MRS. SHIRLEY DREW, left, founder and past president of the Baltimore chapter of Las Amigas, was recently recognized by the national body for dedication and meritorious service to the organization and to her community. She was chosen "Most Outstanding Member—1972" of Las Amigas, a national civic and social group at their annual conclave in Newark, N. J., recently. Here, she is shown receiving a plaque from Mrs. Dolores Street, president of the Baltimore chapter and president-elect of the national organization.

B-P Club presents bus to Crownsville

By ELOISE RICHARDSON

The presentation of a mini bus to Crownsville State Hospital by the National Business and Professional Women's Club of Baltimore, and graduation exercises for five students from the School of Cosmetology, Vocational Rehabilitation Facility of the hospital, made epochal history for the Hospital on April 24.

The bus, which was obtained through donations of old newspapers and green stamps, took a year of collections. The keys for the bus were turned over to the hospital by Mrs. Edna D. Johnson, president of the Baltimore Club of Business and Professional Women, who was accompanied by the national president, Mrs. Rosalie McGuire.

• • •

The main speaker at the exercises was Dr. Norwood Williams, assistant director of Field Services for the Division of Vocational Rehabilitation, who gave advice to the graduates to steer them on their course of endeavor.

Mrs. Jean Colbert, director of Rehabilitation at the hospital, in her greetings stated that the occasion was a very special one because "we are proud of the young women who have completed their work in Cosmotology and who are on the threshold of a very exciting future in the world of work.

• • •

Those of us in the Vocational Rehabilitation Department have shared a dream with the hospital that one day we would have total community involvement in the mental health program.

"The presentation of the mini bus is the beginning of making our dreams a reality. The effort put forth to acquire this bus is significant of the total commitment and work from the many people involved from the community."

Mrs. Mary Brooks, supervisor of the School of Cosmetology, in her remarks to the graduates said:

"Goals are sometimes not easily achieved. Your efforts and determination in achieving these goals will be rewarded, both for your satisfaction in accomplishing this task and your ability to attain self-reliance in the community.

"Mrs. Bessie Allen, your instructor and I give you our best wishes today for your every success possible as you now enter this new phase of your lives."

Mrs. Brooks, in further remarks concerning the mini bus project, related that she as chairman and her co-chairman, Mrs. Loretta Waley, received enthusiastic cooperation through Joe Knight, announcer of WFBR, Mrs. Mary Clayborne of WWIN, the high schools, hospital employes, club members and the general public.

• • •

The bus, which was purchased through donations of old newspapers and green stamps, was bought at a cost of $4,000 in less than a year. The keys for the bus were turned over to the hospital by Mrs. Edna DeCoursey Johnson, president of the Baltimore club, who was accompanied by the national president, Mrs. Rosalee McGuire.

Dr. George McKenzie Phillips, superintendent of Crownsville State Hospital, in his remarks, stated that "we view ourselves, not just as a hospital for treating mental illness but as a center for the development of human resources.

"We believe that this is one day we can demonstrate what is meant by turning to the health and resourcefulness of the people we serve them with a compulsive to build on their strengths rather than stifle them with a compulsive orientation to their handicaps."

• • •

In his acceptance speech to Mrs. Johnson and Mrs. McGuire, Dr. Phillips said:

"This bus will provide transportation for those who are in need of our services, but have no way to get to us. On behalf of the staff and clients at Crownsville, as well as on behalf of Dr. Neil Solomon, Secretary of the Department of Health and Mental Hygiene, and Governor Marvin Mandel, please know that your tangibie support is deeply appreciated. We pledge to make your investment in us a fruitful one."

Others representing the hospital in accepting the mini bus were James Brewer, Supervisor of Training, Vocational Rehabilitation; Russell Maranto, assistant superintendent (business); Dr. Yavuz Inel, assistant superintendent (medical); Dr. Adeleke Adeymo, Director of Somatic Services, and Dr. Piyale German, Director of Psychiatric Services.

