Hopkins plans confidential survey

Forty undergraduate students at The Johns Hopkins University will conduct a survey of young people in the Baltimore metropolitan area during January and February.

The students, working with the University's Department of Psychology, will contact in person approximately 500 selected youths between the ages of 15 and 24.

The young people will be requested to fill out a confidential questionnaire concerning their views on local problems and national affairs and the extent of their involvement in the political process.

The questionnaire was prepared by a group of Johns Hopkins students during the fall semester.

All interviewers will carry Johns Hopkins identification and a letter explaining the nature and purpose of the survey. Results of the survey will be made public.

The students will begin the survey during the University's three-week intersession in January. Project coordinator is F. Albert Sickle, of the Psychology department.

Bikeways committee meets

The Maryland Commission on Physical Fitness states that in response to public demand and an expression of interest by the city administration, a committee is now being formed to plan a system of bikeways in Baltimore City.

An organizational meeting will be held on Monday, Jan. 17 at 8 p.m. at the Grace Methodist Church located on the corner of Charles Street and Northern Parkway.

This committee will be composed of volunteers — interested private citizens, representatives of government and private agencies involved in the planning of Baltimore, recreational, ecological and civic leaders — people who will take action.

The speaker will be Robert Cleckner of the Bicycle Institute of America.

He will discuss such practical matters as legislation, construction costs and specifications and functional evaluation for bicycle paths.

He will describe how similar communities have been set up in other cities and the success they have had.

The Commission feels convinced that the popularity of bicycling will continue to grow, and that safe and convenient bicycle paths will encourage bicycling for recreation, fitness and as a means of pollution-free urban travel.
