Dr. Henry S. Robinson Jr. chairman of the City Council's Committee on Health and Welfare announced a hearing to investigate the Medicaid Program in the District for Wednesday, April 26.

Recent disclosures have indicated that physicians may be receiving payments for services that they are not actually giving. The Committee plans to explore the monitoring system for the Medicaid Program and ascertain exactly how well this program is being carried out throughout the city.

In addition, the Committee wishes to determine if the Department of Human Resources is receiving all of the federal funds for all Medicaid Program to which it is entitled.

Honors for Rev. Waldon for 60 years ministry

Many Baltimoreans fondly remember the Rev. Harvey E. Waldon who was pastor of Waters AME Church here for many years.

For the past 25 years he has been pastor of Grant Memorial AME Church in Chicago.

Now he is due to be honored for his service three and 60 years in the ministry.

The 7:30 p.m. occasion of dining and fellowship is scheduled for the Great Hall, colonial House, 914 E. 79th St.

Reservations at $10 must be sent to the church to be received by May 1.

The mortage Burning Service will be Mothers' Day, May 14 at 3 p.m. at the church. Bishop Thomas Primm will be guest speaker. Immediately after the services, a reception will be given in the Harvey E. Walden Community Center.

Police officers to hold 'swop shop' at Social Security

Police officers in Maryland concerned professionally with community relations will meet for a one-day-exchange institute next Wednesday.

The "swap shop" is being co-sponsored by the Maryland Region, National Conference of Christians and Jews, and the Maryland Commission on Human Relations.

The session will be convened in a conference room at the Social Security Administration headquarters on Security Boulevard in Woodlawn.

Purpose of the institute is to enable law enforcement officers to exchange program ideas and methods aimed at improving police-community relations.

Willard C. Rush, senior staff member of the state Human Relations Commission, stated that policemen throughout the state have indicated a need to meet and talk with their colleagues working in community relations in Maryland.

The National Conference of Christians and Jews sponsors annual national institutes in police-community relations in several universities throughout the United States, which a number of Maryland police officers have attended.

But, according to Gerald A. Renner, executive director of the Maryland Region, NCCJ, "there is an immediate need to focus a little closer to home."

The advisory committee for the Maryland meeting include Major James Watkins and Sgt. William Dickerson of the Baltimore City Police Department, Lt. Stuart Guise and Det. William Turner of the Baltimore County Police Department, Chief Edward F. Praley of the Anne Arundel County Police Department, and Lt. Lemuel E. Porter, Jr. and Major Thomas E. Veditz of the Maryland State Police.