Other persons who represented state officials were:

Mrs. Martha Benton, Commissioner of Mental Hygiene; L. Delaney, State Superintendent of Schools; Mr. Marvin Bond, Office of the Comptroller; Mrs. Doris Clarke, National Beauty Culturists' League, Inc.;

Mrs. Lillian Jackson, Shop Owners, Maryland State Beauty Culture Association, and Mr. Myron Wotring, regional coordinator for Region VI, Department of Vocational Rehabilitation.

• • •

Messages were received from Governor Marvin Mandel, U.S. Senator Charles Mc C. Mathias Jr., Congressmen Parren J. Mitchell and Clarence D. Long, Anne Arundel County Executive Joseph W. Alton Jr., Baltimore County Executive Dale Anderson, Secretary of Health and Menatl Hydiene Dr. Neil Solomon;

Also James L. Caine and Mrs. Majorie Baker, Special Education, Anne Arundel County Public Schools; John S. Cirnick, William J. Burkhead and John W. Douglas, members of the House of Delegates; Mrs. Margaret B. Englerth, Baltimore County Bureau of Public Health Nursing; Mrs. Enice Alper, executive director of the State Board of Cosmetologists, and Joseph H. Morton, Specialist in Trade and Industrial Education, Maryland State Department of Education.

Illustrious Women

This week and next, during the run of "Purlie" at Morris Mechanic Theatre, an exhibit of metal sculptures, with innovative techniques, is on display.

The sculptures are by Mrs. Reva G. Lewis, a native Baltimorean and a local artist-educator.

• • •

Mrs. Lwis is presently head of the Art Department of Walbrook High School. She graduated from Morgan State College, Magna Cum Laude, where she studied under Dr. Charles Stalling, muralist; James E. Lewis, sculptor, both of Morgan; and Hale Woodruff, artist and muralist, while working on her master's degree at New York University.

She is best known for her "Matriarchal Madonna" which depicts the strength and beauty of the black female from infancy to adulthood. The technique employed in this expressive work was collage and acrylic.

• • •

Mrs. Lewis has also exhibited at the Annual Outdoor Arts Festival, Druid Hill Park, Morgan State College Gallery, Bates High School in Annapolis, Loeb Center, New York; Community College in this city; Oheb Shalem Gallers, Washington County Museum, Hagerstown; and Artist Equity Shown. She had a one man show at Arena Playhouse.

This artist has received recognition from many. She is recipient of the Citation of Merit in Art from Morgan State College, Alpha Kappa Mu Award for Scholastic Achievement, Art Department Medal of Honor Award for Outstanding Artistic Achievement by Morgan State College, the Pierian Award for Painting and Sculpture, Boy Scout Award for work with youth and the For-Win-Ash Flower Show Award for floral arrangements.

This year Mrs. Lewis is providing her Walbrook students with a variety of high-level art experiences by exhibiting their works at the Baltimore Museum of Art. They will exhibit at the Baltimore Arts Festival at the Charles Street Church of the Redeemer and at Seton Hill open house this coming week.

In addition to her professional work, Mrs. Lewis is den mother to a Cub Scout group, works with the Police-Community Relations Council, is consultant for Phi Delta Kappa student teaching seminars, and church work.

She is the mother of Reva M. Lewis, a senior at Morgan State College, and wife of Arthur Lewis, public school teacher and horticulturist.

Morgan to host English conference

Morgan State College has been designated as the site of the spring conference of the Middle Atlantic region of the College English Association.

According to Dr. Nick Aaron Ford, professor of English at Morgan State and president of the Association's Middle Atlantic region, the day-long conference will be held at the Northeast Baltimore Institution on Saturday, May 6, in Murphy Fine Arts Center.

More than 3000 English teachers from colleges and universities in Maryland, Delaware, the District of Columbia and adjoining areas of Virginia and Pennsylvania are expected to attend the meeting. The theme for this year's conference is "A New Look At The Teaching Of Literature."

