Ali plans rest after Dublin win

DUBLIN (UPI) — Muhammad Ali plans a brief rest before returning to the gymnasium to prepare for a fall heavyweight date with Floyd Patterson.

"I've got to shake off this head cold before I can think of putting on the gloves again," Ali said shortly after stopping Al "Blue" Lewis of Detroit in the 11th round here Wednesday night.

Ali, 30, boxed with feet of clay in the scheduled 12-rounder at Croke Park. He did not display the fastest feet in the heavyweight division but elected to fight at close quarters for most of the bout.

The 20,000 crowd, which included Irish Premier Jack Lynch, was disappointed at not seeing a vintage Ali performance.

And some in the cheap seats resorted to the slow handclap late in the bout.

Ali came close to stopping the fight in the fifth round when he decked the 29-year-old Lewis with a left-right combination to the head.

Lewis survived and soaked up punishment for another five rounds but the 10th signalled the beginning of the end as Ali hit his opponent with every shot in his armory. Lewis returned to his corner on wobbly legs.

Sensing the end was near, Ali came out dancing in the 11th and a straight left had Lewis going. Referee Lew Eskin stepped in and called a halt at one minute, 15 seconds of the round.

Ali paid tribute to Lewis for giving him one of his toughest workouts.

"He hurt me with a couple of shots while he showed just why all the top men have avoided him. I'd rate him in the top five," he said.

Ali said he felt "weak at the end. That cold nearly destroyed me."

$2.82 million for nursing, medical classes

Federal assistance totaling $2.82 million has been made available to nursing and medical schools in Maryland in the coming year under various aid programs.

Senators J. Glenn Beall Jr. and Charles McC. Mathias state the funds include capitation grants of $2.43 million, which help pay for the educational functions of the medical and nursing institutions, and special grants of $393,365 to assist nursing schools in financial distress.

The University of Maryland professional schools in Baltimore received the largest share of the capitation grants, $1.39 million, including $221,872 to its school of nursing.

The Johns Hopkins University School of Medicine received $638,990.

Capitation grants for nursing went to Allegany Community College, $29,437; Community College of Baltimore, $37,593; Hagerstown Junior College, $13,661; Prince Georges Community College, $36,706; Provident Hospital, Baltimore, $23,772; and Towson State College, $3,897.

Four nursing institutions in Baltimore received special financial distress grants, which were established last year under legislation cosponsored by Senator Beall.

They were Church Home and Hospital, $82,365; Mercy Hospital, $14,000; Provident Hospital, $147,000; and Union Memorial Hospital, $150,000.

Dr. Rigaud, pathologist at Provident

Dr. Andre Rigaud has been appointed as a full-time associate pathologist at Provident Hospital. Dr. Rigaud comes to Provident from a position as pathologist at Clinton Community Hospital in Clinton, Prince Georges Co.

Dr. Rigaud, who was born in Haiti, graduated from the State University of Haiti, School of Medicine in 1961.

He and his wife, a psychiatrist at Seton, have four children :three boys aged 8, 7 and 5 and a girl aged 2.

Dr. Rigaud came to the U.S. in 1961. His first position in this country was as a house physician at the old Provident Hospital on Division St. Mrs. Rigaud, also a doctor, served in the same capacity. Dr. Rigaud was a resident in pathology at Sinai Hospital, Baltimore during 1967-71.

When asked to describe the contract between the old Provident and the new, Dr. Rigaud smilingly remarked, "It's like night and day. Provident has fulfilled a dream with this new building, and is continuing to pursue excellence in health care." He was pleased to point out the laboratory where he works as "beautiful, with the most modern equipment and facilities."

HAPPY AS TWO LOVE BIRDS, are Mr. and Mrs. Lynell A. Brown following their Saturday wedding. Shown also are their attendants, first row L-R Misses Royeal Brown, Marcia Briggs, Patricia Jones and Yolanda Molock. Simplicity, Elegance Reign At The Browns' Wedding

Simplicity and elegance marked the ceremony that united Miss Jeanetta L. Hill and Lynell A. Brown in marriage.

The double-ring service was conducted by the Rev. Leonard Williams of Raleigh, N.C. Guests filled Mt. Lebanon Baptist Church, Reisterstown Rd., Baltimore.

