon Chavis, Algernon Presridge, Abner Lee, Ernest Dennis, Charles O'Ferrell, "Beau" Kelly, Kenneth Bowman, William Neison, George Jude, Charles Tildon, John Joney, Elmer Carroll, Lewis Tate, Vasco Statacous, William C. Quille, Donald Patterson, William Ried and Edmund T. Yocum.

Dr. and Mrs. Roland N. Patterson, Lt. William Jones, Mesdames Ethel Rich, Mildred Boston, Marie Nealy, Ruth Paysour, Marion Toney, Eris McKenson, Myrtle Lyles, Rosebud Chisolm, Florence Ervin, Lynda W. Fisher, Mary Bailey, Bernice Hooker, Serena White, Blanche Rooks, Beatrice Pannell.

Also, Mesdames Marguerite Linton, Anna Mae Stokes, Shirley McDonald, Hortense Henry, Cora Hender ix, Dorothy Baker, Ruth Jackson, Nicky Randolph, Dorothy Wicker, Alma Perry, Myrtle Thompson, Julia Abrams, Virginia White, Helen Roy, Vera Le Cato, Geneva Griffin, Bernice Jackson, Beatrice Morgan, Ruby Anderson, Olitia Bullocke, and India Silva.

Misses Barbara Mikulski, Marion Selby and Gladys Barbour.

Messrs. Shirley Diggs, John Fitzpatrick, Clarence Blount, Isiah Dixon, Leo Welch, Harold Jennifer, Willie Wooten, Albert Maddox, Jerome Kelson, Samuel Stewart, James Bumbry, Wadell Bunn, Irving Conaway, Joseph Johnson, George Brown, George M. Piendak, Joseph C. Quille, Allen Quille, Ralph Ross, George Townes, Lou Kaufman Sr. and Lou Kaufman Jr., James Jeffry and John James.

Out-of-town guests included: Mrs. Douglas Poulson and Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Gaskins of D.C.; John Wilson of Philadelphia, and Mrs. Dorothy Martin, Havre de Grace.

Marriages

were:

Messrs. and Mesdames Leslie Coleman, Joseph Hicks, John May, Charles Paige, Avon Bannister, Harold Booker, Alonza Jeter, Lewis Hamlin, Charles James, Marion Reed, Arthur Hicks and Charles Chin.

Mesdames Sarah Fauntleroy, Edith Allen, Bernice Johnson, and Barbara Witherspoon, Bernard Cole, Dave Eay and David Hana.

Out-of-town guests were Messrs. and Mesdames Bert Valentine, New York City; Robert May, Washington.

H and W Club hosts Yule dinner dance

Guests came from New York, North Carolina, and the District of Columbia for the H and W Social Club's Christmas Dinner Dance at Holiday Inn West, Saturday evening.

The guests visited at tables hosted by the husbands and wives. They sipped through a long cocktail period, which they followed with dancing to soul music and dining.

The evening was stacked with fun and laughter, but the by-word seemed to have been "fashions."

The husbands and their wives were all doing their unisex thing.

Naomi Phipps ware a long gold gown with slits on the side, and gold shoes with laces around the leg. Frank wore a gold shirt with matching tie.

Rosetta Parker was dressed in a long white and red dress, with an opening in the front which revealed red hot pants. Henry wore a knit suit with a red and white shirt and matching tie.

Milton Credle was decked out in a dark suit with a red knit shirt, and red velvet bow tie, and among the group playing the part of a perfect hostess was his wife, Frennela, in a long white metallic knit skirt with a red blouse. Later in the evening, one was able to see the matching red hot pants, as the front zipper open up.

Elijah Royster (Jack) was wearing a purple shirt and tie that matched Deelear's long tapestry skirt worn with a purple crushed velvet blouse.

Naomi Cunningham (Peggy) was a beautiful sight to see in her white skirt with red and white metallic trim that reminded you of red and white balls on a Christmas tree, and of course red hot pants, and Eddie had on a matching shirt and tie.

Lindbergh Parker was striking in a knit suit with boots, and the red velvet bow tie, with red knit shirt. Beulah was wearing a red and white long dress, with a zipper front that slowly opened up to show her red hot pants.

The guests were just as fashionable. There was Margaret Allen of Washington in a long sleek black gown with a white ruffled collar. Jean Hill of Brooklyn, N.Y. was chic in a gold gown with matching accessories.

Alice Thomas of Bronx, N.Y. chose a red crushed velvet gown with plunging neckline.

And there was Mrs. Alice Gibson moving around looking very glamorous in a black and gold gown.

Cardrienne Griffin selected a geometric print skirt.

Doris Parker of Kinston, N.C., was a striking beauty in her long plaid skirt with a white lace blouse. She wore a gold chain necklace and fascinating gold earrings with it.

Minnie Gardner wore red crushed velvet hot pants suit, with white boots.

And there was Blanche Powell in Christmas green street-length dress, with matching accessories.

Mozelle Fisher was charming in white and silver gown with matching hot pants and accessories.

Christine Irby wore a white floral jump suit.

Milton Credle heads the group, Deelear Royster, secretary, Lindbergh Parker treasurer. Heading the committee for the Christmas Party was Frenzela Credle, and her committee members were Naomi Phipps, Deelear Royster, and Eddie Cunningham.

Guests at the Christmas dinner dance were:

Messrs. and Mesdames Charles Wells Jr., Everte Batte, Mark Powell, Augusta Scott, Ernest Irby, Willie Gibson, James Griffin, Charles Fisher, and Carlton Douglas and Mrs. Sykes.

Out-of-town guests included:

Messrs. and Mesdames Lawrence Allen, Ronald Taylor and Miss Ruth Banks of Washington, D.C.;

Messrs. and Mesdames Harold Holloman of Crisfield, Md.; Theodore Garner of Hyattsville; Peter Brewin of Landover; Leroy Lindsay of Linthicum Hts.; Jerry Anderson of Oxon Hill, Md.; Nehemiah Parker of Kinston, N.C.; French Hill of Brooklyn, N.Y., and Mrs. Alice Thomas of Bronx, N.Y.

Registration for sheiks Dec. 31

All Sheiks and Sheikesses in the State of Maryland are expected to turn in their cards for new registration on or before December 31 at the Moorish Science Temple of America, Inc., located at 762 W. Baltimore St.

A release issued by the church said the proclamation of prophet Noble Drew Ali has been invoked making it an offence to indulge in past practices.

It states all Sheiks and Sheikesses in the state who fail to turn in their cards for new registration will be picked up by the security force as directed by the National Grand Mufti, Bro. W. Porter-El, on behalf of the Divine Law of the Moorish Constitution, Act. 3.

All cards without the address of the Grand Major Temple on them, will become null and void upon the issuance date of the new Sheik cards with the Grand Major Temple address affixed on them.

Registration will depend on past works, according to the release.
