State GOP names Pollock to seek minority members

By MARION LAWS

KINSTON, NC. — Donald D. Pollock, a local attorney, has been nominated as minority affairs leader for the State Republican Party. He was selected by a caucus of black Republicans during a meeting in Greensboro.

His name has been submitted to the chairman of the state party, Frank Rouse of Kinston. In compliance with the chairman's request at a recent state convention. One of Pollock's duties, if he is approved, would be to attract more blacks to the GOP.

The Eastern Pride Lodge, Benevolent Protective Order of Elks, entertained 120 underprivileged children at its annual Christmas party.

The party was held at the Elks' lodge on 626 E. Kenoir Ave. The children were recommended by Mrs. Martha D. Bouinet, director of the county's Department of Social Sciences.

Those offering help during the party weere Mrs. Joshua Wooten of the city's Reereation Department; Miss Linda Burney, a sophomore at Fayeeteville State University and Miss Wanda Cabb a freshman at Bennett College.

During the holidays, the Elks also held their annual Jaycee Children's Christmas party. Assisting were Bruce I. Howell, Dawling Byrd and John Harris, who reported that 93 children attended the affair.

Two members of the Eastern Pride Lodge, Lloyd Thomas, who had maintained active membership for 50 years, and Roland Fields, the only active surviving charter member of the lodge were honored, recently at a banquet.

Thomas, who resides in Kinston, was born in Briston, Va., in 1891 and joined the Patrick Henry Lodge No. 390 in Martinsville in 1921. He first affiliated with Lodge in Charlotte and 20 years ago, he was connected to Eastern Pride. He received a plaque for 50 consecutive years of devotion and service to the order.

Fields became a charter member of Eastern Pride Lodge in August 1944. He is a member of the Past Exalted Ruler Council and serves on the lodge's House Committee. He was recognized for his devoted activities.

The music division at Kinston High School's Park Avenue campus, presented a band concert during Christmas. The 80-voice choir was under the direction of Mrs. Wynona E. Rhene. The senior choir was directed by Clifton T. Epps.

The Savannah Junior High School's PTA met recently in the school gymnatorium. After a brief business session, a Christmas program was presented by the Music Department.

The Southeast School PTA held its Christmas program in the cafeteria.

Strawbridge opening center for retarded

The Strawbridge United Methodist Church will open its doors on January 20, to house one of the only inner city Day Care Centers for mentally retarded children.

The church, located at 201 Wilson St. in Bolton Hill, providing the "seed" money for the center will also make use of funds provided by the State Department of Mental Retardation.

In addition, the church will assume responsibility for "in kind" services—the room, materials and janitorial service.

Establishment of the day-care center was part of the Methodist Board of Missions' plan to develop Strawbridge as a "target" program so that at least nine other inner city churches in Baltimore and Washington might similarly follow to further this new approach to Church mission.

Aim of the program is to provide a service for mentally retarded children and their parents, not just custodial care, but a situation where the children can learn to interact with one another, learn social skills, and with the use of close one-to-one supervision provide a milieu which will try to program them up to their highest potential.

The program is modeled after the behavior modification and language development program of the Division of Psychology, John F. Kennedy Institute, with the assistance of Dr. Phillip Drash, Director of the department.

Michael Nusome, a graduate of the New Careers Program, who trained for one year at the Kennedy, will act as the program's full-time staff member along with Miss Robin Buchanan, psychology consultant.

The program's direction is under Miss Karin Lapidus, MSW, who will also plan and supervise the additional adolescent and golden age programs which are also to be part of the target program.

The Rev. Mervin Gray is Pastor of Strawbridge.

The Day Care Center wi ll start with fifteen children between the ages of 2½ to 5. They must have a recent psychometric testing from any city evaluation center, and no severe physical hangicaps.

For further information about the program please call 663-0544 from 10:00 a.m. to 2:00 p.m. daily.

Carolina gets aid for poor, unemployed

WASHINGTON — South Carolina has been awarded $601,888 in federal grants all aimed in helping low income families and the unemployed.

