on the telephone.

The state maintained Mr. Conway had returned from receiving a morning visitor at the jail when the assault occurred.

Mr. Conway was convicted in January 1971 in the death of Patrolman Donald Sager, attempted murder, of Officer Stanley Sierakowski and shooting at Patrolman Roger Nolan.

Evidence during the 1971 jury trial showed Patrolman Sager was fatally shot as he sat with Officer Sierakowski making out reports in a radio car parked in the 1200 block Myrtle Ave. on April 24, 1970.

Prosecuting Attorney Peter Ward told the jury that Mr. Conway was guilty of assaulting Officer Sierakowski who was shot five times, in the stomach and once in the hand.

Mr. Conway refused to sit in on the "ambush-slaying trial" after Criminal Court Judge Charles D. Harris, denied his request to fire the court appointed attorney, James McAllister.

During the two-day trial, which began here Monday, Mr. Conway remained at the trial table with defense attorney, Harold Buchman.

According to Mr. Richman, the sentence for an assault conviction is not limited by law and may theoretically be imposed up to a 9-year jail term.

However, he stated, "it has been proven that sentences up to 20 years for common assault have not been shown to be cruel and unusual punishment."

Judge Thomas withheld imposition of sentence for the assault conviction.

facilities to operate on a much larger scale.

There are three full time employees, a cook, maintenanceman and a maid. Mrs. Hunter does not receive any type of personal compensation for her efforts in the 15-year-old establishment.

The campaign was kicked off this year with former director Philip Brown, now a D.C. businessman, giving $200.

This week Mr. Brown also gave the Home at $9.784 twelve passenger air-conditioned bus equipped with wheelchair platform, special invalid equipment and a powder room.

He was one of the first to respond to the AFRO's call for help for the blind over 10 years ago. Since that time he has been working hand-in-hand with Mrs. Hunter and the Foundation.

Following Mr. Brown's monetary contribution, Goldseker Realty, Co. gave $200, and donations have been coming in ever since.

Those wishing to make contributions, should send them directly to the Home. All donations are tax deductible.

Herewith follows a complete list of contributors.

$200, Philip C. Brown and Goldseker Realty.

Commissioner Solter asked the guidelines be revised to include sex, marital status and age before the new law is effective, July 1.

LEGISLATIVE FAILURE

At the meeting's start, Mr. Solter expressed his annoyance of the General Assembly passing Senate Bill 397 with only one provision intact.

The passed provision will permit 3-commissioner hearing tribunals to hear cases "where the alleged act of discrimination took place. If the tribunal decision is not unanimous, the aggreieved party may petition remaining commissioners for a case review.

Commissioner Solter said the Legislature blocked sections on appeal procedures to Circuit Court, daily pay to Commissions (except the chairman), . . . confidential . . . conversing with state agencies.

Asked by Commissioner Frank Raley if the Legislature was showing its displeasure with the Commission, Mr. Solter said he knows of no basis for such speculation.

Commissioner Samuel Green told the AFRO the Senate cut out a provision to give the Commission rule making authority, with its decisions reviewable by the courts.

He said, "The Legislature again showed its reactionary position to the area of human rights. They don't give a damn about minority people."

portation Union has endorsed you for re-election from the Seventh Congressional District of Maryland in the Primary Election on May 16.

"Our membership in your district has been appraised of our action in your behalf. We wish you victory on May 16."

A statement from the United Auto Workers reads:

"The Maryland United Auto Workers Wednesday night endorsed Rep. Parren Mitchell's re-election into the Congress.

"The union's Community Action Program Council, the political arm of the state's approximately 18,000 United Auto Workers members, announced their unanimous support and pledged vigorous efforts."

The Northwest Civic Forum, a black business, professional and trades group, also endorsed Congressman Mitchell and the candidacy of Archie Williams for election to the Supreme Bench of Baltimore City.

