Cadet Scott explains

Darryl A. Scott, a cadet at the U.S. Air Force Academy in Colorado has ended a two-week tour of Baltimore and other cities to explain the academy's career, educational opportunities and to give details on how to apply.

He also visited Washington and Richmond and addressed civic and professional and social groups and students. His tour included TV appearances to explain the academy's "grassroots" cadet recruiting program.

While in Baltimore the 19-year-old cadet spoke to students in nine high schools. He was accompanied on his visits by Sgt. Rudy Hightower of the Baltimore U.S. Air Force.

Summing up the results of his tour, Cadet Scott told the AFRO, "The program has been received enthusiastically by all the students to whom I have spoken. They seem amazed at the opportunities in the Air Force that are unknown to them.

"I hope the objective of this tour has been achieved and from now on many black youths will be interested in the Air Force."

* * *

One beneficial and interesting aspect of the training, he told the AFRO, is that he majoring in history while at the academy.

Upon graduation from the four-year school, he will receive a bachelor of science degree and a commission in the U.S. Air Force.

Commenting on the tour, Sgt. Hightower expressed his appreciation for the program and stated of the 4,000 cadets in the academy only 75 are black citizens.

Born in Washington, Cadet Scott is a 1970 graduate of Calvin Coolidge.

He runs the track and he is a rifle expert.

Cadet Scott is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul W. Scott, 1300 block Underwood St., NW, Washington

Free vision, hearing screening for 3-year-olds

A vision and hearing screening program for 3 year-old children will be offered without charge on Thursday April 13th at the United Church of Christ in Union Mills.

The program is sponsored by the Silver Run-Union Mills Lions Club and is under the supervision of the Maryland Society for the Prevention of Blindness.

The program has the endorsement of the Medical and Chirurgical Faculty of the State of Maryland (State Medical Society) and the Carroll County Medical Society.

Parents should arrange a screening time for their preschoolers by calling 346-7866.

Materials will be sent to parents to teach their children the vision screening game, "Show and Tell Which Way the Fingers Point," and the hearing game, "Point to the Picture," in advance of the test date.

Lazy eye blindness which threatens the sight of many preschool children and certain ear defects are principal concerns of the program.

Bill to end club tax exemptions

For the second year, Senator Verda Welcome is sponsoring legislation which would end the practice of granting tax exemptions to private organizations which discriminate.

In permitting special preferences in the form of tax breaks to organizations which discriminate on the basis of race, color, or creed, the State puts itself in the position of fostering discriminatory practices which is clearly in violation of the equal protection clause of the U.S. Constitution.

Opposition is coming from a surprising source, Catholic and Jewish legislators usually supporting anti-discrimination measures, who now attempt to amend the bill lest it will end tax exemptions for churches.

The question is whether the State can condone preferential treatment to private clubs which do discriminate, thereby involving the state, itself, in encouraging discrimination.

Businessmen meet on April 12

Stewart W. Smith, Community Relations Officer of the Mass Transit Administration, will be the keynote speaker at the April 12th General Meeting of the Businessmen's League of Baltimore, Inc. at the Mondawmin Shopping Center's meeting room, starting at 8 p.m.

Mr. Smith will speak on the future Mass Transit System scheduled to be completed in Baltimore City the latter part of this decade.

The Businessmen's League of Baltimore, Incorporated is composed of businessmen with a deep interest in developing the City's economy.

The League is an affiliate of the National Business League and was conceived as early as 1959 when a group of local businessmen decided that united efforts were needed to offset common problems of finance and management which seem especially peculiar to the success of their businesses.
