Four generations attend D. Arnett Murphy funeral

Four generations of the family attended the Saturday afternoon funeral services for David Arnett Murphy.

Mr. Murphy, 79, son of AFRO founder, John H. Murphy, Sr., died Tuesday, January 11 after being ill for a year.

Funeral services were held at Grace United Presbyterian Church.

In his eulogy, the minister, the Rev. William T. Peters, Jr., praised Mr. Murphy for his devotion to work, family and church.

He recalled he was one of the pioneers in helping to locate Grace at its new Bannister Rd. site which was occupied last year.

"On Feb. 7, 1971, when we broke ground here in the rain and sleet, he was here . he had a great love for his church and his God, and he was out front leading the way."

The Rev. N B. Carrington, retired Methodist minister and one time AFRO pressman, recalled his long association with the deceased and remembered his devotion to duty and his concern for fellow employees.

"I never knew the time Mr. Arnett left the press room until the last makeover was on," he said.

Mr. Murphy, known as "D.A." or Mr. Arnett" to distinguish him from his brothers who helped run the company, spent 66 years as an employee, director and officer of the AFRO.

In 1944, Mr. Murphy organized Associated Publisher, Inc., a national advertising agency which today represents the AFRO and 35 other weekly newspapers in the U.S. He retired as AFRO advertising director in 1963. He, however, remained a member of the board of directors until his death. He was also a voting trustee of the company.

Relatives present at the rites included his 91-year-old brother, John H. Murphy, Jr., only living incorporator of the AFRO-American Co. and sole survivor of the 11 children born to John H. Murphy, Sr. and Mrs. Martha Elizabeth Howard Murphy.

The four generations present included the widow, Mrs. Sadie Clark Murphy; their daughters, Mrs. Mae E. Dyson and Mrs. Arnetta Lottier and their husbands. Walter E. Dyson and George Lottier, Sr.; their children, Mrs. Virginia M. Prettyman, Mrs. June M. Powell, George Arnett Lottier, and great-grandchildren, Virginia and John Love, Ronea and Roland Powell, Christopher Lottier and Michael Prettyman.

Music for the hour-long rites was by the church choir.

A 20-car motorcade, with police escort, made the trip to Arbutus Memorial Park. The procession was routed to pass the AFRO office at Eutaw and Druid Hill Ave.

Installation Saturday for Bishop Leighton

The Rt. Rev. David K. Leighton, Sr., will be installed as the eleventh bishop of the Diocese of Maryland of the Episcopal Church on Saturday, 10 a.m. at the Interfaith Center in Columbia.

"Celebration 72," as the installation is being called, will have the theme of a medieval festival. About 18 young people have been selected to act as strolling minstrels, clowns and court attendants along with several professional clowns during the day's observance.

Parishes throughout the Dioceses are making banners expressing what the installation means to them. The medieval theme of th festival has been developed by a committe, appointed by Bishop Leighton, and headed by the Rev. Donald O. Wiseman, rector of the Church of the Messiah.

Members of the committee are the Reverend's Roger P. Butts, Robert Bolt, Nowill H. Cochrane, Lance A. Gifford, Donald Gross, William B. Lane and C. Waite Maclin.

INSTALLATION SERVICES — The Rt. Rev. David K. Leighton Sr., will be installed as the eleventh bishop of the Diocese of Maryland of the Episcopal Church on Saturday at the Interfaith Center in Columbia.

U. of Baltimore offers varied courses 2nd term

The School of Business of the University of Baltimore will offer a course in Automobile Insurance in the Evening Division, beginning Feb. 3, 1972.

This program is designed to qualify persons for the Maryland State Insurance Department Automobile Insurance Examination to license agents and brokers.

It will cover all facets of automobile insurance, including insurance and insurance law, bodily injury liability, property liability and physical damage.

* * *

Among the topics to be treated are: Rules and Rates, Loss Prevention and Accidents, Subrogation, Duties of Agents and Adjusters, the Unsatisfied Claim and Judgement Fund, and the Automobile Assigned Risk Plan.

The class is scheduled to meet on Thursday evenings from 7:30 to 10:00 p.m., and will carry three credits.

Applicants should contact the Admissions Office, 1420 North Charles Street, Baltimore, Maryland, 21201, telephone: 727-6350, Extension 235.

School of Business is also offering a three-credit course for qualification as a Real Estate Broker.

* * *

This course will enable applicants for licensure as Real Estate Broker to comply with Regulation 22 of the Real Estate Commission of Maryland, which becomes effective February 2, 1972.

The new educational regulation requires the completion of six credit hours at a degree-granting institution.