In a statement made this morning Fred Punch, president of Local 1199-E of the AFL-CIO said:

"The 6,000 hospital and nursing home workers, including nurses, technicians, orderlies, aides, and housekeepers, who are members of Local 1199-E of the AFL-CIO, have overwhelmingly endorsed Congressman Parren J. Mitchell for re-election.

"Included with the endorsement was the consensus that Mr. Mitchell was the most valuable representative in the House for the Labor Movement in 1971."

7, soon will be given hearings by the State Secretary of Personnel.

Commission Executive Director Treadwell Phillips suspended Del. Boswell and Mr. Barnes for allegedly abusing their telephone privileges.

Secretary of Personnel office told the AFRO that staff member Barry Henderson will hear probably on April 22, Mr. Barnes' appeal to lift his suspension.

Del. Boswell's hearing is scheduled before Edward Tilden on April 25, at 9:30 in Room 901-E of the State Office Building on Preston St.

Both hearings are public hearings and sworn testimony will be taken.

Del. Boswell was in Annapolis for the General Assembly session at the time of her suspension. She is chief of local liaisons, giving technical aid to the 19 local human relations commissions in the state.

Kiser Barnes is head of the Community Relations Division. Mr. Phillips announced at Tuesday's monthly Commission meeting that Edward V. Hurley is the acting head of that department.

—Godwin

in mass meeting voting for delegates to the Democratic state convention.

The surprising setback for the ultra-conservative Godwin came in Nansemond County where a predominately black mass meeting rejected the former chief executive as a member of a slate of four convention delegates from his home magisterial district.

The successful opposition to Godwin was spearheaded by Charles W. Lee. When the Godwin slate was presented to the meeting of about 100, Lee moved that all slate candidates from districts in the county be approved except Mills Godwin."

Godwin's defeat in his home county was representative of the new day in the state Democratic party, a day which saw blacks elected in proportion to their population and voting strength in almost every area.

The defeat of Godwin, however, while satifying, may be empty. No other candidates qualified for the seats sought by the Godwin slate and seem likely that under the party rules, the members of the slate can claim those seats that were denied them at the mass meeting.

The day of mass meetings was confused for it found "liberal" Democrats frequently opposing black Democrats. The liberals were supporting Sen. George McGovern for president, a man almost unknown to blacks despite a fine liberal voting record.

Although the results of Saturday's mass meetings on the precinct level in localities around the state are still far from completely clear, the complexion of this year's state Democratic convention is certain to be younger, blacker and more feminine than any of its predecessors in accordance of new party rules.

The so-called Byrd organization will hardly be represented at the state convention. While Sen. George McGovern may claim a plurality of the delegates already elected who are committed to any candidate, it seems clear that the vast majority of the delegates will be supporters of Sens. Hubert Humphrey, Henry Jackson and Edmund Muskie.

Nevertheless, the defeat of Godwin was as good an indication as any of the movement of the Virginia Democratic Party further from the days and ways of the old Byrd organization. While liberals may not have elected a majority of delegates, they did elect enough that when combined in the committee may have been prompted by new Federal Communications Commission rules to allow systems in large cities to divert signals from out of town and to avert inquiries by the City Council on its own.

A cable franchise could provide the city with as much as 5 percent a year of a company's gross profits.

One of the more important aspects would be cable television's capacity to provide public service information for the nation's urban areas as information on welfare and education.

Other members of the 19-member committee are Professor Everett Goldbert, University of Maryland School Of Law, chairman; Walter S. Orlinsky, president of the City Council; Councilman John A. Schaefer (D, 1st); Councilman Reuben Caplan (D,5th); Mrs. Nancy Hall, Dr. William Higgins, Ronald Kreitner, Louis Moses, Thomas Murray, Kalman R. Hettleman, members of the Board of School Commissioners; and Donald P. Campbell.

—Commission

with the blacks, young people and women elected by moderates seems certain to change the complexion of the State Central Democratic Committee.