A $247,734 grant was approved by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare for the Wateree Community Action Head Start Program.

The funds will provide pre school training for 210 children of low income families in Sumter and Kershaw Counties for a period of 12 months.

The Office of Economic Opportunity approved grants for three projects in the state, the largest of which was $220,648 grant for the Dillon-Marion Community Action, Inc., two neighborhood centers and programs to combat unemployment and malnutrition.

The Horry-Georgetown Opportunity Council Inc. also received a $113,506 OEO grant to provide special services for some 15,000 low income residents in those two counties.

The funds will provide for administration, six neighborhood centers and programs to meet problems of unemployment and malnutrition.

OEO also approved a $30,000 grant for a program of alcoholic recovery and counseling in Chesterfield and Marlboro Counties.

D-S.C. announced approval Sen. Ernest F. Hollings, of the funds.

Gospel Season Blossoms With Awards Ceremony

DELIGHTED—The Rev. T. C. Jackson, pastor of Gillis Memorial Church, is elated over the highly successful event.

WINNING TEAM—Roland "Joe" Smith, best male soloist, presents his mother, Mrs. Hazel Smith, with a special award.

Best singers, groups chosen; awards given

The Community Ensemble of Gillis Memorial Church presented their Second Awards Program, Sunday, Jan. 9.

Gillis Memorial Church was overflowing with gospel music advocates and gospel singers from all over.

This program is designed to show appreciation to Baltimore's gospel singers. The idea was originally conceived by Billy Durham, Business Manager of the Community Ensemble.

The winners chosen by popular votes, were: Mrs. Katie Jackson, female soloist; Roland "Joe" Smith, male soloist; The Green Sisters, female group; the Gospel Leaders, male group; the Young Harmoneers, mixed group; and Gospel Leaders, male group; The Young Harmoneers, mixed group; and Baltimore Fellowship Choir, Best choirs.

Miss Gloria Thompson and William Sydnar, were the best organists; Mrs. Sylvia Person and Howard "Stubby" Smith, Jr., best pianists.

Mrs. Pauline Wells Lewis and Minister Pompeii Swan were mistress and master of ceremony of the year.

The Jimmy Smith Singers, The Majestic Ensemble and The Mar-Vans Singers were the most cooperative, most uniformed and most promising organizations, respectively.

Special awards were presented to the Rev. T. C. Jackson, Jr., pastor of the church, and to Roland "Joe" Smith, the choir's organist and director. Mrs. Esther Melcher, Mrs. Bernice Collins and Mrs. Hazel Smith also received special awards.

Other special presentations were made to Miss Gloria Little, the choir's secretary. Without her help this great program could not have been possible.

Also Linwood Heath, a well known radio and TV personality, gospel publisher and promoter of Philadelphia, was cited. Hearth assists the choirs in all of their endeavors.

The Community Ensemble under the direction of Roland "Joe" Smith was formed over two years ago. They have progressed to be one of Baltimore's most active church choirs.

In the words of Billy Durham, "Baltimore is blessed with many great talents as far as gospel music is concerned. It's time we show some appreciation to our own before we lose them to other things.

"We say we love gospel music, so let's support it and keep it going. That's what gospel awards is all about. We want to make our Baltimore groups and singers feel just as great as any other. The vast array of talent displayed at the program testifies to the fact that they are just as great.

"The trophies presented are not prizes to winners. They are tokens of encouragement. It lets our singers know that, all through the year, someone is watching them.

"The awards presented is a result of how you've impressed the public. We don't choose the recipient, the public does."

GREEN SISTERS, featured last week in the AFRO, were named the best female group. Shown here are Miss Edna Isaac., Miss Joyce Butler and Miss Evelyn McLaughton. (All photoes on this page by J. D. Howard).

BEST MALE GROUP—The Gospel Leaders were chosen the best male group. They are (L to R) Benjamin Butler, Oscar Minnitt, Norman Dudley and Thomas Roberts.

