Salvation Army wants to get 500 boys to play baseball

While some are sitting around lamenting the money that was "lost" when the players' strike prevented the Orioles from playing their scheduled home games earlier this week, Bill Luckan, came up with an idea how the games of baseball could well benefit from the "lost" money.

"That money wasn't lost," insists Luckan, "It just wasn't spent."

"We're trying to get 500 kids on the ball field in our recreational baseball program, and how many boys play depends on how many sponsors and private contributors we can get for our teams."

"If the people that were going to the Oriole opening game last Monday would have spent an average of $10.00 at the ball game, why not spend the money on Boys' Clubs?"

Other funds are provided by the United Fund and by various service and civic clubs.

The Salvation Army teams, formerly known as Red Shield, have been active in Baltimore kid baseball since 1938 and include boys in the 8-18 age bracket, all from middle and lower income families.

The contributions to The Salvation Army Boys' Clubs are also tax deductible and a kid gets a chance to play ball.

There are Clubs at 215 N. Calhoun St., Highlandtown and Middle River. Executive offices are located at 2941 Maryland Ave.

Ministers raise defense money

GREENSBORO, N.C. — The National Convention of United Black Churchmen have begun a fund raising drive to pay the legal expenses of black activist Ben Chavis.

The group said last week it hoped to raise $270,000 for Chavis and others to fight charges in connection with two Wilmington murders. The group designated $150,000 for legal defense and $120,000 for bail.

Chavis, who was supposed to attend the convention, is being held in Wake County jail under a $50,000 bond.

He is charged with conspiracy in the shooting death of a white man in Wilmington and as an accessory after the fact in the murder of a black youth in the port city. Also, he faces Federal charges of conspiracy and weapons violations.

The Rev. Leon White, a national staff member of the Church of Christ, told the group, "We will not allow prejudiced white officials to make an example of Chavis." (UPI)

Vashti Gospel Singers' 25th anniversary celebration

VASHTI GOSPEL SINGERS will celebrate their 25th anniversary on Sunday at 6 p.m. at Shiloh Christian Community Church, Lombard and Catherine Sts. From left are Mesdames Beverly Reddrick, The Rev. Mrs. Gloria Jackson (standing) Gertrude Wright and Lillian Martin. Inset is the Rev. William E. Hamilton, pianist.

The Vashti Gospel Singers will observe their 25th anniversary Sunday, at 6 p.m. at Shiloh Christian Community Church, Lombard and Catherine Sts.

The group was organized in 1941 under direction of the Rev. Earl Holmes.

Members of the Vashti Singers are:

The Rev. Miss Gloria Jackson, tenor singer and manager, a member of Mt. Calvary Holy Church where she serves on the senior choir and co-pastor of the church;

Mrs. Lillian Martin, secretary, alto, a member of Wayland Baptist Church;

Mrs. Gertrude Wright, member of Mt. Calvary Holy Church and president of the senior choir;

Mrs. Beverly Reddick, treasurer, a member of Mt. Lebanon Baptist Church.

The Rev. William E. Hamilton, pianist, has been with the Vashti Singers since 1958 and is pastor of Star of Bethlehem Spiritual Temple Church.

Other gospel groups who will participate on the program Sunday are The Jackson Singers, Grant Specials, Mt. Carmel Choir and the Voices of Hope. Mrs. Jannie Campbell will preside.

Dr. Cheek to address meeting

Dr. King Cheek, president of Morgan State College, will address the National Conference of Christians and Jew's Dawn Patrol breakfast meeting Tuesday in the College Center at Towson State College.

He will discuss the attitudes of youth toward race relations today. The meeting will begin with breakfast at 7:30 a.m.

The group will meet regularly at Towson during 1972. The program attempts to bring together representatives from educational systems, management, labor, religion, the inner city and other community leaders with authorities on issues of immediate social relevance.

"Towards understanding, communicating and working with youth," has been the theme for the past one and half years and has been discussed for a variety of perspectives.

MONEY CAPE — Mrs. Inez Lucas was honored recently by the Ladies Guild of Perkins Square Baptist Church. The guild presented her with a money cape which had a total of $100 in $1.00 bills. Mrs. Lucas is a longtime and well known member of her church.

Methodist General Conference

Eleven lay delegates and 11 clergy delegates will represent the Baltimore Conference of their church at The United Methodist General Conference which opens in Atlanta, Ga., on April 16 and continues through April 27. The General Conference meets every four years.

Everett Jones, of Damascus, Md., a former Conference Lay Leader, heads the lay delegation.

The Rev. David H. Andrews, a former pastor of Memorial United Methodist Church in Silver Spring, and presently serving as District Superintendent of the Frederick District of his church heads the clergy delegation.

Miss Mary K. Will of Gaithersburg, Md., is the youngest delegate eleeted.

Other clergy delegates are: Edward G. Carroll of Silver Spring; Dr. E. William Hall of Baltimore; the Rev. Forrest Stith of Baltimore; the Rev. Frank Williams of Washington, D.C.; Dr. F. Norman Van Brunt of Baltimore, the Rev. Laverne Rohrbaugh of Hagerstown, the Rev. L. Carroll Yingling of Washington, D.C.; the Rev. Herbert L. D.