There were other areas in which notable Old Guard leaders were defeated, but the primary result seems likely to be the election of a leaderless uncommitted delegation of Virginia Democrats to the national nominating convention in Miami.

Unlike the liberals, who could capitalize on the support for McGovern by peace activists, the moderates are divided among at least three candidates. However, many moderates favor another course; they would like to see an uncommitted delegation at Miami able to bargain with its votes for patronage and favors from the party nominee and national party in the coming four years.

In Richmond the moderates who were the insurgent revolutionaries of four years ago by being straight-ticket Democrats were themselves subjected to a stern challenge by liberal McGovern supporters saw the moderates as vestiges of the old Byrd organization.

In Henrico and Chesterfield, moderate forces swamped the remnants of the Old Guard, winning all delegates seats in Chesterfield and all but five in Henrico.

GREEN — In loving memory of our dear son and brother, CARROLL, who passed away April 14, 1971:
Three years have passed, since you've been gone.
But the memory of you is still very strong.
The sound of your voice, the look on your face.
No other one will ever take your place.
We miss you more, as the days go by.
We think of you often with tears in our eyes.
We long to see our dear one, so our love for him will grow and grow.
From Loving Parents:
EMMA and WALTER GREEN
SISTERS and BROTHERS

HARRIS In loving memory of my dear husband, father, grandfather and great-grandfather, DR. BERNARD HARRIS SR., who passed away April 10, 1969:
Sad and sudden was the call
Of one so dearly loved by all;
A bitter grief, a shock severe,
It was to part with one so dear.
We often sit and think of you,
And speak of how you died.
To think you could not say good-bye
Before you closed your eyes.
For all of us you did your best.
Oh, God, grant you eternal rest.
THE FAMILY

HILLERY — In loving memory of my husband, HARRY (HICKEY), who passed away April 13, 1948:
It's someone here without you,
No one else can really know.
What it means to be without you.
Your memories I will never let go.
I do not know the pain you bore,
I did not see you die;
I only know you passed away,
And never said goodbye.
Loving Wife,
MARY H. HILLERY

HARRIS — In loving memory of our loved one, AMY HARRIS, who passed away April 13, 1962:
A token of love and affection,
Of our loved one we shall never forget;
Her memory to us is a treasure,
Her loss a lifetime regret.
DAUGHTER, GRANDCHILDREN, GREAT GRANDCHILDREN

In Memoriam

LUCAS — In loving memory of our dear mother, MARTHA B. LUCAS, who passed away April 13, 1963:
God made lots of beautiful things;
Sunset and roses and trees,
Birds and starlight and loyal friends
And after He made all these,
He gave to the earth a gift more rare.
More loving and more true.
Of all God's gifts, the one most rare.
A mother as dear as you.
GILLIAN, FRANCES, ROBERT, MARGARET

SMITH — In loving memory of my dear husband and our father, SIDNEY D., who passed away April 15, 1967:
A light is from our household gone,
A voice we loved is stilled,
A place is vacant in our home
Which never can be filled!
So dear to those you are forgotten
Gone and forgotten by some
on earth you are no more;
But dear in our memory you will always be.

Birthday Tribute

SHIPLEY JR. — A Birthday Tribute of love to the memory of my dear son, EDWARD J., on his birthday April 16, who passed away September 23, 1971:
Peacefully sleeping, resting at last,
The world's weary troubles and trials are past.
In silence he suffered, in silence he bore,
Till God called him home to suffer no more.
But I think of you as stepping on shore, and finding it Heaven,
Of taking hold of a hand and finding it God's hand;
Of breathing a new air, and finding it Celestial air;
Of feeling invigorated, and finding it immortality;
Of passing from storm to tempest to an unbroken calm;
Of waking up and finding you're home.
Your Devoted Mother,
MRS. VERONICA SHIPLEY WESTCOTT

TALLEY — A Birthday Tribute to the memory of our brother and uncle, RICHARD LEE TALLEY, on his birthday, April 14th, who passed away August 11, 1971:
