PLAYFIELD WITH ORIGINALITY — A $60,000 playfield was recently completed at Margaret Brent School No. 53, 100 E. 26th St., and brought it national acclaim. The playground, funded by the Homewood Education committee and the community, has many unique devices in which youngsters can enjoy. Assistant principal, Mack B. Simpson, Jr. snapped the pictures shown here which are also hanging in the Baltimore Museum of Art. Trying out the new equipment are Evangeline Harris, Sandra Gardner, David Smith, Christine Cave, Jeffrey Skaggs, Kathleen Doyle, Sherril Libey, Viola Sherman, Yvette James and Debra Layne.

SERIOUS SAM — Entertainer Sammy Davis Jr., shown as he testified Monday before a Houst Crime Committee investigating Mafia influence over organized sports and horse racing. The actor-singer told the committee how he pulled out of a dtal to purchase a N.J. horse farm after he became suspicious of the promotors. Davis appeared at the hearing wearing five diamond rings and a gold peace symbol. (UPI Photo).

Opera pupils plan expanded '72 season

JACKSON, Miss. — After two highly successful one-production seasons, OPERA/SOUTH will increase its 1972-73 schedule to two operas. The first will be a contemporary work set for November, the second will be Bizet's "Carmen," scheduled for early April.

Final plans for the fall opera are not complete yet, but it will be a significant modern work.

For "Carmen," as for "Turandot" and "Aida," OPERA/SOUTH will involve all vocal groups of the three sponsoring colleges, Jackson State, Tougaloo and Utica Junior.

Archery meet to aid Kornans Hospital

The fourth annual Carling-Maryland Archery Association charity tournament—Baltimore's famous James L. Kernan Orthopedic Hospital receives all registration fees—is set for Sunday, and tournament organizers report that 300 archers from six states are expected to compete.

An all-day event, the shoot will take place at the athletic field of the Carling Brewing Company, 1401 Hollins Ferry Road.
