No costly sidelines. Crown stations far outsell most major gasoline brands by volume. We pass the savings on to you.

Crown's new idea is simple

And at better prices. Our volume is higher so our overhead is lower. This saves us money. Saves you money. Now we're in Baltimore to offer you the same exciting value.

We're high volume gasoline specialists

Gadabouting in Baltimore

All Saints Church ritual for Miss Jones, W. Harry Newton

with Lula Mackay

Back from a New York honeymoon and ensconsed in their Chatham Road home, this week, were the newlywed W. Harry Newtons. Mrs. Newton is the former Miss Laura Jones, who, until recently, was teacher of physical education in Douglass High School, here. Mr. Newton is a customs inspector.

The couple was married Saturday before last, in All Saints Catholic Church, where he worships, with the Rev. Fr. Thomas Tewes of that parish, and her priest, the Rev. Fr. Donald O. Wilson of Saint James' Episcopal Church, officiating.

The bride wore white wool dress trimmed with rhinestones, a turban enhanced with pearls and matching accessories. Her corsage was an orchid. She was attended by her sister, Mrs. Howard Hucles, who wore gold wool, matching accessories and an orchid corsage. James Thompson was best man.

Only members of the immediate families witnessed the ceremony.

Later, there was a reception, and the traditional champagne toasts to the couple, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Hucles. Then off to the Americana in New York City, for the Newtons.

At the same time the Newton-Jones wedding was taking place, Baltimore Girl Friends (and Mrs. Newton is one) were also tipping champagne glasses at the lush party hosted by Margaret Driver at her Cold Spring Lane home. The nuptial news was known to practically every soul present, but to show with what ultra sophistication the G.F.'s maintain out the afternoon' with games and gifts.

Guests spread throughout the "igloo" as Dr. Herbert Prisby dubbs his Bateman Avenue place, for the intimate and delightful little party he gave for two charming Alaskans, Saturday evening.

The honorees were Dr. Ron Tinsley, nose, throat and ear specialist, who is doing some studies in Baltimore hospitals, and Mrs. Tinsley of Ketchikan, Alaska.

If guests were not in the club room, filled to the hilt with artifacts from Dr. Frisby's polar sojourns, or the den, where he had placed literature on Alaska, they were in the living room, where a lively conversation was going on between them, Dr. Tinsley, or the Rev. Walter Richards of Liberia, Africa, another foreign guest.

The Rev. Mr. Richards was speaker at the Madison Avenue Presbyterian Church, Sunday morning.

Sure stop-off, in any case was the dining room, where a laden board was in evidence.

At the party were:

Messrs. and Mesdames Thurman Smith, H. Russell Frisby, Andrew Prettyman, Ralph Dix; Mesdames Ruth Gray, Marguerite Campbell, Vivian H. Green, Elizabeth Day, Lorine Strange, Lula Mackay, Irene Dodson, L. Livingston; the Rev. Reginald Daniels; John Shearn, Misses Ruth Russell and Charlotte Brent, and Drs. and Mesdames Douglas Carper and Thomas C. Jones.

The Women's Auxiliary to the Maryland Dental Society cited Mrs. Bernard (Jeanette) Christmas and Mrs. Charles Watts for exceptional service to the group when they held their first recognition dinner at Oyster Bay, Saturday evening.

Mrs. Christmas has served as treasurer of the Auxiliary for 30 years; and Mrs. Watts as chaplain for 20 years. They gave the former a beautiful butterfly pin and to Mrs. Watts went pearl earrings and necklace.

Mrs. Verna Day of the Arena Players provided skits for entertainment.

The evening was shared by Drs. and Mesdames Curtis Adams, William Davis, Eugene Byrd, B. E. Drayton, Harvey Webb, their cool, not a one mentioned the event. 'Twas the best kept secret that was no secret among a bunch of women. Only out was Thad Wilson, Baltimore chapter president . . . and then because her husband was officiating, and she went with him. But that's the Girl Friends for you. They are "with you" . . . not what they think or want to think, but what constitutes loyalty to each other . . . even to not tal-
