Early learning Program honors Miss Showell

By BRENDA J. WRIGHT

Miss Betty Showell, director of the Model Early Childhood Learning Program since 1970, was honored again Saturday for her outstanding abilities as an educator.

The Early Learning Program staff praised Miss Showell at a testimonial dinner Saturday night at the Sheraton Inn.

The testimonials and commendations came from co-workers, friends, relatives, and representatives of the State Department and Baltimore City School System.

Among the guests present were Dr. and Mrs. Roland Patterson and Dr. and Mrs. Percy Williams.

The dinner was planned as a "farewell and good luck" affair as Miss Showell prepares to begin her training in the Rockefeller Program for Training Minority Group Administrators at the Superintendent level.

The first woman selected and first from the Baltimore area, the young educator fas nominated by the Baltimore City School System.

Her selection was made publicly known at an April school board meeting when she was recognized and cited for the honor.

This is the third year of the year-long nationwide program which begins September 1, and allows the interns a chance to work in two school systems. Miss Showell has requested assignments in a mid-western city and on the West since she is already familiar with the Eastern coast school systems.

• • •

The program, which is developing 13 education administrators this year, provides the present salary, a travel allotment to major education conferences, living expences, a car and transportation for home visits.

At the end of the program, Miss Showell and the other interns will be contacted by major educational institutions, school systems and other employers seeking professionally trained administrators.

Being recognized as an outstanding educator is nothing new to Miss Showell who is only 34.

She graduated from Copin State with a straight-A average and the highest grade average in student teaching. She then went on to the New York University Graduate School where she received her Masters Degree with another straight-A average.

Miss Showell was one of the finalists in the Junior Chamber of Commerce Young Educators competition in 1966. She ranked No. 1 for the Baltimore City Public Schools Qualifying Examination.

In 1970, Miss Showell was selected as one of the five outstanding women educators in Maryland. She was the only Black women chosen.

The next year she received the Pacesetters Award for creativity and innovation in education for her involvement with the Early Learning Program, which was judged as one of the ten outstanding education projects in the country.

Miss Showell, who has also studied at Johns Hopkins University, was instrumental in the Early Learning Program since she was among those who wrote the proposals and defined the objectives for the federally funded project. The five-school project, last year, raised the average of 181 mostly black four-year-olds by 18 points.

The dedicated educator has definite ideas on educating children. "If I had a personal goal, it would be being instrumental in tapping the unused resources to provide the highest education for the maximum number of children.

Miss Showell has little time after her education activities but she always finds the opportunity to take part in activities at the First Apostolic Faith Church which her father, Bishop W. A. Showell, pastors.

She is the directress of the church's Echoneers Young Adult Choir and a member of the Big Sisters-Little Sisters organization. She also belongs to the International Youth Congress of the Bible Way Church and is a board member of the National Youth Retreat.

"I can do all things through Christ who strengthens me," she quotes from the Bible, when asked how she has accomplished so much.

Her philosophy: "If you have the will, doing what seems impossible becomes possible with the belief you can do it."

• • •

A tall regal-looking woman with an easy-to-smile face, Miss Showell enjoys music, fashions, dramatics, painting and art-work and writing poetry. She aspires to become and interior decorator or gourmet cook as avocations. She finds little time for them now.

Learning to horseback ride is one of her favorite pastimes and when she begins her superintendent internship she plans to begin skiing lessons.

Miss Showell also has practical teaching experience. She was a beginning and demonstration teacher at School 85; supervising teacher at School 53; senior teacher at School 74; an elementary specialist, and an assistant principal at School 95 where Mrs. Catherine Gross was principal.

Her father, Bishop Showell is commissioner of the Fire Board and received the 1966 AFRO Faverite Minister Award. He and his wife, Mrs. Genevieve Showell, have nine other outstanding children. Deidre Showell, is an eighth-grader at Roland Park Junior High School; Miss Carolyn Showell, sophomore at Goucher College; Mrs. Sharon Green, first-year teacher at Mt. Washington Elementary School; her twin sister, Miss Sheila Shawell, is a secretary in Baltimore; Joseph, and early childhood education specialist in the State Department of Education; Franklin, executive Secretary of the Governor's Commission on Negro History; Paul, a member of the Maryland Task Force on Penal Correction; Anthony, supervisor at a Baltimore office of a nationwide corporation; and Milton, a major in the U.S. Army now stationed in Germany.

A BEAUTIFUL SUNDAY FOR SUNDIE — Miss Sundie Washington beamed prettily at party for her 8th birthday. Besides being a beautiful day for the outdoor fun, and the appearance of a 300 pound clown, it was an extra special day for Miss Washington. It was her second party since doctors operated on a brain tumor and gave her only 6 months to live. Besides dozens of little friends who helped her celebrate, her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Moses, with whom she lives on Fairview Ave., where the party was held, her parents. Mr. and Mrs. James Washington, and her uncle, Antonio Moses were present. AFRO photo by Courtney Anderson.

Miss Annie Brown weds Mr. Dennis Wellington

In a lovely ceremony at Huber Memorial Church, July 8, Miss Annie M. Brown became the bride of Dennis Wellington. The Rev. R. C. Meissner officiated.

Miss Brown is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Buster Green; Wellington is the son of Mr. and Mrs. David Spears.

In the absence of her brother, Richard Brown, the bride was given in marriage by David Spears.

For her wedding, Miss Brown wore a white, A-line gown, with a pleated bodice and a high neck-line, that was trimmed with daisies. Her white mantilla veil was also trimmed with daisies.

The lovely bride carried yellow and white roses.

• • •

Maid of honor, Miss Jeannette Green, carried out the yellow color scheme of the wedding in a lovely yellow and lilac gown, with matching flowers.

