MARGARET TINDALL

Miss Tindall to participate in institute

Miss Margaret A. Tindal Instructor of Geography at Coppin State College, has been selected as one of two women to participate in an NSF Institute at Oregon State University, Corvallis, Oregon.

The theme of the Institute is "Systems Analysis in Land Use Planning," and is primarily concerned with the application of systems analysis to the problem of ordering land uses. The Institute will be attended by 25 geography professors from all over the United States. The Institute, which is supported by a grant from the National Science Foundation, will be held from June 26 through July 22.

• • •

Miss Tindal is a graduate of Western High School and Coppin State College. She received her M.A. degree in Geography from Clark University, Graduate School of Geography, Worcester, Massachusetts. She is a member of Alpha Kappa Mu National Honor Society and Circulus Scholarum. She has been on the faculty at Coppin State College since 1970.

Her parents are the Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Henry W. Tindal of Harlem Avenue.

YMCA executives elected to National Council

Two Baltimore men have been elected to positions on the National Council of the Young Men's Christian Association.

Herbert A. Davis, current president of the Metropolitan Board of the YMCA of the Greater Baltimore Area, was elected as a representative of the Middle Atlantic Region to the National Council and will serve for five years. He was also elected to the National Board of the YMCA.

Frank H. Thatcher, general executive of the YMCA of the Greater Baltimore Area, was elected as a representative of the Middle Atlantic Region to the National Council. He will serve a three-year term.

Safety Council holds 49th annual meeting

The 49th annual dinner meeting of the Baltimore Safety Council will be held Wednesday, June 7, 7 p.m., at Holiday Inn, Cromwell Bridge Rd. More than 300 members will attend.

William T. Sewell president, has announced that Dr. Harvey C. Hahn, public relations official of General Motors will be the guest speaker.

Dr. Hahn serves as pastor emeritus of the Otterbein United Methodist Church in Dayton, Ohio. He has also worked as board chairman of a large hospital, administrator of the American Red Cross, and leader of the Ohio State Chamber of Commerce.

'Check Up' drive involves 12th graders

More than 20,000 consumer ballots were passed out this month to 12th grade students in Baltimore city and county high schools as part of "The Big Check Up," a national campaign to make tht American consumer the best informed in the world.

The ballot contained questions designed to obtain consumer attitudes toward business and to determine what consumers want from business.

• • •

The local Better Business Bureau said high school students "comprise one of the major buying segments in the American marketplace, and any consumer ballot would be incomplete without student input."

One main center of interest usually is sufficient for a room. It may be either one wall or one main window or a fireplace or a grouping of furniture. Attention is drawn to this center through the use of color or through furniture arrangement.