The topics to be covered in the course are: Transfer Instruments, such as deeds, leases, contracts of sale, and assignments; Settlements, including the Mathematics of Real Estate Transactions; the Role of the Real Estate Agent, including Principles of Agency and Licensing Law, and Ethics;

* * *

Also Real Estate Development, including Governmental Assistance Programs, Zoning, and other governmental restrictions on land development, and the Mortgaging Process: Real Estate Appraisal, and Real Estate Management.

The class will meet every Wednesday evening from 7:30 to 10:00 p.m. for 15 consecutive weeks. The first meeting will be held on Wednesday, February 9, 1972 in Room 207, New Academic Center. Application should be made to the Admissions Office, 1420 North Charles Street, Baltimore, Maryland, 21201, telephone 727-6350, Extension 235.

Edmondson High plans new educationprogram

Students and faculty of Edmondson High School will be involved in an innovative educational program Scheduled for Jan. 24 to 26, beginning at 1 p.m.

The program, entitled "Explorations in Learning," is designed to offer the students an opportunity to participate in a variety of learning experiences which, in most instances, are not available as a part of the regular school program.

The more than 30 "mini-courses" which have been developed and prepared by students and teachers, include knitting, French cuisine, comparative religions; East to West; Psychology: the father image; hiking, modern dance techniques, astrology, and history of black music.

Students and teachers will be furnished a directory of the course offerings and will be given an opportunity to register before the program gets underway.

The planners of the program hope that "Explorations in Learning" will become an annual activity at the school.

Violetville school gets new recreation center

A. L. Coltrill, superintendent for the Baltimore City Bureau of Recreation, has announced that the new Violetville Recreation Center, an addition to the Violetville Elementary School at Granley Street and Greenvale Road, will officially open this spring at a cost of $140,300.

The funds were made available through a Maryland State grant from the Open Space Program.

The one-story structure was designed to be compatible with the existing stone school building.

The 3,500 sq. ft. large multi-purpose room, office space, food serving area, storage and rest rooms were planned after a number of meetings with many community organizations of the Violetville Area.

The focal point at the main entrance to the new wing is an abstract mural of a free form tree which was designed by Baltimore artist Betty Wells.

Douglas Brady is the director of the Violetville Recreation Center.

Ambulance corps chief appointed at Provident

Provident Hospital has named Col. Arthur Hudgins as director of Ambulatory Care Services. He was appointed on recommendations from the Ad Hoc Committee on aambulatory care, the chief of the Department of Family Practice and the director of Medical Affairs.

Slain woman unidentified

PHILADELPHIA — Homicide detectives are trying to establish the identity of a young woman, whose badly beaten body, was found in a vacant house Saturday morning by a work crew of the Philadelphia Housing Authority.

Lt. James O'Neill said the girl, about 20, had been dead for "a couple of days."

The body was found stuffed behind a water heater in the basement of the house at 875 N. Opal St., in North Philadelphia. She was nude and a sofa cushion was over her head.

Lt. O'Neill said William Rosenberg, a supervisor of the authority, found the body when he went to the basement to turn off the gas as his crew was sealing and boarding up the vacant house.

Minimum wage asked for summer aides

Senator Clarence W. Blount (Balto. City, 5th) has prepared legislation to exempt non-administrative personnel of organized summer camps from the state minimum wage and hour law.

"Counselors and other personnel at summer camps are frequently required to be on the job day and night in order to supervise overnight campers," said Senator Blount. "Under the present law they would have to be paid minimum wage twenty-four hours a day," he said.

Literal interpretation of the present law could force most, if not all, organized summer camps to close because of prohibitive labor costs.

"Furthermore, many of those recruited for summer overnight or day camps want to help children. They seek only temporary summer employment, and are themselves gaining leadership experience," explained Senator Blount.

Current Maryland law already exempts those employed in agriculture, domestic service, executives and administrators, those employed by non-profit organizations, part-time senior citizen employees, employees of canning and freezing plants, theatres, small restaurants, and members of the proprieters family.

"This is another instance where the nature of the work clearly justifies an exemption, as I see it," said Senator Blount.

Camping provides opportunity for a healthy living experience and development of skills and leadership ability for many young people according to Senator Blount.

"It would be a shame to reduce these opportunities for our youth because the state failed to recognize the special conditions involved," said Senator Blount.

If a cranberry sauce stain or any other spot is found on a crepe garment, leave the removal job to the local dry cleaner. A crepe can be damaged just by rubbing. The pressure flattens the yarns, causing light spots due to the difference in light reflections.