Equally charming in gowns of yellow and white were bridesmaids, Misses Charlette Green, Linda Wellington and Sonia Washington.

The bridegroom's cousin, John Marvin Heartwell Jr., was best man. Carlton Johnson, Unice Brown and Stanley Wellington, bride's brother, were ushers.

Little Miss Urania Green was flower girl and Master Richard P. Brown was ringbearer.

A reception followed at Lippens Hall.

After greeting their guests the newlyweds left for a fun-filled honeymoon in Wildwood, N.J. They are now at home on Lothian Rd. in Baltimore.

Dr. Hawthorne to read paper in Pittsburgh

Dr. Lucia S. Hawthorne, an assistant professor of speech at Morgan, has been commissioned to present a paper entitled, "The Public Address of Black America" at a conference on "Black Communication" slated for the University of Pittsburgh, Nov. 5-11.

Dr. Hawthorne, of English Oak Rd., is a 1964 graduate of Morgan. She received her M.A.T. in Speech from Washington State University in 1965 and her Ph.D. in Speech from Pennsylvania State University in June, 1971.

Dr. Hawthorne is the first of her race, to have received a Ph.D. in Speech from Pennsylvania State.

Dr. Hawthorne's professional affiliations include: the National Council of Teachers of Speech, Washington State Speech Association, the Speech Association of America and membership in the National Collegiate Players.

LOVELY BRIDE—Miss Dana E. Merritt, daughter of Mrs. Shirley M. Branch of Liberty Heights Ave., Baltimore became the bride of John D. Jones III, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Lewis, of Westwood Ave., Baltimore on July 8. The ceremony was at Our Lady of Lourdes Catholic Church and a reception followed at the Forest Manor. The couple honeymooned in Washington.

Carver citizens organize

Citizens for the Betterment of Carver Vocational Technical High School is an organization that was formed to get on the job training in the construction field for students of the school.

The group has already drafted a letter to the board of estimates, asking that when a city contract is granted to a firm that the students be allowed to get on the job training with the firm.

The committee is also trying to get longer shop periods for the students.

Koinonia dance workshop

Koinonia, an experimental center in Baltimore's Greenspring Valley for educational and spiritual development, will sponsor an Improvisational Dance Workshop, July 22-23, beginning at 9 a.m.

The workshop will be conducted to experience spontaneous dance as an aspect of spiritual life and as a form of expression, to discover movement potential of the human body. Previous dance experience is not required.

Cost of the workshop is $15 including meals; $20 for overnight accommodations.

Koinonia is located on Valley Road, ¼ mile west of Greenspring Ave.

MISS JOHNELL BRANCH has been appointed to the position of Director of Medical Records at Provident Hospital. Miss Branch holds a B.S. degree from Howard University. She is a Registered Record Room Administrator. She is also presently a candidate for a Master of Arts Degree in Personnel Psychology from Teacher's College, Columbia University in New York City. Miss Branch will assume her duties at Provident on August 1.

Animal bites can give you the rabies

Summer campers, hikers, and spelunkers should take precautionary measures against animal bites.

A reported increase of rabid wildlife throughout the country may increase the risk of rabies for thousands of travelers since summer activities bring more contact with wildlife.

If camping or hiking, avoid all wild animals, especially those that appear tame. Rabid animals, particularly raccoons, are often very docile and appear friendly.

Make certain the family dog or cat going along on a vacation has been vaccinated against rabies. Keep them out of contact with any wild animals.

Any wild animals, such as a raccoon or skunk, kept as a pet must be vaccinated against rabies.

Classes for senior citizens

The Metropolitan Senior Citizens Center, 1110 St. Paul St., is offering two new courses for the elderly in its weekly program.

A sewing class, under the direction of Mrs. Susan Hossfeld, will take place Tuesdays at 10-1:30 a.m.

Also, folk dancing has been incorporated into the dance program and is offered to both men and women on Tuesdays at 3 p.m. and Thursdays at 2 p.m.

Mrs. Phoebe Knowles, program coordinator for the center, said that the dance program is one of the most popular activities for members of the agency.

Also, she stated that the sewing course will increase the number of crafts classes designed especially for women.

The center is the pilot project for the Waxter Center for Senior Citizens. The new municipal complex for the elderly is presently under construction in the Mt. Vernon area.

One highlight of Fair to be awards contest

One highlight of the third annual Baltimore City Fair will be the awards contest where winners and runners-up will receive a trophy made up of several bricks and 2 plaques.

The awards contest will comprise nominees in the categories of education, recreation, housing, neighborhood leaders, media and other. The "other" category is left open to anyone's imagination.

The contest will spotlight people who make their own neigaborhoods a better place in which to live. The nominees will be judged by a panel of citizens.

Edward Kane, Fair director and originator of the unique trophies, stated that the bricks represent "trying to build a better Baltimore on the foundations of the past. The bricks are being collected by Fair workers from demolition sites in the city."

Written on the plaques of the trophy will be the name of the winner and the site where the bricks were once a part of the old Baltimore.

Persons sending in names of nominees should write the nominee's name, address and the reason for their nomination and also, their own name and address. Send to City Fair Office, 501 N. Charles St.

The Fair will run Sept. 29, 30 and Oct. 1. It has grown from 27 neighborhoods in 1970 to an approximated 100 this year.

The musical program will include the Baltimore Symphony Orchestra, Duke Ellington, Pinel Ennis and the Ink Spots.

The Fair will be located in Charles Center, Pier 1 and Pier 2 and between Light St. and the harbor.

Special program to be held on drugs

The Baltimore Parents Against Drugs in cooperation with the Regent theatre will present a special program on Saturday, 8 p.m. to 12:00 on drugs.

Parents and children are invited. The program will include the Black Drama Group, Afro [illegible] and a film, Jay Fassett is chairman.
