Teachers hold party, day care mother feted

By GEORGIANNA MOODY

A farewell party was held for Ernest Moody last Friday by teacher friends at school No. 246 at the home of Miss Annette Brown.

The farewell party for Moody, who is now teaching at No. 246 but will soon return to the inner city, was also a birthday party.

Guests included Misses Patricia Schneider, Annette, Brown, Barbara Turner and Pennie Coleman. Also Jessie McKay and Steve Baklow and yours truly.

A very sympathetic and concerned young man who is deeply dedicated to the teaching profession. Moody was relieved for a year teaching to work exclusively with the Public School Teachers Association (PSTA).

Upon returning to the system in 1969, he was where he's been since, that place at School No. 246 where he's been since, that time.

The Lafayette Douglass Family Day Care Mothers entertained Mrs. Rebecca Adams at a party last Saturday.

Mrs. Adams has been mother for a large number of foster children, and has served as a day care mother for many years. She is 70 years old and has retired from rearing children.

Guests included, Mesdames: Alberta Artis, Eula Evans, Maxine Jennings, Lizzie Harper, Bessie Pelzer, Vivian Moore, Ethel Gray, Louise Russell and Leona Young.

Mr. and Mrs. James Robinson are back from vacationing in Puerto Rico.

Drug abuse course set for Coppin

A graduate course in professional education in drug abuse funded by the Maryland Drug Abuse Administration, will be held at Coppin State College's summer session.

The project, Professional Education in Drug Abuse and Addiction, has been under way this past year under the management of the Maryland Consortium for the Health Sciences.

The project purports to encourage ten "helping professions" in a cooperative attack on the social problem of drug abuse, within their respective professional roles. The "helping professions, psychiatrists, school counselors, teachers, administrators; and social workers.

The director of the project in drug abuse is Dr. Monroe Lerner of the JHU School of Hygiene and Public Health.

ON A RECENT TOUR of the new facility (l. to r.) James L. Harvey, administrative assistant, talks about the many new services and areas which are being made available to the community for the best health care in the area. With him are Mrs. Aloha Warren and Mrs. Mary Sollers, Model Cities, Area G planning aides; Mrs. Esther Vines, a former Model Cities health coordinator, who is presently associate director, Logical Technical Services Corporation, Social Action Division; and Albert Williams, policy steering board chairman, Model Cities, Area G.

John Alexander named associate vice-chancellor

Newly appointed John W. Alexander will assume the duties of associate vice-chancellor for educational program planning at the University of Maryland Baltimore County (UMBC) on July 1, according to a recent statement by Chancellor Calvin B.T. Lee.

"The new post will add another dimension to our ongoing educational planning process, particularly in the area of new curricular programs and coordination of programs for academic advisements," Dr. Lee explained.

Alexander, who is presently on sabbatical leave for a year, comes to UMBC from Westover School in Middlebury, Conn., where he was headmaster. From 1945 through 1967 he served at Columbia College, Columbia University in various capacities: he was associate dean, acting dean, assistant dean, sociology instructor, and administrative interviewer. He was a former Spelman College trustee.

The associate vice-chancellor has been director of the school desegregation program for American Friends Service Committee in North Carolina; self-employed as a florist and produce broker in St. Thomas, Virgin Island; and administrative trainee with the United States Department of Agriculture.

He was graduated from Columbia College, Columbia University, with a bachelor of arts, and engaged in graduate study in sociology while holding a graduate assistantship and teaching part-time for one year at the University of North Carolina.

Later he completed all examinations and courses, with the exception of the dissertation, for a Ph. D at Columbia University.

UMBC's new associate vice-chancellor has been a consultant to the chancellor of the University of Puerto Rico on problems of student services and university organizations, sociologist with Columbia's School of Engineering faculty.

RETIRED DEDICATED WORKER—Mrs. Caroline P. Brady, center, was honored at the Center Club on Friday for 25 years of tireless and dedicated service to the Girl Scouts of Central Md. and the United Fund. Mrs. Brady and her husband, Carroll, former professor of mathematics at the Naval Academy plan to travel for a time before choosing a place to settle down. Also shown are Harvey Karshan, president, Provident Savings Bank and Mrs. Duane Peterson.

Mrs. Brady honored by Girl Scouts

The Board of Directors of the Girl Scouts of Central Maryland honored Mrs. Caroline Brady, long a member of the board and a tireless and dedicated worker, at a reception June 1 at the Center Club.

The occasion was Mrs. Brady's departure from Central Maryland upon the retirement of her husband as professor of mathematics at the Naval Academy. The Bradys plan to travel for a time before choosing a place to settle down.

At the June 1 reception, Mrs. Duane L. Peterson's gift of 100 shares of stock to the Girl Scouts in honor of Mrs. Brady was presented. Two other gifts, one of money and the other of pledged volunteer hours for the upcoming campaign, were made to the United Fund of Central Maryland, also in honor of Mrs. Brady.

Mrs. Jack Pearlstone was in charge of reception arrangements.

In April of this year, Mrs. Brady received the United Fund Women's Council's Clementine Peterson Award given each year to "the woman who has contributed the most in furthering the aims of the United Fund Women's Council." Mrs. Brady has twice received the Thanks Badge, Girl Scouting's highest award; in 1949 from Anne Arundel County Girl Scouts, and in 1969 from Girl Scouts of Central Maryland. She was Phi Beta Kappa at the University of California at Los Angeles in 1933.

JUNE 17

An international fair will be held today from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. on Saturday, June 17 at the Pimlico branch of the Enoch Pratt Free Library, Garrison and Park Heights Avenues. The public is invited.
