Services in three cities this week were attended by family and friends mourning the sudden death Sunday of Judge J. Franklyn Bourne, 55, who served on the Prince Georges County District Court bench.

CLINICAL PSYCHOLOGIST, Miss Mary E. Tillery, told a Criminal Court jury Wednesday that murder and criminal assault suspect, Tyrone Simmons, 17, is a mental retardate with a 54 IQ. The youth is on trial before Judge Joseph C. Howard for the murder and assault of Mrs. Delia O'Grady, 86, who died three weeks after she was tortured and her home set afire Jan. 13. Dr. Byrd: United Fund's $225,000 PUSH no answer

BURIED today (Friday) in Baltimore National Cemetery is Judge J. Franklyn Bourne, 55, member of the District Court of Maryland, Prince Georges County. He was found dead Monday of an apparent heart attack in his College Park, Md., apartment where he lived alone.

The United Fund, in announcing the spending of $225,000 on 15 community service groups, declared Project Urban Self Help or PUSH "is an important innovation for the community and the United Fund."

But the long-time watchdog of the Fund, the Community Health Council, is not so sure PUSH is the answer they wanted when they demanded last year to the state Human Relations Commission that the Fund support indigenous (neighborhood) self-help organizations.

According to Irving Blum, chairman of United Fund's PUSH committee, the $225,000 was raised through special solicitation of the area's big business. PUSH committee members are also businessmen.

The groups in PUSH for the year beginning 1972 include Baltimore Neighborhoods, Urban Coalition, Citizens Planning and Housing Association, Friendship Exchange, Har Bel, and the Northwest Baltimore Corporation.

Health Council Chairman Dr. Eugene Byrd told the AFRO, "You would think the United Fund would solicit us, a community organization that has addressed itself to helping the Fund, for help in this."

The Health Council and the United Fund for the past six months have held special committee meetings to make the Fund more responsive to the needs of the black community.

John Burleigh, a Health Council member of the special committee, asserted, "There is nothing to indicate PUSH is anything but

The annual conference meeting held this year at the Drake Hotel in Chicago, Sunday through Thursday, basically is an educational session at which seminars are held and studies made of laws in various states.

One of the hardest working members ever to serve on the local board, Harris was elected to the executive committee of the State Liquor Administrators of Maryland.

He was appointed by Gov. Marvin Mandel for a term that runs from May 1971 until May 1973.

Jurors told murder suspect has low IQ

A Criminal Court jury was told Wednesday that murder and criminal-assault suspect, Tyrone Simmons, 17, thought Lyndon B. Johnson was still president of the United States.

Miss Mary E. Tillery, a clinical psychologist at the Clifton T. Perkins State Hospital, testified the defendant also could not answer other simple questions during a January psychiatric evaluation.

Simmons is on trial for the murder and assault of Mrs. Delia O'Grady, 86, who died three weeks after she was tortured and her house set afire on Jan. 13.

Testimony was also heard from Miss Lena Theresa Bryant, 21, of the first block South Fulton Ave., who was originally held with Simmons for the offense and later released.

Miss Bryant testified she knew nothing of the incident but admitted knowing the defendant before the crime occurred.

Mrs. O'Grady was found in her burning home in the 1800 block West Fayette St. unconscious, tied with a scarf and blindfolded with her apron.

The victim regained consciousness long enough to reveal a man and woman entered her home and tortured her when she failed to disclose where her money was kept.

The hearing continues today (Friday).

Jurors were told Simmons has a 54 IQ and could be easily led into answering questions asked by police.

Defense Attorney, Mrs. Elizabeth L. Bothe, lost a motion last week to keep statements made by Simmons to the police from jurors as admissible evidence.

Man freed in unborn child's death

Jack A. Dawson, 35, a cab driver, was acquitted Monday by a Criminal Court jury of charges that he murdered his estranged wife's unborn child.

Mr. Dawson, 4600 block E. Monument St., was also found not guilty of assaulting his wife, Mrs. Mary Dawson, 31, at her home in the 1700 block of N. Washington St. on Nov. 12, 1971.

Jurors were told Mrs. Dawson was seven months pregnant when she was stabbed in an artery causing the unborn child's death.

The defendant testified Mrs. Dawson attacked him with a knife and that she was subsequently stabbed during an altercation between them. Mr. Dawson also stated he left his wife's home without knowing she had been injured.

Couple helpless as baby dies in fire

A Northwest Baltimore couple looked on helplessly Wednesday afternoon as their six-month old baby was burned up in a flaming bedroom of their apartment in the 4100 block W. Forest Park Avy.

The baby girl, Lisa Tate, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gorden Tate was later pronounced dead at the Provident Hospital.

Police reports show Fire Department officials believe the fire was caused by children playing with matches.

The report quotes Lewis Lubawski, a meat truck driver, saying he found the father of the child and two other daughters in front of the burning house yelling "My baby's up there." He said he was driven back when he attempted to enter the house to rescue the girl.

Police state the mother of the girl left Lisa and her two half sisters, Monica 5, and Dietra, 4, in the apartment while she went to a near-by store to buy a package of cigarettes.

Mitchell sweeps home precincts

In the May 16 Primary, neighbors of Congressman Parren J. Mitchell, who voted along with Mitchell in the 13th precinct of the 13th ward, gave him a wide victory over challenger George L. Russell Jr.

In Congressman Mitchell's home precinct he received 110 votes to 72 votes cast for Russell.

On the GOP side, Verdell Adair, who will face Mitchell in the Nov. General Election for the 7th district's congressional seat, received only one vote from voters in the 13th precinct.

