ANNUAL WOMEN'S DAY—The women of Christian Community Church of God recently celebrated their annual Women's Day. The women's choir of Gillis Memorial and the Ellison Singers were special guests. Left to right is Mrs. Essie Dicks, co-chairman; Elder C. Green, pastor, Mrs. Rose E. Green, mother of the church, and Mrs. Corrine Richardson, chairman.

Pentecostal Holiness has Bible school

There is a small church located at 1116 N. Gilmor St., called Pentecostal Holiness Church where the Rev. Mrs. Ruth Neal is pastor.

Vacation Bible School is being held this week at the church where over 100 young and old are attending and seem to be enjoying the classes that are held.

The AFRO visited the school and observed the students in action. The youngest in the Bible school is two and the oldest is 80 years old.

Mrs. Martha McFadden, one of the oldest attending was diligently making a coin purse. She stated she has been attending the Bible school for a number of years. Some of the other things she has made were dresses. This is one of the few Bible schools that does not have an age limit, the doors are open to anyone that is interested in attending.

Among some of the classes that are held are arts and crafts, musicic Bible class. Each morning before classes began, there is a devotion hour where the students sing 'Reach Out and Touch Somebody's Hand,' as they sing this song everyone is reaching around and shaking each other's hand.

Each child is served a well balanced lunch before the school is dismissed.

Music director is C. D. Whitehead, Mrs. Janice Owens, pianist, Misses Dorothy Smith, leader; Dora Scruggs, choral director.

Among those working in the Bible school are Mesdames Elsie Cottman, Sarah Davis, Ruth Scribner, Elsie Smith, Benjamin Williams, Donald Scribner and John Neuims.

Joseph Peterson of Warwick Ave., buried Saturday

Funeral services for Joseph A. Peterson, 1625 Warwick Ave., were held Saturday at the Herbert E. Nutter Funeral Home.

Mr. Peterson died July 11.

Born in Scarsdale, N.Y., Mr. Peterson moved to White Plains, N.Y. where he became a truck driver and belonged to the Teamsters Union.

After retiring in 1964, he moved to Baltimore in 1965 to live with his daughter, Mrs. Alberta Davis.

"He was just a nice old man." Mrs. Davis recalls.

He became ill on Monday and died on Tuesday at the age of 79.

Surviving are two brothers, Alfred and George Peterson of New York, his daughter and his two grandchildren, Mrs. Joyce McCoy and Ray L. Davis.

Don't let your kid chew paint, plaster

IN HIS WEEKLY LETTER TO THE MAYOR dated July 14, 1972, the Commissioner of Health wrote:

Dear Mayor:

For the first six months of 1972, five cases of lead paint poisoning have been reported to the Baltimore City Health Department. While this is an improvement over the nine cases reported for the first six months of last year, it is important to remember that the majority of lead paint poisoning cases usually occur in the hot weather months.

Parents of preschool children are being asked to be especialy observant of their children's activities during the summer months. Any child found eating paint chips, chewing on bits of plaster or teething on painted surfaces of the house should be taken to the doctor right away so a test for lead can be made.

Early discovery of any abnormal blood lead level can be important in the prevention of the serious physical and mental effects of lead paint poisoning.

Because there may be no symptoms associated with higher than normal blood lead levels, the Baltimore City Health Department has been interested in conducting a mass screening program to find those children who may have been eating paint without parent's knowledge.

For this purpose, the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare has provided a grant of $150,000 to the City Health Department. While this amount is less than half of the Department's request, plans are being revised to make use of this grant effectively.

Mrs. Marshall was mother of 12

"She was the greatest mother in the world; she always tried to keep the family together."

These were the words of Mrs. Frances Marshal who was speaking about her mother, Mrs. Lucille Julius, 1035 Orleans St., who died on July 16.

Funeral services were held for Mrs. Julius on Wednesday at the Waters AME Church.

A missionary worker, Senior Choir member and a church member of 11 years at the Waters AME Church, Mrs. Julius also was a mother to 12 children, grandmother to 79 grandchildren, and great-grandmother to 45 great-grandchildren.

Mrs. Julius was married to Eugene Julius for 57 years.

Surviving are her husband; Eugene Julius, her children; Mrs. Frances Marsha, Mrs. Louise Allen, Mrs. Lucille Brailsford, Mrs. Eunice McLean, Mrs. Julyet Cabbagestolk, Miss Genever Julius, James Best, Livester Lee, Wilson James, James, John J., and Eugene J. Julius, Jr.