Professor Gayle Smith of the University of Maryland will deliver the keynote address on the program, opening the conference Saturday morning at 10 o'clock. His address will be on "Teaching English Classics to the NOW Generation." In a question and answer period, following Smith's address, he will be joined by a panel of honor English students from the colleges and universities, as well as several members of the Association.

The luncheon speaker, at 12:15 p.m., will be Goucher College's Dr. Fontaine Belford, who has authored several reviews and articles. She is a graduate of Hollins College and received the M.A. degree in religion from Yale University and the Ph. D. degree in comparative literature from the University of North Carolina. Dr. Darwin T. Turner, A Phi Beta Kappa graduate of the University of Chicago, will deliver the keynote address for the final session of the day-long conference of college English teachers in Murphy Auditorium on the Morgan State campus. The closing session featuring Dr. Turner will begin at 2:15 p.m. Currently a visiting lecturer at the State University of Iowa, Dr. Turner is recognized as a nationally known authority on Afro-American literature. He will discuss, "Teaching Afro-American Literature to College and University Students" in presentation Saturday afternoon.

Following Turner's presentation, a panel of four professors will respond to the address. Participating on this panel will be Dr. Carl Bode, University of Maryland; Dr. Lance Jeffers, Bowie State College; Dr. Wilford Griffin, U.S. Naval Academy; and Thomas Webner, Prince Georges Community College.

Reservations for the luncheon are being accepted by Mrs. Eileen Tarcay of Coppin State College, secretary-treasurer of the association. Persons interested in attending the meeting are not college English teachers, may contact Mrs. Tarcay (301/383-5994) or Dr. Ford (301/323-2270, Ext. 243).

Research grant to Drew School

Congressman Augustus F. Hawkins (D-Calif.), announced from his Washington office the granting of a research grant to the Charles Drew Post Graduate Medical School in Los Angeles, from the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

Congressman Hawkins stated that the grant was in the amount of $50,000 and was for the first part of a three-year program. The research will be concerned with resistance to infection in the Neonate. Dr. Michael E. Miller is to be the principal investigator.

VOLUNTEERS NEEDED FOR REP. MITCHELL

Anyone wishing to volunteer to help the campaign to reelect Congressman Mitchell may call 523-3400, 1902 Ellamont St., campaign headquarters.

Carter, Murphy get more endorsements

Mrs. Kathleen Carter and Mrs. Louise G. Murphy, candidates, Demo. National Convention, 3rd Congressional Dist., formally endorsed by the Congresswoman Shirley Chisholm, announced this week, endorsements additional from these organizations:

Third Dist. Citizens for Good Government; Baltimore Women's Political Caucus; Herring Rub Club; Lawyers' Wives of Baltimore; New Demo. Coalition — Second Dist. and Third Dist. Blacks for Political Action and Education.

Local political leaders endorsing them are: Del. Walter R. Dean Jr. (D-5th) and Sen. John Carroll Byrnes (D-3rd).

In mounting a vigorous campaign, they vow to make an impact on the July Demo. National Convention in Miami, Fla. and to represent all the people who have been systematically excluded from the decision making process in this country.

To do this, Mrs. Carter and Mrs. Murphy are solidifying a block vote of women and black citizens. "the ones who are most often excluded," they say. "In the 3rd Cotgressional District."

Our success hitges on the work of these partirular volunteers," they continue. "since these excluded voters must volunteer to become an active part of government at its highest level."

Volunteers may report to Carter-Murphy headquarters at 4612 York Road to help canvass for the May 16 Primary. — By Authority Carolyn Battle and Howard H. Murphy, Treas. Carter-Murphy, respectively.

Anyone wishing to volunteer to help the campaign to reelect Congressman Mitchell may call 728-3400, 1902 Ellamont St., campaign headquarters.