Miss Hill, in a white, silk and organza gown that had long sleeves, a scooped neck and a train attached at the waist, was a picture of loveliness as she was given in marriage by the bridegroom's nephew, John Briggs, of Philadelphia.

* * *

She wore a shoulder-length veil, carried a white bouquet and held a white Bible, tied with white ribbons at the altar.

The bride is the daughter of Amos Hill, Lanvale St., and the late Mrs. Vernetta Hill. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph A. Brown (Maggie), of Appleton St.

Light blue satin gowns were worn by the maid of honor, Miss Yolanda Molock and flower girl, Little Miss Michelle Goodman.

Miss Molock carried blue flowers and wore blue ribbons on her white wide brimmed hat. Shy, Miss Goodman wore blue ribbons in her hair.

* * *

Bridesmaids, Misses Royeal Brown, Marcia Briggs of Philadelphia and Patricia Jones, wore gowns in a darker shade of blue, with matching ribbons on their white hats. They also carried blue flowers.

Clifton Dunn, Knightdale, N.C. was best man. Ushers included Sherrill and Stanley Dunn, also of Knightdale; Eppemetheus Williams, Raleigh, N.C.; Elmo Williams, New York, and Ronald McKoy of the city.

Ton McKoy was ring bearer and Barry Wells carried the bride's Bible.

Blue ribbons and white bells decorated the Franklin St. YWCA where a reception was held following the ceremony.

A beautiful five-tier cake, trimmed with silver leaves, centered the bride's table.

After greeting their guests the couple left for Florida tour, which will which will take them to take them to Disney World tersburg, among other cities.

Among the out-of-town guests were New Yorkers Messrs. and Mesdames Elmo Williams and David Williams, and the Rev. and Mrs. McCauley and son, Albert.

* * *

From Philadelphia; Messrs. and Mesdames Lawrence Williams and Brenda and Leon, Lee Williams and John Briggs and daughter Pattie.

North Carolina guests included Mrs. Corina Dunn, Mr. and Mrs. Everett H. Dunn and family, Carlos Dunn and Miss Delores Dunn, all of Knightdale, and Eppemetheus Williams and daughter Gatha from Raleigh.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Winters and their daughter and his sister, Miss W. Winters were present from Richmond, Va.

The bride is a graduate of Douglass High School. The bridegroom graduated from City College and the Community College of Baltimore, and is employed by Greyhound Bus Co.

Hospital dinner a gala occasion

"The Challenge Is Here" was the theme of the recent Provident Hospital Annual Medical Staff Dinner.

The gala event was in the Gold Room of Emerald Gardens where elegance and good fellowship set the tone.

Friends and associates mingled and the conversation was lively over a lavish assortment of delicacies.

Master of ceremonies was Dr. Theodore Patterson. Invocation was by Dr. Elijah B. Saunders.

Greetings were extended by George L. Russell Jr., president of the board of trustees of Provident; Dr. Archie Robinson, president of the medical staff of Provident; and Henry J. Whyte, executive vice president and director of the hospital.

* * *

Dr. Roland Smoot, Provident's chief of the department of medicine introduced the evening's guest speaker, Dr. C. Alex Alexander, director of Provident's medical affairs.

Dr. Alexander reminded his listeners that from its inception, Provident has responded to a number of challenges which threatened the very existence of the institution.

He told the doctors that "alone, none of us can meet the challenge — as a group, we can."

"We have to recognize and accept the fact that medical care cannot be packaged and delivered by physicians alone."

Dr. Alexander added, "The complexity of technology demands a team approach — nurses, social workers, systems analysts, administrators, pharmacists and a host of others are needed to deliver good patient care."

Remarks followed by Dr. Oakley Saunders of Provident's pediatric department and installation of officers by Saul M. Perdue, Ph.D., first vice president of the Provident Hospital Board of Trustees.

The medical staff officers for 1972-73 are: Drs. Archie Robinson, president; Irving Hawkins Jr., vice president; N. Alan Harris, secretary, and Curtis N. Adams, treasurer.

Dinner co-chairmen were Dr. Curtis N. Adams and Dr. Turgot Jeudy.

Hostesses included Mesdames M. Anne Strickland, Mamie Royster, Bernina Grady, Mildred Marner and Margaret C. Carroll.