In the presidential race, Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey won with 46 votes.

Sen. Henry M. Jackson received 14 votes, while black Congresswoman Shirley A. Chisholm came in third with 12 votes.

Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace garnered four votes.

Richard M. Nixon received only five votes in winning the GOP race in the 13th precinct of the 13th ward.

Black Supreme Bench Judge candidate Archie D. Williams swept Mitchell's home precinct with 80 votes.

His nearest rival, Judge Marshall A. Levin, received 17 votes on the Democratic ballot.

On the GOP side, attorney Williams did just as well out polling Levin 2 to 1 with an 8 vote to 4 vote victory. Mr. Williams was on the Mitchell ticket.

The same pattern was repeated in the Court of Special Appeals race. Black lawyer candidate James W. McAllister won both the Democratic and Republican nominations over Judge Richard P. Gilbert.

McAllister won the Democratic race 35 votes to 15 votes and the GOP race 6 votes to one vote for Gilbert.

County biases made topic of rights board hearing

Over the objections of the state Human Relations Commission's ranking members, the Commission Tuesday voted to hold a public hearing on discrimination problems in Baltimore County stemming from the firing last month of four members of the county Department of Planning.

The commission, after hearing the urging of nine representatives of county neighborhood groups and the state arm of the U.S. Civil Rights Commission, ignored the report of Commission Executive Director Treadwell Phillips.

Mr. Phillips began the discussion by saying: "Our conversations with the people whose jobs (were) eliminated, strongly suggest they cannot give us the testimony to support the suggested conclusions that their key positions were eliminated because of racial motivation."

• • •

The four former employees in question are white, but the claim of racial motivation, said the community representatives, is that those four worked seriously towards the housing problems of the poor and black people of the county.

Mr. Phillips also stated, "It is our feeling that we have no choice at this time but to request the local Baltimore County (Human Relations) Commission to continue watching over the operations of the county government."

But citizen comments

Hit black employment at U. of Md.

Demanding that blacks hold 50 per cent of all jobs, the Black Coalition of the University of Maryland sent Baltimore Campus Chancellor Dr. Albin O. Kuhn seven pages of "preliminary criticism and recommendations" on the professional schools campus' proposed affirmative employment program, last week.

The black group has fought a running battle with university officials over black employment and black student enrollment.

University President Dr. Wilson Elkins ordered the Balto campus, along with College Park, Eastern Shore and Balto. County campuses to come up with an Affirmative Action Plan to increase black employment, by this month.

Howard P. Rawlings, spokesman for the Black Coalition, told the AFRO, "We have endorsed their plan in principle only.

BROADCAST CHIEF WARNS 'Hot stuff' cable television could be 'largely hot air'

Baltimore city has "an unprecedented chance to reach for leadership if it adopts a meaningful plan for cable television . . . thus becoming a model for the nation.

But if present planning is not changed, to real people involvement, the whole idea may turn out to be so much 'hot air.'

This was the challenge issued Tuesday evening by Dr. Frederick Breitenfeld, executive director of the Maryland Center for Public Broadcasting.

• • •

Speaking at the University of Baltimore, Dr. Breitenfeld unfolded what he called "a Baltimore Plan for cable television which could be a first for the nation."

The plan, he said, should put service first, not franchise agreements. "That means starting with Baltimore as a city of people, not as market for X dollars potential. The Baltimore Plan for cable television would start with public need."

To implement such a Baltimore Cable TV Plan, he urged the formation of a "city-wide, Board of Communications" . . . un-related to other governmental bodies."

• • •

This would put ultimate control of the city's cable system "in the hands of the Board of Communications," he asserted. "Commercial interests could well be satisfied, and profits to cable entrepreneurs could be no less than now imagined."

Breitenfeld urged the city to "see that the public benefits are assured before we consider commercial benefits," are assured before we consider commercial benefits."

He explained citizens can determine if their cable system is being "approached from a statement of profit and loss rather than "a statement of community needs."

They can do this, he said by watching for study groups and planning commissions that concentrate on legalities and economics rather than public services, plans and recommendations that talk about franchises rather than public services, and a communications system developed and installed for you to buy not with you to participate."

Although new to Baltimore, Breitenfeld asserted the Cable system is operating in other areas.

The average system has

THIS IS THE RULE No noisy parties in exclusive apartments anytime after 12 a.m.

"All parties after midnight must not be unusually loud is the new rule for all housing developments under the management of the Gorn Management Inc.

The ruling is the result of court action, Tuesday involving residents of the Dunmeadow Apartments, 1500 Frederick Ave. and N. Bend Rd. Mr. and Mrs. James Hall, 5311 Carriage Court, were accused of disrupting the harmony of the predominantly white town development.

Judge Meyer L. Cardin of Circuit Court ruled that while there was excessive noise it was not enough to terminate the Halls' contract.

In court charges, neighbors of the Halls complained of a loud and disturbing party May 6 and 7.

Police were called and the officer reported that on his arrival the party did not warrant any arrests.

Mrs. Hall told the AFRO that the occasion for the party was a birthday celebration for her husband, a psychology student at the University of Maryland.

Residents of Carriage Court area testified that they were "uneasy" in their apartments.

Mr. Hall reported he felt that there was a racial connotation to this complaint. Officials of Judge Cardin's office stated that the complaint was not racially motivated as there were other black families in the development.

Before the proceedings were called to order, Theodore Benik, attorney for Gorn Management offered to drop the case if the Halls would move within 6 months and get their deposit back.

They turned down this offer. Gorn Management will pay court costs and lawyers' fees.