DRUG FIGHTERS—Students from Columbia Union College who are interested in helping to fight drugs are selling magazines which tell all about drugs. They have been going to schools, shopping centers and making house visits where young people live. Money that is raised from selling the magazines is used for scholarships. Among members of the group left to right are Miss Rose Mary Denby, Allan Sampson, Rodney Morris, Johnny Russell and Richard Smith.

NCCU reaches $500,000 goal

DURHAM, N.C. — North Carolina Central University's success in raising $500,000 in its faculty endowment campaign has qualified the university for the final $25,000 of a $75,000 challenge grant from Burlington Industries.

The $75,000 challenge was offered to the university, at the initiation of the endowment campaign in 1969. The university qualified for $25,000 when the campaign passed $125,000, another $25,000 at the $250,000 mark, and the final $25,000 at the $500,000 step.

WESTERN CHRISTIANITY
First of all, Mr. Arthur Bradford is the son of the late Sonny and Alice Bradford of South Carolina. Mr. Bradford is a world traveler, a geographer, a good student and a man who languages. Within the last 20 years Western Christianity has lost in every possible way. Within the last few years prices have quadrupled. The general public has little or no interest in the church and most preachers have their church programmed from January 1st through December 31st, and in most cases Christ is programmed out of the church. What a paradox! cases members are more dedicated to their denomination, than they are to Christ. There were [illegible] million souls, and Arthur Bradford [illegible] per year [illegible] 1,300 young people who died last year, from the causes of drugs alone, are there drug users among your family, relatives or friends? Christ is the only answer to our individual, domestic and local needs. Chapters of our Association have been opened in more than 32 countries in Europe, Africa and the West Indies, will you open a chapter in your community? If so, write us today. Send for the FREE brochure: 100 THINGS YOU SHOUD.D KNOW. Watch for our TV announcements in your area. Please tell three or more of your friends about this ad. We welcome people of all races and faiths, remember, we love you. We are making special prayer for all people every Sunday night at 7 and every Wednesday at 7 P.M. God through prayer, can do all things, we will be all. In Christ Jesus, Rev. Arthur Bradford Sr., President. N.J. Maj. Fenwick finishes Army Command

Army Maj. Victor J. Fenwick, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Victor J. Fenwick, Sr., Vista Rd., Hollywood, Md. and a 1963 ROTC graduate of Morgan State College with a Bachelor of Science degree, has recently completed the regular course at the U.S. Army Command and General Staff College at Ft. Leavenworth, Kan.

Maj. Fenwick is a 1950 graduate of Banneker High School in Loveville, Md. and a member of Alpha Phi Alpha Fraternity.

The General Staff College's primary objective is to prepare selected officers for duty in the field during wartime.

Emphasis is placed on the subtleties of the art of command. Students are also trained to perform in duties as operational research and formulation of military doctrine.

Landlord-Tenant Commission hopes for rent escrow bill

The members of the Landlord-Tenant Commission met at the University of Maryland School of Law July 11 to discuss their rent escrow bill which they are in hopes of introducing to the legislature.

How different in writing forms of their bill would look.

Their attention was centered on finding a suitable variable which they could use to decide what could be called suitable and what could not. • • •

The eight people who were there decided that they would settle on a geographical variable, where the requirements on a landlord would be enforced only if the geographical area was suitable.

An example of this would be if a house did not have running water and was not in a place where running water is easily accessible there would be no requirement for the landlord to install it.

Only in cases where the lack of a necessity would cause a health hazard would there be a requirement enforced despite geographical location.

Although a quorum was present, (eight), they decided not to make an official decision until more of the 18 members were present.

Police seek man in matron's death

Homicide detectives state they are still looking for a male friend of a West Baltimore matron slain in her 500 block W. Preston St., home last week.

Police records show Mrs. Helen Mickle, 32, apparently running away from her assailant, collapsed and died within the sight of a 14-year-old babysitter next door, shortly before 8:30 p.m. Monday last week.

Police quote the teenager as saying the victim, with blood trailing behind her rushed into the next door house screaming, "Help, help, I've been stabbed."

An 11-year-old daughter of Mrs. Mickle told police on her return home and shortly before the incident she saw her father's friend sitting in the front porch.

She added she and her baby brother were sent upstairs on her return to the house shortly before 8:30 p.m.

A nine-foot model of the vehicle designed exclusively for the Baltimore Regional Rapid Transit System is on display now through July 24 in the Towson area at the Baltimore County Administration Building, 111 West Chesapeake Ave.
