Man beats children nets 4 year term

Wayne E. Ross, 21, 3400 block Mondawmin Ave., was sentenced to a total of four years imprisonment Wednesday in Criminal Court for beating two young boys with an electric cord and a belt.

Judge Joseph C. Howard, called the beatings "almost sadistic" punishment imposed upon the five and four-year-term for child abuse of Thomas Jordan, 5 and received a concurrent one-year term for the assault of Keith Jordan, 7.

Assistant State's Attorney Micheal Libowitz stated the defendant "maliciously beat" the youths at their 900 block Druid Lake Drive home on Feb. 22.

The court was told the young boys were the sons of the defendant's girlfriend. Mrs. Eartha Jordan, who had asked him to punish them for stealing.

Ross told the court, "I was just trying to correct the children. I didn't mean to hurt them." The defendant also admitted drinking heavily prior to the offense.

Judge Howard, however, stated, "You had the right idea to correct the children for stealing.

"However, you not only beat the children with a large, heavy belt until welps came, and blood was running from the wounds, but you also placed them in cold water causing the unconcious state."

Before imposing the sentences, the jurist told the defendant to "Brace yourself because here it comes."

Ross was sentenced to a seven-year old youths for stealing cupcakes.

Evidence showed the accident occured at the corner of N. Severna Park Rd. and First St., June 10, 1968 when a car driven by Miss Lois M. Pomerlane, 25, collided with the van carrying the longshoremen to the dock area.

Miss Pomerlane, Thomas Missotti, a summer worker and his employer, R. G. Hobleman Co., were held liable for the accident last December when a Superior Court jury found for the longshoremen.

Two brothers, Henson Spencer, 38 and Garrison Spencer, 51, both of the 6000 block Ritchie Highway, received a total of $13,500 for back injuries. The sums of $9,000 and $45,000 were awarded to Henson Spencer and his brother, respectively.

Blockbusting goes back to City Council

At the regular meeting of the city Planning Commission Thursday a resolution requesting the Real Estate Commission to apply regulation 28 statewide was sent back to the City Council.

Regulation 28 concerns blockbusting, the practice of selling homes in a neighborhood to prevent integration.

Many believe that this regulation would prevent blockbusting. The Planning Commission ruled that this is beyond their jurisdiction and should be returned to the City Council.

Del. Brailey repeats, 'Fire Schoonfield'

Del. Troy Brailey says: "I don't think Warden Schoonfield has changed his stripes one bit from the first time I met with him and the Jail Board.

"He is just taking it easy until the heat is off. I think he should be fired now."

Del. Brailey first demanded Schoonfield be fired in April, 1971 when he wrote a letter to Mayor D'Alesandro. Portions of the letter are as follows:

"I am demanding that Warden Hiram L. Schoonfield be replaced as warden of the Baltimore City Jail.

"I was invited by Mr. Paul J. Reed, Jail Board president, to meet with the Board to discuss complaints of a letter I received from a 19-year-old youth who was in the city jail for 30 days awaiting trial.

"When I began to ask questions of the Board members concerning specific jail conditions, Mr. Schoonfield became very uncultured. He stood on his feet as if to challenge me to a duel.

"This occurred when I asked about the alleged charge of the youth being put into the "Hole" as described in the letter written by the young man. Warden Schoonfield replied, 'If he was thrown in the "Hole," so what?'

"He then asked if I wanted to have a job on the Jail Board. Mr. Schoonfield further stated that there would be a riot at the city jail this Saturday. He wanted to know what was I going to do about that.

"At this point of the conversation, I walked out of the meeting."

Tenant told to pay water bill or move, files suit in court

Mrs. Helen E. Floyd, 31, of 1125 McKean Ave., has filed suit in Federal District Court seeking a declaratory judgment that Herbert Kaufman Realty Company's attempt to force her to pay for water services on her rented premises is an illegal increase in her rent, which violates the 1970 Economic Stabilization Act.

The class action, filed on Mrs. Floyd's behalf by the Legal Aid Bureau Wednesday, also seeks to enjoin Kaufman from evicting Mrs. Floyd or any tenant who refused to pay the water bills.

Her petition states that Mrs. Floyd has rented the McKean Ave. home from Kaufman since 1964. Her monthly rental is $85. The water bill is paid by Kaufman.

On May 1, Mrs. Floyd received a notice from the landlord, informing her that she would be required within sixty days to start paying the water bill for her home or she must move out of the property.

In addition to her claim that Kaufman's actions violates the Rent Control Act, the mother of three claims she is unable to assume payment for water services and if she is forced to move the housing shortage for low income persons would place great difficulties on her and her children.

The complaint joins attorneys Gary A. Goldstein and Charles M. Tatelbaum as defendants with Kaufman, because they are receivers of the Real Estate firm.

Mrs. Floyd suit seeks relief for herself as well as for all persons who are tenants of Kaufman, who have been or who will be required to assume payment of water bills on their rented premises, as a condition of continuing their tenancies.

No date has been set to hear the case. Mrs. Floyd's Legal Aid attorneys are Miss Marilyn Fisher, H. Maxwell Hersch and Harvey Greenberg.

City livers top fire chief list

The next chief of the Fire Department is likely to be chosen at Tuesday's (June 20) meeting of the Board of Fire Commissioners.

Civil Service has released the results of their tests including a written and oral examinations early this week and the order of finish of the four contending deputy chiefs are:

City residents Thomas J. Burke, 87.4; Herbert W. Catterton, 83.6; and Francis C. Ticha, 79.5; and county resident (acting chief) Edward J. Schneider, 76.9

Last week, the AFRO reported all four can still legally be appointed chief by the Fire Board headed by county dweller Howard Owen, but many public figures including former fire commissioner the Rev. Marion Bascom and City Councilman Dr. Emerson R. Julian urged only city residents be considered for chief, a $23,625, life-time job.