SPECIAL RECOGNITION — Project originator, Billy Durham, gives special thanks to Miss Gloria Little for helping him make the awards ceremony possible.

AREA'S BEST—Receiving honors were (L to R) Mrs. Sylia Persons, female pianist of the year; Howard "Stubby" Smith, Jr., best male pianist; Tyrone Cooper of the Majestic Ensemble, the most unified organization; Director James Peterson of the Baltimore Fellowship Choir, choir of the year; Manager Ronald Huff of the Young Harmoneers, best mixed group; and the Rev. Pompeii Swan, best master of ceremonies.

$1.5-million housing project dedicated by Bethel Church

NEW YORK — Praising the joint venture of two city banks and Bethel AME Church is constructing a $1,500,000 housing development on West 132nd Street. Presiding Bishop John D. Bright of the First District of the African Methodist Episcopal Church, siad that more such mergers were needed to help relieve he "terrible shortage of living space in the Harlem area."

Bethel Manor, will have 47 apartments ranging from one to three bedrooms and is being built at 52 West 132 St., next door to the church.

At the recent dedication, Bishop Bright headed a list of distinguished religious, civic, political and banking figures who were instrumental in helping launch an idea first conceived seven years ago.

The Rev. Henderson B. Hughes, a pastor of the church, acted as master of ceremonies in a brief program in the sanctuary of the 152-year old church.

Also making remarks were Mrs. Virginia Bell, who represented Congressman Charles Rangel; State Senator Sidney Von Luther. Assemblyman Mark Southall, Civil Court Judge Howard Bell; William P. Schweickert, senior vice president, The New York Bank For Savings and Pazel G. Jackson, Jr., Assistant Vice President, The Bowery Savings Bank.

These were the two institutions that financed the $1.5 million project. Ironically, the church and the New York Bank For Savings. New York State's first savings bank, both began in 1819.

As the conclusion of the program, Rev. Richard A. Hildebrand, pastor of Bridge Street A.M.E. Church in Brooklyn, delivered the benediction.

It was while he was pastor of Bethel that the idea was born to construct much needed housing in the area surrounding the church.

Conducting guests on a tour of the rising development, Rev. Hughes told them that construction will be completed in September, 1972.

He indicated that this is the first in a number of apartment houses the church hopes to erect in the next several years.

Revolutions predicted for Africa

DETROIT — African nations which are ruled by white minorities are "highly flammable" and would very well experience revolts by blacks in the coming decade, according to Rep. Charles Diggs Jr., D-Mich.

"I see that possibility very well," Diggs said when questioned during a recent television interview abiut the possibility of black revolution in Africa.

"Countries like Rhodesia, where 4,750,000 blacks are controlled by 250,000 whites are highly flammable, and all it would take is one outbreak to put a 'domino' type reaction into motion," Diggs said.

Of South Africa, the black Congressman said, "In a country where 13 million of the 21 million inhabitants are black, it is incredible that the majority of the population has no political or voting rights, are not paid equally for equal stressing sheet music

MEMPHIS — The Stax organization is currently expanding its interest in the production of sheet music.

"In the past two months, Stax's publishing divisions have dramatically stepped up the production of printed music through its licensees, Hansen Publications (East/Memphis Music Corp. and Birdees Music Corp.) and Screen Gems Publications (Deerwood Music Corp.)," reports Stax's Publishing Administrator, Tim Whitsett.

work, are faced with jobs and must obtain passes to move from one area to another.

"No other dictatorship is based on racial repression," Diggs said, adding that he considered the South African regime "the worst of its kind in the world."

Diggs said it was hypocritical for U.S. foreign policy to condemn the Russian and Cuban dictatorships while supporting similar types of government in Portugal, Spain and parts of African.

Ohioans to honor Oklahoma star

COLUMBUS, Ohio — Oklahoma running back Greg Pruitt has been named to receive an "award of distinction" from the Touchdown Club of Columbus at its awards banquet Jan. 28.

Although just a junior, Pruitt was third in voting for the Heisman Trophy. He averaged 9.4 yards per carry last season.
