Libraries face a slowdown

The Enoch Pratt Free Library now has in planning a "book by mail" program to begin on July 31.

The program would allow persons with mailing addresses in the city to order books from the library, a special help to those who are sick and shut-in.

Each book would be sent free of charge. The person would only have to pay the cost of mailing the book back. There is a reduced book rate of 6 cents for the first pound.

A committee is now working out the details.

The introduction of the program was presented at the meeting of the board of trustees held at the main Enoch Pratt Library June 19.

Also brought up at this meeting was the budget report.

The Board of Estimates has suggested that the budget for the library be a total of $7,023,000.

With this budget the library will probably have to lay off 104 employees and close branches one day a week. The main library would have to close at 5 p.m. on Saturdays.

The future of the Morrell Park and Highlandtowne branches will be in mystery.

Most importantly the acquisition of books would be headed for a very serious slowdown.
