—In city schools

Public Information.

Rumors have circulated about massive cuts in current employment and the possibility of no new hiring as well. Dr. Patterson's office is trying to scotch these as yet unfounded rumors.

"It's too early to tell if anybody will physically lose a job yet, and we won't know until at least the end of this month, when we figure it out in terms of the cut budget and the balance of vacancies and additional people hired."

The "preliminary staff attachments" referred to are actually attempts to discover what can be cut and where.

"Dr. Joel A. Carrington, Acting Assistant Superintendent of Secondary Schools, and Dr. Rebecca Carroll, Acting Assistant Superintendent of Elementary Schools, have been directed by Dr. Patterson to alert their principals about what that allotment of staff will look like. Each principal is to go over his or her set-up and see what it will do to them, to see if they can handle it. Then, they're to report back if they have real hardships in operation."

Dr. Patterson's spokesman emphasized that these cuts will be in positions, not people.

The important thing to remember is these are not people. These are not bodies or flesh and blood individuals we're talking about — only positions."

At least part of this operation is the normal, annual procedure, Mr. Goldberg related.

"Every year we have a turnover of about 1,000 people — through retirement, death, maternity, leave of absence and just leaving their jobs."

The AFRO was advised by the public relations officer that new teachers will still be hired. "Normally we hire 800 new people each year. We'll still be hiring new teachers, as there's still a need for them. The 800 we hire might, in many cases, have more qualifications than the provisional teachers we have now."

"We don't know yet the exact vacancy figure and our 800 hiring figure is still in the air as of this moment. We have to balance the number of vacancies with the number of newly-hired."

Meanwhile, with Federal Revenue Sharing stalled and the City Council's anticipated budget cuts, Dr. Patterson's proposed and long-awaited school reorganization or decentralization plan waits to be adopted and implemented. The School Board is not expected to take formal action until August.

Aim of the plan is to return decision-making to the schools, teachers, parents and students directly affected by the problems that current decisions coming from the 25th St. headquarters are meant to solve.

Major change under the plan would divide the city schools into nine regions, each with its own Superintendent and community advisor council.

Each region would have about 24 schools and 20,000 students.

The plan, if put into practice, would directly affect all Baltimore's 185,000 students, of whom 129,993 are black.

Dr. Patterson has estimated the plan would save taxpayers $615,400 annually.

Mr. Washington named 'worker of decade'

Otis Washington (left) of Guilford Avenue, has been honored as "Utility Worker of the Decade by W. F. Willison and Sons, Inc., a General Contractor from Ellicott City.

He received the award from the Board of Directors during part of the company's 25th Anniversary ceremonies.

W. F. Wilson (right), who will celebrate his 90th birthday this month, presented Mr. Washington with a plaque and a check for $750.00.

Mr. Washington, who has been with W. F. Wilson and Sons, Inc. for 16 years, received the award for his outstanding knowledge, skill and dedication to his company.

Mr. Washington, after 16 years, says "the work is easier today, mainly because machines have replaced a great deal of the hand work. Otis and his wife have resided in Baltimore for 15 years.

One of Otis sons has graduated and two others are attending the University of Maryland in College Park, Maryland.

Omega picnic bus in accident Sunday

The Second District picnic of Pi-Omega Chapter of the Omega Psi Phi Fraternity was held in Trenton, N.J. last Sunday.

A bus load of family members and friends from the Baltimore chapter attended the picnic and seemed to have had a very pleasant day.

Dr. James Priest, a member of the fraternity, stated that on the way back there was an accident.

The bus was going up North Ave. It reached North Ave. and Wolf St., and the clutch went bad.

"The driver got off the bus to call for another bus. Four of the passengers were standing in the street. I heard a scream; the bus had started to back down North Ave.

"The bus hit the No Parking sign and turned perpendicularly across North Ave. It ran into a car on the opposite side of the street and came to a halt.

"I then got on the bus to see if anyone was hurt and assembled the children in front of School 99.

"Some of the children were hysterical.

"I checked all of them. Since then I have checked with the parents.

"No one has reported any injuries."

By the way...

Black unity.

by Joe Black

This is a subject we all think about. Something we've listened to lots of people talk about. Something we all talk about, among ourselves.

But after all the thinking, all the talking, all the effort we put in toward making Black unity work, where exactly does it really begin?

Basically, if Black unity is to build, it must exist on a solid foundation, instead of shifting sands. And this foundation must reflect the way we honor and respect each other. All of us. Especially our Black women.

Black is beautiful, of course. But Black womanhood is especially beautiful in times of crisis. Our sisters have great strength. They have enormous courage. And a very special sense of social conscience.

Social conscience? What is that? Simply the ability to care. To see right and wrong in situations where others may be blinded by the heat of the moment. And to react for the right reasons.

This quality of social conscience alone can help to keep all of us together. And keep us all together, to effect positive changes for all Blacks.

Until Black men really begin to give our women the respect they have earned and richly deserve, then the newly found Black unity that we all think about and talk about is somehow without the foundation it needs to survive.

And, unfortunately, is therefore doomed to failure.

assumes that home ownership is necessary if neighborhoods are to be racially and economically stable.

At the Center, families undergo a careful interview which pinpoints the family's obstacles to home ownership and sets things in motion toward a probable solution.

For some families, budget counseling is in order. Others must be led to a Savings Bank or Savings and Loan. Still, others are ready to begin looking and referred to trustworthy agents.

There are no favorites. Real estate firms are invited to cooperate. Their performance determines the extent of our cooperation.

Families can get in touch with the Center and arrange for an interview by calling Father Ed Miller of St. Ambrose's parish at: 367-9918, or Father Vincent Quayle at: 467-9349.

The Center operates on contributions. There is no charge to the families.

As is evident, much money has and is being squandered on ineffective housing programs in Baltimore.

The St. Ambrose Center holds no illusions about being the ultimate solution to the housing crisis in the city. Production alone will solve the crisis.

Still, with proper guidance many families could they would be "transferred to other work stations that do abide by the guidelines".

The students reported to Lombar High School at the NYC office there on Monday. Upon arrival here the students were transferred to other work locations by Miss Brendella Hawkins, the field coordinator and Richard Brown, the area coordinator.

Richard Rowe, director of the St. Augustine NYC summer school, was quoted by the AFRO as saying, "We are trying to teach black children pride and dignity and create a black atmosphere for the children; we have asked that they cover their heads if they do not wear a natural.

According to rules set forth in civil rights under federal law no benefits or services may be denied, enrollee because of his color, the country in which he or his parents were born or his religion.

Also he may not be segregated or treated any differently from any other enrollee because of his race, color or religion while he is working or attending classes as part of the project, and finally he must be provided an equal chance to use all facilities available to the project.

If an enrollee is denied any of these opportunities, he has been instructed to talk the matter over with his supervisor. He can, if he feels that his complaint has not been resolved to his satisfaction, write to the Regional Manpower Administration.

president of the AFRO-AMERICAN Newspapers.

Discussions were had concerning job opportunities in the FBI and ways the FBI can use to effectively get job information to prospective applicants from minority groups. Hunsinger pointed out that this is one of many meetings being planned in cities across the country to affect renewed impetus to the FBI's efforts to attract more minorities to employment with the FBI.

Davis noted that the investigative work of the FBI is performed by Special Agents who enter on duty at a salary of $13,151 per annum.

Special Agent applicants must have reached their 23rd but not their 41st birthday and meet physical requirements for the position.

It was noted that the FBI also recruits for a number of non-investigative positions. For the positions Clerk, Fingerprint Clerk, Clerk-Typist and Clerk-Stenographer must have a high school diploma plus ability to pass tests to measure technical skills in typing. The FBI encourages those entering on duty in non-investigative positions to complete their education while working for the Bureau, and then apply for the Special Agent position.

Further stated that those interested in applying are invited to do so at the local FBI Office, 608 U.S. Post Office Building, Baltimore, Maryland 21202, telephone 539-6700.

Does More Than Help Shrink Swelling Of Hemorrhoidal Tissues Due To Infection

Also Gives Prompt, Temporary Relief in Many Cases from Pain and Itching in Such Tissues.

When hemorrhoidal tissues swell, become inflamed and infected—it can be very painful for the sufferer. But doctors have found a remarkably successful medication which is so effective that it actually helps shrink swelling of such tissues. And it does more. In many cases, it also gives prompt relief for hours from the pain and itching in hemorrhoidal tissues.

This medication is obtainable without a prescription under the name—Preparation H®.

Tests by leading doctors on hundreds of patients in New York, Washington, D.C. and at a large medical center verified Preparation H gave similar successful results in many cases.

When you consider Preparation H offers so many benefits—it's no wonder millions of sufferers buy it each year to obtain this relief. See if it doesn't help you.

There's no other formula like Preparation H. Ointment or suppositories.

jury hearing.

Police statements show the victim died of chest bullet wounds at the Provident Hospital 15 minutes after the shooting.

Police records indicate both suspect and victim were driving in cars and each had a woman companion with him.

Police quote Miss Charlena Lee, 24, 1600 N. Smallwood Ave., as saying while in the car a man known to them as "Red" drove up by theirs and asked Mr. Paul to stop.

When he refused to do so, she told police, the suspect forced them to the side of the road with his auto.

"Victim got out from his car and walked to the side of Red's car.

"Two shots were fired and the victim ran south across the 1600 block of W. North Ave., and called for help. He then ran North across the 1600 block of N. North Ave., where he fell to the street," police said.

Witness said during the shooting, she fell to the front seat of the car.

Police state the suspect and his companion, Miss Jeannette Canteen, 22, Gilmor Homes, drove away in the direction of 1600 block Baker St.

Mrs. Sandra Mae Dennis, 2200 block Koko Lane, owner of the car driven by the victim, told police she recovered her car, a green 1971 Mercury sedan, at 7 a.m. Tuesday parked in the 1700 block Westwood Ave.
